Killing Mother Faces Life, Can't See Son

Little Jimmy Tiernan in Hospital

SOBS AND LAUGHS IN CELL AFTER HER GUILTY PLEA

Riverhead, N. Y., June 18—Blonde Helen Tiernan, who murdered her 7-year-old daughter, Helen, and brutally slashed her 4-year-old boy, James, will never see her baby boy again.

The sobbing mother who faces a prison term of 20 years to life, learned this today from District Attorney Hill as she begged for a moment's glance at little Jimmy's face.

The prosecutor's refusal broke through the young mother's icy nerve, but in a few minutes she was once more wise-cracking in her cell.

IN WAY OF "LOVE"

"I guess I took it on the chin in there, eh?" she shouted to Betty Lyons, who is awaiting trial for extortion.

Mrs. Tiernan's trial ended last night with her plea of guilty to second-degree murder. She will be sentenced Monday.

"Will you permit her to see her son, Jimmy, before she is sent away?" Hill was asked.

"No," the prosecutor said. "I'm sorry."

The plea was entered by former Supreme Court Justice John R Vink, defense counsel, soon after the state closed its case with the reading of a document in which the 28-year-old defendant was quoted as admitting to police she deliberately plotted to kill her daughter and Jimmy because they stood in the way of her contmplated marriage to George Christodulus, Manhattan restaurant worker.

TELLS OF HER CRIME

Mrs Tiernan was quoted as saying she had taken the two children to a "picnic" in a thicket near Brookhaven, Long Island, last May 15, had cut Helen with scissors, hit her on the mouth with a hatchet, and then poured gasoline on her clothing and set fire to it. She was quoted as saying she also struck Jimmy with the hatchet.

Urge V. F. W. Aid War on Bay State Reds

Two thousand delegates and thousands of visitors jammed Hull today for the 17th annual encampment of the State eign Wars, with a stirring denunciation of Communistic activities in Massachusetts ringing in their ears.

The veterans' organization went on record for a drive against radical subversive methods in the State following submission of a resolution by Walter G. Howard of Lynn, past department commander, in charge of the group's child welfare program.

The resolution condemned the fostering of Communistic tendencies among the youth of the Commonwealth, pointing out that at the very borders of Massachusetts and perhaps within the State itself there are pioneer camps where youth are "trained to promote class hatred and urge destruction of all American ideals."

It called upon the veterans to stop the inroads of the destructive element.

"We should know of the existing need of child welfare in our program,' the resolution read, "so that we might be assured of the

COUNCIL O. K. ON 9 HURLEY APPOINTEES

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

With Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelley absent, the Governor's Council today confirmed nine of the Governor's appointees to state office, tabled five and had the name of one nominee withdrawn by Governor Hurley.

Withdrawn, at his own request, as predicted in earlier editions of the Boston Evening American, was the name of Donald E. Mayberry, for the new appellate tax board.

In his letter to the Governor, Mayberry sharply criticized the attitude of Republican council members against him.

Chief among the confirmations were those of former Civil Service Commissioner James M. Hurley of Marlboro as justice of Marlboro District Court and Thomas F. Finnegan of Belmont to the new tax board.

OTHERS CONFIRMED

Other nominees confirmed were:

John E. Fenton, Lawrence, as judge of the Boston land court.

John D. Dalton, Quincy, as a member of the Public Health Council, replacing Gordon Hutchins, Concord, whose term expired.

Joseph A. Dengeleski, Arlington, as public administrator.

G-MEN HUNT HEIRESS AT VINEYARD

Excitement seethed at Martha's Vineyard this afternoon as additional Federal G-men and state troopers and a state detective arrived on Coast Guard boats to press a search for Mrs. Alice McDonell Parsons, kidnaped Long Island society woman.

G-Men surprised state police by announcing that a thick-set man with iron grey hair, and wearing white summer clothes, who telephoned a "tip" yesterday that Mrs. Parsons was on the island, answers a description of a suspect in the kidnaping.

The ederal agents had pictures of Mrs. Parsons with them and with the state troopers began a fresh search of island cottages.

Edward A. Soucy, head of the New England Bureau of the Department of Justice, who went to the island with three agents at

'Boy Houdini' Jailed Once More

Dorchester's "Boy Houdini," Victor Stanwhite, paroled in 1936 after he promised, with tears in his eyes that he would go straight, today was sentenced to a term of 3 to 5 years in state prison in Middlesex Superior Court.

The charge was breaking and entering a Newton garage and stealing an automobile. Judge John E. Swift dealt out the punishment.

Stanwhite was paroled after serving part of a five-to-ten-year sentence for armed robbery and assault in Charlestown.

When arrested about a week ago for the Newton garage break, police officials and state parole agents had a lively tilt as to who was responsible for having him set free in 1936.

He got the "Houdini" nickname early, following escapes from City Prison and other jails.

Schemes Within Law, Probers Admit

Washington, June 18 (INS)—Invoking "pitiless publicity," the Treasury bared the names of prominent persons before the joint Congressional tax investigation committee today, who allegedly have resorted to unusual schemes to escape or reduce their taxes.

In some instances, Treasury officials told the committee, the taxpayers were acting within the law. In one case actual fraud was charged.

Large amounts in taxes, the committee was told, have been lost through formation of foreign personal holding companies by Americans.

The first persons named by Elmer Irey, chief of the intelligence division of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, were:

Jules Bache, prominent New York financier.

BULLETINS

Canton, O., June 18 (AP)—Tracks of the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad, near the Republic Steel plant, were dynamited today. Damage was slight.

The house of Anthony Castro, who has remained at work in the Republic plant despite the strike, was also bombed, one corner being wrecked.

Mrs. Jacob Novak, who has been staying with friends while her husband worked and lived at the steel plant, found vandals had entered the home, hacked up most of the furniture and thrown acid on walls and furnishings.

Cincinnati, O., June 18 (INS)—Charles P. Taft, head of the steel strike mediation board, made arrangements today to attend a meeting of the board in Cleveland tomorrow, confident that the three mediators can effect a settlement.

Tupelo, Miss., June 18 (INS)—Storming a hotel here today, women workers from a factory making women's and children's clothes, seized two women organizers of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, a CIO affiliate, and forcibly compelled them to leave town as police looked on.

Cleveland, June 18—CIO shouted a spirited "Carry on!" to its striking steel workers today to counteract a swelling "Let's-call-the-whole-thing-off" chorus from non-strikers who want to go back to work.

Hundreds of grim, brawny men gathered at Johnstown, Pa., last night and raised calloused hands in a united pledge to continue the strike against the Bethlehem plant there "for weeks and weeks," if necessary, to win a signed contract.

But the Johnstown picket lines were thinner; and plant officials reported work was going on "much better."

A Chicago mass meeting heard speakers lambast the four strike-affected steel corporations, and then sang the strike theme song, "Sign on the Dotted Line."

Cleveland, however, became the focal point of interest as the federal government's mediation efforts took form. The first meeting of a three-man mediation board which Secretary of Labor Perkins named yesterday, was called for tomorrow by its chairman, Charles P. Taft 2d. The other mediators are Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin and the veteran trouble-shooter, Edward F. McGrady of the Labor Department.

Whether the board would have anything to mediate was a big question mark. It has no power of compulsion; and there was no indication today that the steel companies or the CIO were ready to rest the fate of the strike in the hands of such a board.

"We will cooperate," was as far as either side was willing to go.

Taft, a Republican who drafted that party's planks on relief and social security in the Landon platform, hoped to get the decks cleared for action today. Garrison is expected in time for tomorrow's meeting, but McGrady, now aboard the Berengaria en route home from Europe, may not arrive until late tomorrow night.

Taft, not yet 40, is author of "You and I and Roosevelt," a book in which he takes issue with many New Deal policies. Three years ago he successfully mediated the Electric Auto-lite strike at Toledo, an accomplishment that won the approbation of both President Roosevelt and Secretary Perkins.

The possibility that the steel strike, which is costing about $750,000 a day, might spread to the railroads was suggested today in a statement by Alexander F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

CAN BAN "DANGER" WORK

Asked concerning reports that the trainmen would refuse to handle shipments to or from strike-affected plants, he said:

"I told our fellows at Youngstown, Warren and Canton, O., and in one or two places in Pennsylvania that they were not required to subject themselves to danger. Under unusual circumstances it is up to the men to decide whether movement of cars is dangerous.

"The difficulty is that the steel companies and some railroads are rounding up all the thugs in the country, putting stars on them and calling them officers. It is dangerous to work around such men.

"I told our men that if the railroads undertook to discipline them or ordered them to work under dangerous conditions we will protect them."

The back-to-work chorus was heard on several sectors. At Johnstown a citizens' committee, organized to preserve order, adopted a resolution insisting that there be "no compromise with the right to work."

Representative Clare Hoffman, militant Michigan Republican, who offered to lead a citizen "army" to the aid of Monroe, Mich., several days ago, addressed the citizens' rally at Johnstown and called upon "true Americans" to "join hands and fight together to triumph over disloyal forces of disorder and destruction."

Hoffman said the CIO was organized "for the purpose of wrecking all craft trade unions." He added:

"Labor, the employer and the public must not go down before the onward march of Communism."

The tone was different on the rostrum of the Chicago mass meeting where Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy of Pennsylvania was the principal speaker, filling in for John L. Lewis, "strong man" of CIO, who was obliged to cancel his engagement.

LAUDS CIO AND LEWIS

Said Kennedy:

"No power on earth can stop industrial unionism (CIO) under the guidance of that great outstanding American (Lewis) who is leading organized labor to the point where it will compel collective bargaining in every industry in this nation."

Van A. Bittner, a CIO organizer, told the same meeting:

"We've just begun to fight. They (the steel companies) are going to sign or go on the rocks. We've just got our third team in the game. When we have our first team in there, the steel companies won't even know who has the ball."

The stand of the four strike-involved steel companies—Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Bethlehem Steel and Inland Steel—remained unchanged. Inland and Youngstown are not attempting to operate. Republic and Bethlehem (the latter with only the Cambria works at Johnstown affected) are. Inland faces a national labor board hearing next Tuesday on a charge of having failed to bargain with CIO.

PLEDGES WORK FOR 7000

In Youngstown, where the back-to-work agitation has been growing for several days, Mayor Evans told a delegation of several hundred women—relatives of steel workers—that "the time has arrived when something should be done."

"If 6500 or 7000 men say they want to go back to work," he said "I am going to see that the laws are enforced when they do go back to work."

Youngstown Sheet & Tube has stated it is ready to resume operations as soon as there is "assurance that the men can return to work without danger to themselves or to property."

That CIO intends to employ oratory's hypodermic with greater frequency was evidenced at Johnstown, where a strikers' rally was addressed by Clinton Golden, a CIO regional director.

Golden announced that a strike rally would be held at Johnstown Sunday and that one of the speakers would be a "very prominent" person, provided he could find time to make the trip.

Wives' Clubs End Strike

Bialystok, Poland, June 18 (AP)—Threateningly swinging umbrellas and clubs, 500 wives and daughters today abruptly forced an end to a five-week strike of 700 workmen who had refused to accept arbitration proposals.

The men had rejected the management's offer to grant half their demands when their womenfolk appeared and threatened to beat their hold-out husbands and fathers.

The agreement was signed immediately and the men returned to work.

Labor Board Aide Acts In Shipyard Tieup

New York, June 18 (US)—Hopes of a break in the $30,000,000-shipyard strike tie-up were expressed by Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick, regional director of the national labor relations board.

Her statement followed an invitation to the Todd Shipbuilding Corporation for a conference on an employe election.

The Todd corporation owns three of the largest of the struck shipyards, including the Robins drydock and repair company in Brooklyn, which closed Wednesday. An earlier suggestion for a meeting with representatives of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America was turned down by the company.

The question of a closed shop continued to be the snag on which both sides were deadlocked.

Picket Shot in Clash With Railroad Guard

Canton, O., June 18 (US)—A youthful steel strike picket was shot in a clash between strike sympathizers and railroad guards who convoyed the first shipment of finished steel from a struck plant here.

The picket, Stephen Mann, 19, was struck in the arm by a bullet. He said it was fired by a railroad police officer.

Strike Head Asks Senate Quiz Steel Chiefs, Police

Washington, June 18 (INS)—Mayors, police officials and heads of the independent steel companies should be summoned to testify in the Senate investigation of industrial warfare in the steel strike, Phillip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, told the Senate postoffice committee today.

In answer to a request from Senator McKellar, (D.) Tennessee, chairman, Murray submitted a list of witnesses to be called to support his charges that city officials and heads of steel companies are inciting violence.

The list included the mayors and police officials of Chicago, Canton and Youngstowns, O., and Sheriff Elser of Mahoning county, O., of which Youngstown is the seat.

Officials of steel companies would include Tom Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel Corporation and Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Murray also submitted a list of organizers for the Committee for Industrial Organization, in addition to asking the committee to call "hundreds of deputies and special police those mayors and sheriffs have deputized during the past few weeks."

A denial that "thugs" in the possession of machine guns have been hired as special deputies in the Ohio steel strike area was placed before the committee by Elser.

In a telegram from Youngstown denying what he called "vile assertions" by Murray, Sheriff Elser offered to testify before the committee.

The telegram was entered in the record by Senator Bridges (R) New Hampshire, whose charges of interference with mail in the strike led to the investigation.

HE WANTED TO WORK

International News Photograph Service

Demanding that Johnstown, Pa., steel strike pickets let him enter the Bethlehem Steel plant to resume his job, this man wound up in jail, severely beaten. That's the penalty for defying CIO strike edicts. The pickets wouldn't let him work—but he wielded a pick handle rather effectively before they got him. Police saved his life, then locked him up for his own safety.

CITIZEN UNIT BRANDS LEWIS UNION 'RED'

Johnstown, Pa., June 18 (US)—At the close of a day marked by guerilla strike violence, John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization was condemned at a citizens' protest meeting here as being "smeared with the red of Communism."

Meeting in the Central High School of this explosive center of America's steel strike crisis, approximity 1000 citizens adopted a resolution declaring:

"The citizens of Johnstown want no compromise with the right to work."

Prior to the citizens' meeting, some 5600 strikers convened outside the city limits and thunderously voted to continue the strike as long as necessary to win written CIO recognition from the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

ILL FEELING CONTINUES

Although both sides in the controversy received notification of the appointment of a Federal steel mediation board by the Department of Labor in Washington, ill feeling continued along the strike front.

There were several instances of violence in the poorer districts of the city during the day, though nothing as serious as the open riots of previous days.

At the meeting Mayor Daniel Shields, militant foe of the CIO, said:

"This trouble has been brought upon us by outsiders who seek to spread discontent and Communism. The time has come when we had better take things into our own hands."

LINKS LEWIS TO RUSSIA

Representative Clare Hoffman of Michigan, turning also to the charge of Communism, said:

"Lewis has translated the teachings of Communism into action. There are Red Communists in his CIO who are working to establish here the same type of government as that in Russia where thousands have been starved, as that in Germany where those who disagree with the government are beheaded."

He charged that President Roosevelt had advanced knowledge of the Michigan strikes. Hoffman based his assertion on a magazine article which quoted Governor Murphy as quoting the President as saying before election that if Communism broke out in America it would manifest itself first in the Detroit area. He continued:

"How would President Roosevelt know that unless John L. Lewis had told him?"

CROWD ROARS APPROVAL

At the earlier strikers' meeting David Watkins sub-regional director of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, CIO affiliate, said:

"This may be a long strike, six weeks, maybe more; are you prepared to go through to victory? How many will stay away from those closed plants until we have won?"

There was a roar from the crowd. All hands sprang into the air.

The meeting was held in an amusement park outside the city limits, free from police supervision. There was no disorder despite fears during the day that new rioting might occur there.

Coal Mine Boss Shot Dead From Ambush

Jamestown, Tenn., June 18 (US)—Caspar Wood, 26-year-old manager of the strike-ridden Zenith Coal Mine was shot to death from ambush.

Wood was on his way to the mine office when a shot fired from a clump of woods pierced his heart.

No clue to the identity of the slayer was found, the sheriff's office announced.

It was the second outbreak of violence since the strike was called last December 28.

WAGNER TELLS HOW BAD FAITH VIOLATES LAW

New York, June 18 (AP)—Senator Robert F. Wagner (D.), New York, author of the National Labor Relations Act, declared today refusal of employers to sign collective bargaining agreements may be a violation of the law through "bad faith."

He made the statement in a letter to the New York Times. In it he criticized the "wholly anti-social industrial policy" of employers who refused written contracts, adding:

"Anti-union employers have long refused to enter into written contracts with unions as a token of their adamant determination not to accord to the properly selected representatives of their workers the same dignity and standing which they accord to others with whom they do business."

Senator Wagner asserted: "This practice must be crushed before we can have industrial peace."

He said that while there was no violation of the National Labor Relations Act in failure to reach an agreement, "it is a violation of the act to refuse to try in good faith to reach an agreement through collective bargaining instead of strife."

3 COURSES OPEN

"When the government is confronted by industrial strife of nation-wide import, there are three main alternatives from which to select a course of action.

"As a first alternative the government may ignore the situation entirely and allow the strife to continue, despite the public and private losses involved. Very few would now recommend this is a general policy to be embodied in law, although in some cases public intervention may be difficult or even impossible.

"As a second alternative the government may swing over to the other extreme by jumping into the fray and forcing the parties to come to definite terms and enter written agreements embodying them. This represents an advanced form of compulsory arbitration. Ultimately, it would impose upon the government itself the responsibility to determine all scales of wages and hours and all standards of working conditions; for no one can force an agreement without prescribing its terms. This would substitute an authoritarian state for industrial democracy.

OPPOSES FORCE

"I have always opposed this second alternative. The National Relations Act rejects it. The act does not force or require parties to arrive at either oral or written agreements., for agreements presuppose mutual consent, and this mutual consent should be voluntary.

"The third alternative open to the government, and selected by the National Labor Relations Act, takes a middle course between these two equally obnoxious extremes. It neither ignores the strife, nor forces the parties into an agreement which not they but only the government thinks embodies just terms.

"The act merely embodies the principle of collective bargaining. It gives legal sanction to the right to deal collectively through chosen representatives, and it requires that these representatives meet together in good faith for the purpose of trying through their own efforts to reach an agreement.

"Experience has proved conclusively that when the parties thus meet together in good faith—that is, when they bargain collectively — they are extremely likely to compose thir differences without further intervention by the government. In public interest, it is just that the government require them to make this effort.

"Whether the refusal of the employer to enter into and sign a written contract with his workers' representatives constitutes a violation of the act therefore depends on the facts of the particular case."

write an essay of not more than 250 words on "What Paris Means to Me." And do it NOW!

Before the contest started, M. Edmond Labbe, general commissioner of the exposition, wrote the Boston Evening American and extended a warm invitation to the contest winners.

"We shall be happy to welcome the winners of this contest when they visit our lovely France." he said.

So make up your mind that it will be you who will be one of the two winners who will enjoy one of those free trips. For here is what the prizes offer:

A round-trip ocean voyage to Paris, and then 15 days in the most beautiful capital in the world with all expenses paid.

The judges meet today in the office of the French consul in Boston, Jean-Etienne Maigret. The other judges are Mrs. Jay R. Benton, of Belmont, wife of the former attorney general, and Dr. Louis J. A. Mercier, professor of French at Harvard. They plan to elect a chairman and set a date for the preliminary judging, which, of course, will be followed by the finals.

All contestants must be over 18 years of age and residents of New England or students attending colleges or schools here.

Address your essay to the Paris Essay Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop square, Boston. No essays will be returned, and the decisions of the judges will be final.

And REMEMBER: The deadline is Tuesday at midnight. You have only four more days.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures are collaborating, in view of the marvelous response New England fans have been showing for M-G-M hits, the latest of which is "A Day at the Races," starring the Marx Brothers. This picture is now showing at both Loew's Orpheum and State theaters.

SAYS 500 NAZI PASTORS HELD

Berlin, June 18 (AP)—More than 500 pastors of the Protestant Confessional Synod have been arrested under Nazi rule, the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, leader of Protestant opposition to government domination of the church, charged today.

Most of the clergymen, Herr Niemoeller said, were arrested soon after the Nazis came to power in 1933. Ultimately almost all were released until a new wave of arrests began recently.

There were between 20 and 30 in the most recent group of arrested clergymen, said Herr Niemoeller.

Last night Herr Niemoeller addressed a tremendous congregation in a residential suburb. He had to repeat his sermon to a second audience.

Hull Convention To Name Officers In Hot Fight

20,000 IN NEW YORK

"There are other groups in America not having the welfare of the nation at heart but who realize the value of our youth.

"Many young pioneer summer camps are conducted by these people. In New York state alone 20,000 young Communists are turned out each year from these camps, trained to promote class hatred and urge destruction of all American ideals."

The encampment had opened when strenuous campaigning for elective offices began. The most hotly contested post is that of department junior vice-commander to succeed Harry O. Holmes of Rockland, who looms as probable department senior vice-commander.

In the fight for this office are Patrick J. Brennan of South Boston, Wilfred E. Jacobs of Dorchester, James J. Hennessey of Woburn, Emilio Marino of Allston and Timothy J. McCarthy of Malden.

IN TWO WARS

Patrick J. O'Donnell of South Deerfield, present senior vice-commander, appeared sure of election to the post of commander to succeed the incumbent, Joel L. Miller of Dorchester.

O'Donnell is supervisor of the motor vehicles office in Greenfield and served with H Troop, 15th U. S. Cavalry, in the Philippines and Cuba. He is a member of the Hale Clapp Post in South Deerfield.

In the ranks of V. F. W. auxiliary, also in session, there developed a fight for the post of department junior vice-president, with Mrs. Inez Goss of Holyoke and Mrs. Anna Guertin of Somerville, the contestants.

It appeared that Mrs. Elinor Delaney of Beverly, present senior vice-president, would be the choice of the auxiliary for the department's new president to succeed Mrs. Getrude L. McDonal of Arlington. Mrs. Delaney's husband is said to have been the first American taken prisoner by the Germans.

EXPECT 50,000

It was expected that more than 50,000 persons would flock to Nantasket tomorrow to witness the colorful parade of the V. F. W. and its auxiliary. The veterans, their wives and friends poured into Hull in unprecedented numbers last night.

Commander Joel Miller indicated that in his annual address to delegates he will urge the immediate construction of a veterans medical center in Boston and continue the veterans' fight against employers who discriminate against veterans because of their advancing years.

Though he urged members to "keep the V. F. W. free from politics," Commander Miller called upon them to kep a "close eye" and "sharp record" of the actions of the Bay State delegation in Congress and in the State House in regard to their sentiments on ligislation affecting veterans.

It is expected that Governor Hurley, who has a summer residence in Hull, will address the convention tomorrow, just before the parade starts at 4:00 in the afternoon.

At the opening program last night memorial services were held for the organization's dead in the Hull municipal building, conducted by the Rev. Wallace E. Hayes, of Rutland Heights, department chaplain.

Special tribute was paid to the memory of the late Congressman William P. Connery, Jr., who was a member of the Overseas Post of Lynn.

Amelia Battles Monsoon 2 Hours

Akyab, Burma, June 18 (AP)—Amelia Earhart, isolated by a dead wireless, battled a monsoon for two hours today before she brought her round-the-world monoplane back to safety here.

The tropical storm forced her back on a leg of her flight to Bangkok, Siam. She had landed here first after a 400-mile flight across the Bay of Bengal from Calcutta.

Taking off again, she was forced back because of a sudden breakdown of the Akyab direction finding wireless station at the height of the monsoon. Her route, over vast wastes and virtually uninhabited jungles, is the most treacherous known in monsoon weather.

P. F. Duggan, News Writer, Is Dead

Worcester, June 18—Peter F. Duggan, 46, police reporter on the staff of the Worcester Telegram, died today at Memorial Hospital, result of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Duggan, whose real name was Morris Sinovitz, had been connected with the Worcester newspaper for 25 years. For ten years he was sporting editor.

duPont Heiress Wed Secretly

A prominent wedding was revealed in Cambridge today, but the principals were missing.

Miss Denise duPont, first cousin of Ethel duPont, betrothed to Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., was married last May 21 to Carl Andrew Zappfe, 24, graduate student of Harvard School of Engineering.

Some reports today said they were honeymooning in Bermuda, others that they were motoring through the South, and still others that they were secluded on the North Shore.

Zappfe lives in Brainerd, Minn., and is the son of a Midwestern college professor. He was graduated from Michigan College of Mining and Technology in 1933, and Lehigh University in 1934.

Plymouth Noses Offended by Fish

Plymouth, June 18—Plymouth had a "dead herring situation" on its hands today. Millions of the small fish, driven in by a large whale seen in the harbor in the last few days, line the shore for about a mile and extend out into the ocean for about 100 yards.

People have started complaining about the odor and the board of health authorities are at a loss for a solution of the nuisance.

Japan's Troops Kill 90

Tokyo, June 18 (AP)—The Domei (Japanese) News Agency reported today Japanese troops had attacked 200 Chinese bandits near Harbin, Manchoukuo, killing 90 and seizing many rifles in an eight-hour battle.

Roosevelt's Wedding All In White

Lilies and Peonies to Be Only Flowers

Wilmington, Del., June 18 (AP)—It will be an all-white wedding when Ethel duPont and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., say "yes" on June 30. Lilies and peonies will be the only flowers in the simple decorations in the church and the duPont home.

The 14 windows of little Christ Church at Greenville, near here, are to be banked with California woodwardia fern and filled in with peonies and lilies.

WHITE SATIN RUNNER

On the ends of alternate pews, in the center aisles, will be clusters of peonies and lilies bound with white satin ribbon. The side walls of the altar will be banked with cibodium ferns, palms, and filled in with peonies. Clusters of lilies will flank the chancel. The choir stall and the cosole will be decorated with the palms and ferns.

A white satin runner will be laid from the church door to the altar rail, with a white satin cushion, upon which the couple will kneel to receive the benediction.

At the reception at "Owl's Nest," the home of Miss duPont's parents, guests will be received in a bower of banked cibodium ferns. The bridal table, which will be set in the house, will accommodate forty persons, including the bridal party. Seven silver centerpieces, placed on the table, will be filled with bouvardia, lilies of the valley and maiden-hair fern.

OUTDOOR BUFFET SUPPER

Other guests, numbering about one thousand, will be served a buffet supper underneath a green and white striped canvas canopy on the grounds around the house. The canopy will be approximately 40 by 80 feet. The three center poles are to be concealed with evergreens, and will simulate growing trees.

An evergreen hedge filled in with flesh-colored and white peonies will surround the area covered by the canopy. The line of this hedge will follow the undulating of hollows between 50 supporting poles, after the fashion of a chain fence.

Indirect lighting will be achieved by concealing lamps behind a flower-covered valance along the border of the ceiling.

Champagne Party a 'Riot' When Bottles Fly

New York, June 18 (INS)—Champagne bottles thwacked pretty heads today as seven girls finished whirling through a champagne party with Col. Jeremiah Beall, wealthy 67-year-old socialite, in his luxurious Park avenue apartment. As a result, the colonel and two of his gay entertainers were arrested on felonious assault charges.

A 26-year-old redhead who has done three stretches in the workhouse, Miss Sylvia Julian, caused the uproar when she accused Mrs. Marion Anderson of holding out part of her $30 pay.

Mrs. Anderson, in turn, accused Sylvia of felonious assualt, carging the ex-workhouse inmate had bopped her with a ginger ale bottle.

Detectives who crashed the party on Sylvia's complaint found Col. Beall in his pajamas dazed by a sock on the head. He refused treatment, but Sylvia had two stitches in her scalp ad Mrs. Anderson three, when an ambulance surgeon arrived.

Col. Beall, former head of the textile firm of Taylor, Clapp & Beall, is said to have won his military title during the World War.

Boy, 7, Periled By Ants' Sting

Gray, Ga., June 18 (AP)—Smith Mitchell, seven, missing 26 hours, was found unconscious in an ant-infested hole near Juliette late yesterday by a searching party. Physicians said today his condition was "acutely painful" but not dangerous.

"His flesh was covered by insects," said R. B. Wynens, who found him. "He was the most pitiful sight I ever saw. He couldn't have lived much longer."

ENSIGN'S BRIDE PREVIOUSLY WED

ASKS NAVY REINSTATE NASH

Baltimore, June 18 (AP)—Another fly buzzed up today in the ointment of Beulah Kathleen Woolard's romance and turned out to be what she said was another husband in addition to the ensign who was fired from the navy for marrying her.

The girl-in-the-riding-habit gave out a signed statement, witnessed by two persons, in which she said she was married at the age of 15 to a Georgia Tech senior on July 23, 1934, at Glenville, Ga.

WANTS TO AID "CHUCK"

Her story that she eloped with Oren Anderson, the Tech senior, was designed, she admitted to help Charles A. "Chuck" Nash, Jr., her husband, be reinstated as an ensign in the navy.

She and "Chuck" were married, naval authorities discovered, at South Mills, N. C., last August. And for marrying while in the Naval Academy at Annapolis, "Chuck"—a star graduate—was chucked out of the navy.

Miss Woolard, or Mrs. Nash or Mrs. Anderson, appeared here night before last and said she would divorce young Nash "because I never loved him."

Dressed in riding habit, she turned up again last night and said "I love Chuck and always will, but he left me in Annapolis the day he graduated from the academy."

GOING TO WASHINGTON

"I am going to Washington immediately," she said, "to see the Secretary of the Navy and to do everything in my power to regain for Chuck the commission he lost through a foolish and rash act of mine."

Her mother, Mrs. Marguerite Barry Woolard, said in New York she, too, would do all she could to get Nash back in the service.

But Nash, himself, said in Saginaw, Mich., that he was "afraid nothing she can do will reinstate me in the navy."

PROBE $1000 FEE FOR 'BABE IN WOODS'

The State of Massachusetts today began to investigate a $1000 hospital bill for little two-year-old Winona Nelson, Upton baby who fought her way back to health through pneumonia and gangrene.

Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, state commissioner of public health, began the investigation, and an inquiry into the present condition of the child, at the request of Governor Hurley.

"There is no legal obligation on the part of the state to pay the $1000 bill," Dr. Chadwick said, "because the town of Whitinsville is legally responsible. There is, however, a moral obligation on the Commonwealth to bear that part of the expense that might be termed extraordinary.

"Undoubtedly the state's contribution will come from some fund available to the governor. We have no money in the budget of the department of public health for such a purpose."

Winona was found in rain-swept Upton woods April 30, three days after she had wandered from her home. She was taken to the Whitinsville Hospital, and at that time Governor Hurley ordered Dr. Chadwick to provide all the resources posible to save her life.

For several weeks she battled, while the doctors predicted she however, she is at home, apparently entirely recovered.

Harvard, Yale Men On Naval Cruise

With 136 Harvard and Yale students aboard, three navy destroyers sailed from Boston navy yard at 1 p. m. today for a three-weeks training cruise to Jamaica and Porto Rico. The students are members of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps.

Aboard the destroyer Pillman were 3 7Harvard men. The destroyer Badger carried 49 Yale students and the destroyer Tatnall 25 men from Harvard and 25 from Yale.

Cleveland, June 18—Mr. Billy Rose would have made an ideal editor for that famous newspaper publisher who once remarked to one of his executives:

"If a picture looks too big—make it bigger."

Mr. Rose keeps making his pictures that look big bigger. He is a little man of gargantuan fancy. The only reason he has never owned a dog is because he cannot find one the size of an elephant. He wants his canaries as big as buzzards.

He has a positive mania for bigness. The last time we saw Mr. Rose he was talking excitedly about a new formula that would produce caviar as large as watermelons.

He recently discovered Lake Erie, and used it as a back drop for a new fangled show, but we understand that Mr. Rose has since been eating his heart out with chagrin because he learned just a little too late that the Atlantic ocean is slightly larger than Erie.

LAST WORD IN SPECTACLES

We have been looking over Mr. Rose's show here.

He calls it an Aquacade, and it is the big feature of the second edition of Cleveland's Great Lakes Exposition on the lake front. If this is not the last word in spectacles, it will do until Mr. Rose gets down to the last word.

We believe we said substantially the same thing when we went out to Fort Worth last summer to see Mr. Billy Rose's show there. He had built something called the Casa Manana as the feature of a Forth Worth hip-hip-hooray that revived the frontier days of the Lone Star State and gave Colonel Amon Carter a fine excuse for distributing more of those six-quart hats among his admirers.

MAMMOTH WATER CARNIVAL

We said the Casa Manana was just about the ultimate. We thought the great state of Texas gave Mr. Rose the needed scope for his imagination. How could we know that he was going to dig up Lake Erie?

This aquacade that he is producing here is a sort of a water carnival that is housed in a structure on the lake front in which 4000 persons can dine while watching the show. We will not attempt to describe the layout, because we do not care to risk Mr. Rose's bitter criticism of the inadequacy of our vocabulary and descriptive powers.

Some pessimists are muttering that the show cost so much there is no chance of it getting even as good as a Mexican stand-off, but we recall that pessimists said the same thing about Mr. Rose's effort in Texas. They said the Casa Manana was altogether too big for that part of the country.

NET RESULT PROFIT

The last time we saw Colonel Amon Carter he told us that the enterprise wound up even, which was more than they had expected, and that it had attracted a large number of visitors to Fort Worth, so the net result to the business folk was profit. What is more, they are running it again this year.

It was approximately at the same period of the Fort Worth show as is this day in the life of the Aquacade, and we are inclined to think that when the goings-on here become bruited about a little more, Mr. Rose's production will get the money.

It is alone worth the price of admission to see the fine "figger" of Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett, one of the few good-looking lady athletes that it has ever been our privilege and pleasure to behold.

You may recall that Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett is the lady who knocked off a few seidels of champagne en route to the Olympic games and shocked our American Olympic officials right out of their Mother Hubbards.

WALTZ IN WATER

Mrs. Jarrett does a waltz in the water with Mr. Johnny Weissmuller, which is very interesting. We had seen waltzes on dance floors, and in the prize ring, but never before a waltz in the water. You may remember observing Mr. Johnny Weissmuller leaping from twig to twig in the movies, and going oodle-oodle-oodle-ooo.

In those days, Mr. Weissmuller was playing the part of a child of nature, and it always puzzled us a bit that nature had taught him to wear short pants.

A feature of the Aquacade not generally exploited is that the manager is Mr. Rube Bernstein, who came out of Toronto years back, a wide-eyed youth with a deep trust in human nature that had been taught him by Mr. Joe Kelley, one of the old, o-o-old Baltimore Orioles.

OLD ORIOLE TRICK

Mr. Kelley was then manager of the Toronto baseball club and Mr. Bernstein was his secretary. Mr. Bernstein liked Mr. Kelley from the day he heard that Mr. Kelley was the Oriole who used to hide an extra baseball in the outfield grass and field it home when a sizzler went over his head and a runner was headed platewards.

The second day after his arrival in New York the trusting Mr. Bernstein bought a ticket to see a show, and the cashier short-changed him. Mr. Bernstein went home and studied this matter over for awhile, and then said to himself:

"That's good enough for me."

He has been in the show business ever since.

30 MORE SOVIET CHIEFS HIT BY PURGE

Moscow, June 18 (US)—More than 30 new arrests of high officials and 5362 additional expulsions of members from the Communist party were reported today in Dictator Stalin's sweeping "purge" to crush an apparently rising tide of opposition.

The arrests were understood to have been made at Rostoff, capital of the Russian North Caucasus territory, while the wholesale party expulsions occurred at Ordjonikidze in the same region.

While still more imprisonments and executions were expected to swell the toll of the hundreds already jailed or shot, the "purge" had turned toward Soviet Russia's gigantic state-owned industries today.

The new phase of Stalin's drive was reflected in an article in Pravda, official organ of Russia's ruling Communist party, which disclosed that 50 per cent of all automobiles in the U. S. S. R. cannot move because of lack of spare parts.

ATTACK LEADER

Pravda, which foreshadowed last Saturday's execution of eight Red army leaders and many a previous "spy hunt," bitterly attacked I. Dybetz, chief of the Soviet Union's huge auto and tractor industry, and other state industrial officials.

Pravda's editorial hinted that one of the highest Soviet officials, Valery Mezhlauk, commissar for heavy industry including auto and tractor production, is courting the wrath of Stalen and may possibly become one of the "purge" victims. Pravda called on Mezhlauk to "introduce Bolshevik discipline" into the motor branches of his commissariat.

A fresh wave of arrests and dismissals from responsible government and Communist party posts thus was indicated.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

The Pravda article appeared on the heels of an announcement that President Alexander G. Cheviakoff of the White Russian Souviet republic "committed suicide" after 45 of his colleagues were imprisoned in connection with an alleged conspiracy to wreck state agricultural enterprises.

Well-informed observers here attributed the mass arrests and executions not only to internal opposition confronting the Soviet regime, but also to a noticeable lag in Stahlin's second five-year plan of industrial, agricultural and war material production.

Former Soviet Consul Mysteriously Missing

San Francisco, June 18 (US)—Avidly, the 24,000 members of San Francisco's Russian colony daily scan the press reports from Moscow to see if the name of Galkovich appears in the dread list of the doomed.

Moissei Gziglewicz Galkovich, who at 31 held the post of consul general of the U. S. S. R. at San Francisco only to be mysteriously recalled last October, has "vanished."

Not one of the countless friends the youthful and smiling Galkovich made during his two and a half years as consul general for the Soviets here—only consulate general of Russia in America outside of New York—has been able to contact or ascertain the whereabouts of their erstwhile friend.

Dispelling some of the mystery that shrouded the sudden recall to Moscow of the youthful envoy, an intimate friend of Galkovich here disclosed to Universal Service what he believed to be the real cause for the abrupt summons home.

In the early autumn of 1936 Moissei Galkovich, diplomatic protege and "Red" agent extraordinary of Josef Stalin, entertained as his house guest, here in San Francisco, Vladimir Rom, foreign correspondent "without portfolio" for Karl Radek's Moscow Izvestia.

Bela Kun Reported Executed in Purge

Budapest, June 18 (US)—Bela Kun, famous Communist revolutionary and one-time dictator of Hungary, today was reported to have been executed as an enemy of the Stalin regime in the course of the present purge in Soviet Russia.

Dwight Morrow Jr. Plans to Wed

Vineyard Haven, June 18—The engagement of Miss Margot Loines to Dwight Whitney Morrow, Jr., son of the late Senator W. Morrow, was announced today by Mrs. Russell Hilliard Loines.

Morrow, brother-in-law to Charles A. Lindbergh, is a graduate of Groton School and Amherst College.

Building Workers Plan Paris Strike

Paris, June 18 (AP)—Construction workers decided today to stage a general strike in the Paris region Monday afternoon.

Their purpose was to show the government they desired "international unity to save the Spanish anti-Fascists" and to obtain higher wages because of increased living costs. They planned to present their demands to Premier Louis Blum.

REV. JARDINE HERE IN JULY

New York, June 18 (US)—The Rev. Robert A. Jardine, who defied the Church of England to marry the Duke of Windsor and the former Mrs. Wallis Warfield, will visit this country early next month on a lecture tour for charity, it was learned today.

Accompanied by his wife the militant pastor who resigned from his clerical duties at St. Paul's Church, Darlington, England, soon after the ceremony, will arrive in New York aboard the Queen Mary July 5.

The tour will be arranged by Hugh Ernst, a radio executive. Declaring the trip will be a combined vacation and charitable mission for the little pastor, Ernst added:

"He has been looking forward to a trip here for the past ten years."

Harvard Argosy Not Treasure Bent

Vincent Palmer of Milton, leader of an expedition of young Harvard graduates going to the Caribbean Sea this summer, denied today that a sunken Spanish treasure ship was the object of their trip.

Palmer said the party is interested only in collecting rare Puerto Rican canary-size parrots and color films of fauna and flora. He admitted, however, the group will attempt to locate a sunken ship or galleon to film a movie scenario he was written.

Lillian Berman Weds on Sunday

Miss Lillian Berman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Berman of Warren avenue, Malden, will become the bride of Phillip Polansky of South Common street, Lynn, Sunday night, in Temple Mishkan Tefila, Seaver street, Roxbury.

After a honeymoon trip to Bermuda, the couple will make their home in Lynn.

TAX EVADERS NAMED BY U. S. PROBERS AT HEARING

the United Cigar Stores and Whelan Drug Stores.

Percy K. Hudson, former member of the New York Stock Exchange.

Jacob S. Schick, former army officer and resident of New Haven, Conn., and inventor of the Schick razor, who became a Canadian citizen.

Charles Laughton, British actor, who formed an English corporation assertedly to cut down taxes on his huge American earnings.

FIND DEVICE LEGAL

Concerning Laughton's case, Irey said:

"Mr. Laughton caused his American salary to be paid to a personal holding company which he formed in England.

"Then he made a contract with this corporation to pay him back a salary of $20,000 in 1935. On this amount, he paid an American income tax. His American earnings in the motion picture business that year was $190,280.22.

"His device, in our opinion, was legal under existing law."

Under questioning, Undersecretary of the Treasury Magill named George Westinghouse, Jr., as having formed a $3,000,000 Bahamas corporation.

"HARD TO CATCH UP"

He said one year Westinghouse reports from New Brunswick, a second year from the Bahamas and a third year from Jamaica, "making it difficult to catch up with him."

Committee members questioned Magill on legislation to plug up loopholes.

He suggested Americans be compelled to disclose their holdings in foreign corporations.

The State Department, he said, is negotiating with foreign countries in an effort to obtain help in checking tax losses. Some countries, notably Panama, have failed to cooperate.

Representative Crowther (R.) New York, hit the "pitiless publicity" tactics. He asked Magill:

"Except for the case where a man expatriated himself, it doesn't seem to be much new in this that we didn't know in 1935. Would you say that this would account for the wide discrepancy in treasury estimates and actual receipts this year?"

Magill replied:

"This is only the beginning."

Crowther observed that the revenue lost in the cases cited "would be pitiably small."

TRACE OTHER LOSSES

Magill admitted that the total amount involved would "not amount to more than a few hundred thousand dollars," but added:

"We believe that many more millions are involved in cases not investigated and we are trying to plug the loopholes."

"Then let's do it and cut out this Roman holiday," Crowther said.

Deronde was named as having a foreign personal holding company.

Irey said that Deronde on Jan. 7, the day after he received $250,000 from the General Investment Corporation, offered to compromise a tax claim for $1700.

At this time, he said, the government claimed that Deronde owed $33,000 taxes. It was this claim, Irey said, that he offered to settle for $1700. Deronde, he said, had told the government that he had "no substantial funds."

The $250,000, he said, Deronde received for commission in the sale of Buenos Aires subways.

The $250,000, Irey said, was paid to Philip Deronde, Ltd., a Bahama personal holding corporation.

TELLS OF TRANSACTION

"At a hearing held, Deronde said that he placed a $100,000 check to the corporation's account in a Buenos Aires bank," Irey testified.

"The rest, $150,000, was turned over to the corporation in cash, although he was vague on how this was physically accomplished.

"He said he was an officer and director of the corporation, but not a stockholder. When asked who the stockholders might be, Deronde said, 'Oh, they are some Argentine, Paraguayan and English friends of mine.'"

"The substance of this case is that Deronde shipped $250,000 out of this country, and with it went $33,000 taxes that would have been levied against it.

"We don't know where this money is—whether the assets of this corporation are in New York, South America, the Bahamas, or where."

Irey said Jules Bache, New York financier, apparently used a foreign personal holding company in the belief that he was obeying the law.

CITED AS EXAMPLE

"We therefore cite the case not in criticism of Mr. Bache but to show how foreign personal holding companies can be used by the wealthy to avoid taxes," said Irey.

Bache, he said, formed two Canadian corporations, one of them the Winona Development Co., Ltd. He said that Bache transferred $13,000,000 to these corporations. He also formed the Doan's Mines Corporations in the Bahamas.

After the introduction of Deronde's name, it developed that he is also being sought by the securities and exchange commission. The commission has a subpoena out for him, but has not been able to serve it.

Bache, Irey said, borrowed $2,300,000 from a Canadian corporation owned by him and deducted interest paid on this loan from his American income tax.

As a result, he added, Bache paid no income tax in 1934, paid little income tax in 1935, and none in 1936.

Magill, questioned by Rep. Treadway, (R.) of Massachusetts, for a definition of fraud, said:

"It is hard to distinguish between legal avoidance, immoral avoidance, evasion and fraud."

"Is this case (Bache) fraudulent?" Treadway asked.

"I do not think so," Magill answered. "However, I believe the Deronde case is."

The case of Wallace Groves, New York financier was described next by Irey. He said Groves had been "in constant litigation" with Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Groves was described as head of the Interstate Equities Corporation and other corporations and, Irey said, "it is understood" that Groves controls the United Cigar Stores and the Whelan Drug Stores.

Irey next cited the case of Percy K. Hudson, a former member of the New York Stock Exchange.

Hudson, he said, formed a Newfoundland corporation in which he charged off losses in the stock exchange, totalling $130,000 in 1936. Hudson's transactions "seem to fall well within the law," Irey declared, but he said they enabled the New Yorker to escape taxes.

Next named was Jacob Schick, former army officer, who drew a retirement pension as a lieutenant-colonel until 1935, when he became a Canadian citizen.

Schick, Irey said, formed a Nassau corporation and transferred funds on which he paid a tax of $17,000. But, added Irey, if he had paid a regular American income tax, he would have paid a much higher amount.

BECAME CANADIAN

On December 18, 1935, he became a Canadian citizen. He had formed Canadian corporations to which he had transferred stock in the Schick enterprises.

Irey said that it was "practically impossible" to collect taxes from Schick because of his change in citizenship.

Irey said:

"The difficulties of gaining any information about foreign corporations in the countries which we have discussed create a situation in which only the personal ethics of the taxpayer determine whether he will indulge in deliberate tax evasion rather than tax avoidance.

"There is no possible pressure which can be put upon the foreign attorneys who form these foreign corporations, or up the foreign corporation itself, to compel them to disclose its ownership, the extent of its activities or its American income.

CAN'T DETERMINE SCOPE

"Therefore no one knows or ever will know until our income tax law is made more stringent, how many of the hundreds of corporations organized by Americans in these countries are used for tax evasion, how many of them for tax avoidance, and how many represent genuine business activity.

"The situation is a challenge to Congress and to the Treasury to make our revenue laws really effective against those of our citizens who seek sanctuary for their investments by taking them to foreign shores."

After nearly two hours of testimony, the committee went into executive session and postponed further hearings until Tuesday.

At an executive meeting the committee decided to request an immediate appropriation of $50,000 for expenses.

Flier Ives' Body Home on Tuesday

The body of Lieutenant-Commander Paul F. Ives, the Naval Reserve aviator killed Tuesday when his plane crashed into a mountain in Oregon, will reach his home in Scituate Tuesday morning, it was announced today.

It is coming by rail, escorted by Charles E. Barstrom of Saugus, who was with Ives in the plane and saved his own life by dropping in a parachute. There will be a guard of honor to meet the train at Egypt station. The funeral will be Wednesday morning in St. Stephen's Church, Cohasset, with full military service. Burial will be in Forest Hills Cemetery. Ives is survived by a wife and three children.

Grand Jury Drops Wild Party Case

Los Angeles, June 18 (AP)—John E. Bauer, foreman, said today the county grand jury had dropped investigation of the charge of Patricia Douglas, 20-year-old film extra, that she was attacked at a film salesman's party May 5.

The jury refused to indict David Ross, Chicago, whom Miss Douglas identified as her assailant.

CLAIMS WOMAN IN $4500 JOB FAILED EXAM

Charges that a woman psychiatrist in the Department of Mental Diseases held her $4500 a year position despite the fact she had failed in a psychiatrist examination was made before the Special Commission on Taxation and Public Expenditures today by State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley.

Buckley further charged that there were two women employes under civil service in the Department of Public Health although their rating in the civil service was below others.

He stated this was brought about when four employes of the department took a competitive examination. Two of the employes placed one and two, but the other two were five and eight positions on the list respectively.

2 GIVEN PREFERENCE

These latter two, he charges were given preference over the other high ranking candidates.

The state auditor's disclosures were brought out as the commission considered recommendations for major changes in the Civil Service Commission.

Henry Atchison, of the Massachusetts Civic League, urged that a so-called "career" system be established under which employes would be advanced according to merit.

He told the commission that during the 50 years Massachusetts has had civil service there has never been a complete "overhauling" of the department.

McGRATH DOUBTS VALUE

Thomas McGrath, former mayor of Quincy, declared he didn't believe the efficiency of the service from the Federal government down has been improved by civil service. He asserted that civil service has created a "terrific bureaucracy."

The former mayor charged that civil service employes have used "constant pressure" on the legislature and other legislative bodies.

"They have something you and I haven't got and that is security," declared the ex-mayor. "I hope the legislature turns a deaf ear to further extension of civil service until such time public opinion can be aroused either for or against civil service."

Moscow Airmen Reported Off to U. S. Non-Stop

Edmonton, Alta., June 18-(Canadian Press)-Major J. E. Genet, in charge of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals station here, said today he had been informed that Soviet aviators have taken off on a non-stop flight from Moscow to San Francisco.

Major Genet said he had been advised that the take-off was at 2 a.m. today, Greenwich Meridian Time (10 p.m., Thursday night, Eastern Standard Time).

He said his station had made no contact with the Soviet plane.

Both director Patterson of the dominion meteorological bureau in Toronto and the Soviet government agent in Seattle, Wash., notified him of the take-off, Major Genet said.

'Papa' Doumergue, Noted Statesman, Dies in France

Aigues-Vives, France, June 18 (AP)—Gaston Doumergue, 73, former president and twice premier of France, died today in his native village.

The elderly statesman had lived in retirement among the vineyards of his countryside since he slipped quietly out of Paris, November 15, 1934, at the end of his second term as prime minister.

"Papa" Doumergue, as he was known throughout France, was elected to the presidency in 1924, the first Protestant to hold that office under the third republic.

Despite his nickname, Doumergue was a bachelor until he was 67. He was married to Madame Jeanne Grave, a widow, just 12 days before he left the Elysee Palace at the end of his presidential term in 1931.

In February, 1934, after the bloody "Stavisky" riots, the aging statesman was called to the service of his country once again to weld all parties except Socialists and Communists into a national government.

In November of the same year, however, he resigned the premiership when the cabinet split over his demands for more power.

O. K.'s Johnson

Washington, June 18 (AP)—The Senate Miliary Affairs Committee approved today the nomination of Louis A. Johnson, of West Virginia, to be Assistant Secretary of War.

MAYBERRY OUT, 9 APPOINTED

Industrial Accident Board, a reappointment.

Robert J. Rowe, Brookline, as public administrator.

Leo A. Gosselin, Bellingham, as master in chancery.

With the counsel having previously approved two nominations to the new parole board, names of three other nominees were again tabled today. They are Cyril E. Butler, Watertown; Miss Agnes G. McLaughlin, Boston, and Miss Mildred C. Keane, Boston.

Two other nominations tabled were those of Mayor Lawrence E. Crowley, Brockton, for probate judge in Plymouth County, and John J. Kerrigan, Fall River, for chairman of the Fall River board of police.

All tablings were on straight party lines—5 to 3.

There is opposition in the council to the appointments of Butler and Miss Keane to the parole board and to Mayor Crowley's appointment. Several of the Republican members are lined up against Butler for other than partisan reasons. Miss Keane, secretary of the Democratic City Committee of Boston, has the hostility of Lieutenant Governor Kelley to contend with, and Councillor Daniel H. Coakley is strenuously opposed to confirmation of Crowley.

WIFE'S KNIFE CHARGE WINS HER DECREE

Salem, June 18—After twenty-three years of married life, Mrs. Lottie M. Roy of Lynn was granted an uncontested divorce in Probate Court here today on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

She testified that her husband, Herman H. Roy of Lynn, did the following during their married life, up to the time they separated in 1931:

Kicked her on both legs.

Tried to choke her.

Pushed her against a wall and kept hitting her head against it.

4 HIGH SCHOOLS CONFER DIPLOMAS

REVERE GRADUATES 410

High school commencement exercises in Greater Boston today included those at Jamaica Plain High School, the Revere High School, the Brighton High School and the Dorchester High School for Boys.

Four hundred and ten seniors at Revere High School, ten fewer than the graduating class last year, heard an inspirational address by G. E. Eddy, international traveler and lecturer.

The Rev. Vincent Piscitelli, pastor of St. Anthony's Church, pronounced the invocation, with Headmaster Augustine C. Whalen distributing the scholarship awards.

HONOR PUPILS

Honor pupils were Seymour Simches and Melvin Levine. An address of welcome was given by Sebastian Marino, senior, who presented the class gift to Joseph Kilcourse, class president.

Diplomas were awarded by Mrs. Fanny Conrad Janorin, chairman of the school committee. The class song, composed by two students, Ruth Collins and Ethele Lazares, was sung.

MEDALS AWARDED

Exercises were directed by Principal Maurice J. Lacey, with Henry J. Smith, member of the school committee, presenting diplomas.

Muller medals were awarded to Faith E. Hill and Hazel I. Stellfox, with the Washington and Franklin medal also going to Miss Hill.

Maurice J. Tobin, school committee member, spoke at the graduating exercises of Brighton High School, where 397 seniors received diplomas today.

Joseph McKenney, associate director of physical education in Boston schools and a graduate of Brighton high, gave the main address.

Diplomas were distributed by Tobin, and military diplomas awarded by Captain Robert V. Dallahan.

Honor awards were: Washington and Franklin medal to Eleanor Copelon, Bright Elm Stone scholarships to Edith C. Eastman, Ralph E. Montanari, Natalie Gordon and Dorothy Rich, and the Anna Judson George scholarship to Margaret A. Flynn.

Benjamin Myers was awarded the Washington and Franklin medal at the Dorchester High School for Boys, where 356 seniors received diplomas.

Headmaster John W. Regan introduced Henry J. Smith, school committee member from Brighton, who distributed diplomas.

2 Youths Seized For Theft of Boat

A harbor policeman gets used to strange sights, but when Patrolman Dan Doyle saw two husky young men pulling and hauling a big fishing dory along Northern avenue in South Boston today, he investigated.

The young men said they were Alex Duckless and William McNulty, both of Saugus. They said, according to Doyle, that they were going to put the dory on a truck and take it home. An examination convinced the policeman the boat was the one reported stolen an hour earlier. The youths were booked for larceny.

COMB VINEYARD FOR CLUES IN KIDNAP CASE

midnight, announced he would make a public statement but after talking over the telephone with his chief, J. Edgar Hoover, in Washington, changed his mind.

WATCH AIRPORT

State troopers made sure that the man who made the telephone call, from a grocery in Chilmark, in the interior of the island, did not leave by the regular steamers out of Oak Bluffs or by small boat from Edgartown, Vineyard Haven or other bays. The airport also was watched.

State Detective Francis Clemmey arrived at Oak Bluffs to act as laison between the state police and Federal authorities.

Mrs. Parsons, who vanished from her home at Stony Brook, L. I., June 9, and for whose release a $25,000 ransom has been asked, was reported at Chilmark, Martha's Vineyard, in a telephone call to state police.

Arriving on the island this forenoon, the G-men conferred with State Police Sergeant Joseph Fratus, who by that time had an augmented force of ten troopers guarding the steamship dock at Oak Bluffs and watching all the island harbors.

BLOCKADE ISLAND

Sergeant Fratus reported that the G-Men considered the clue promising.

Two more G-men arrived shortly before noon, from Stony Brook, L. I., with photographs of the missing woman.

Coast Guard officials dispatched four patrol boats to maintain a blockade, and meanwhile state police were scrutinizing all persons and automobiles leaving the island on the regular steamers from Oak Bluffs.

Federal agents were ordered to comb all cottages on Martha's Vineyard and along the Cape Cod shore and to be on the watch for a "mysterious white yacht." The authority followed a mysterious telephone call received by police at Oak Bluffs; the speaker was a man who said:

"The Parsons woman who was kidnaped in New York can be found at the Robinson camp at Menemsha. That's all I can say."

It was Sergt. Fratus who received the telephone call. Calling reinforcement from Hyannis, Wareham and Yarmouth stations, who were ferried to the Vineyard by the Coast Guard cutter Faunce, Fratus hurriedly started his search for the missing woman.

There they found evidences of a recent occupation of the Menemsha camp and a hurried flight. State police also reported that neighbors of the Robinson camp had seen an automobile with a New Jersey license in the vicinity the past few days. This was being checked today.

Police had traced the origin of the telephoned message and found that it came from a pay station in a Menemshaw fish market owned by Captain Ernest Mayhew.

FOREIGN ACCENT

Joseph Amancio, clerk on duty at the market, told the police a stranger with a foreign accent rushed into the store and asked for a public telephone booth. Amancio said he heard the man call to the operator for "emergency police" before he shut the door of the booth.

The stranger, said the clerk, arrived at the store in a sedan accompanied by two women. The registration of this car was also from New Jersey and police believe it is the same machine which has been seen near the Robinson camps, which, according to the owners, have been occupied without authority.

State police kept a close watch on the dock at Oak Bluffs when the first steamer sailed for the mainland today at 7:10 a. m., but the boat sailed without a New Jersey car or any suspicious characters going aboard.

A checkup on the records of the steamship company showed there are now 82 New Jersey automobiles on the island. The car Amancio described was a late model sedan in the middle-price class.

GIVES DESCRIPTION

Amancio was taken to the Oak Bluffs pier to assist the officers. He said he could easily pick out the man who made the call.

After questioning the store clerk on every detail of the man's appearance, state police gave out the following description:

Five feet, nine inches tall; 175-80 pounds; heavy build; iron grey hair, bald in front; close-cropped mustache; large round, bulging, unblinking eyes; talks in a moderately commanding tone, with slight drawl; wore a white sport coat, [illegible] trousers and white shoes.

The two women in the automobile wore light blue, according to the police. The automobile had number plates with dark orange figures on a black background and the registration was believed to be E-J-99.

The Federal investigators on the scene brought pictures of Mrs. Parsons and distributed these to the state police.

The Coast Guard Cutter Faunce, in charge of Mate Harold E. Kinnecom, was assigned to search the waters of Cape Cod and the Vineyard for strange craft and particularly a white yacht, a description of which has been flashed from Port Jefferson, N. Y., police.

Postoffice Adds 257 Men

The names of 257 men were taken from the U. S. civil service list today by Postmaster Peter F. Tague for service as substitute clerks and carriers during the three months vacation period. These men will begin work within a few days.

ANGLERS HAPPY FISH RUNNING HIGH

TROUT, MACKEREL TAKEN

More optimism in general fishing conditions throughout New England has been noted this week than for a month previous.

Mackerel have been caught at Scituate; a school of tuna off Marshfield was reported by several sources this week; a few isolated tuna have been seen breaking water at Gloucester, and water conditions for trout fishing are ideal back inland.

Particularly glowing reports have come from the vicinity of the Westfield river, where the browns and squaretails are rising to dry flies.

One angler brought back 12 brook trout, weighing between a half and a pound and a half, as a present for Cliff Farrand, this week.

At the same time, high waters have receded in Maine and New Brunswick, leaving insects as the principal annoyance for fishermen there.

Every bulletin the Canadian fish and game bureau, or the Maine sporting agencies send out now, contains warnings to fishermen and hunters to provide themselves with insect nets, or lotions.

E. J. Newall of Franklin street, Boston, is one witness to the tuna school playing off Marshfield. Several other fishing parties out of Plymouth also noticed the big sporters.

The mackerel caught off Scituate are weighing between three and four pounds, though not many have been taken as yet.

Fishing foibles' department: Seleck M. Sears, Milton, an ardent angler, who has fished virtually every game water in Maine, New Brunswick or Nova Scotia, paid a visit to the Dennys river recently.

He went to spend a week-end, and, although he didn't catch a single fish the entire time he was there, he stayed for 10 days—because:

"I never saw more beautiful looking water."

Equipped with the best tackle, paying a guide, and spending long hours trying to teaze one little rise out of a salmon, he couldn't even get a strike.

Then, on the last day he was there, two young men from Ellsworth, Me., pulled into camp in a disreputable looking car.

They assembled ancient iron rods, picked up bedraggled looking flies, didn't even use a leader, and began to flay the waters into a maelstrom of spume.

You guessed it—one caught a 16-pound salmon, the other a 10-pounder.

That's what makes fishermen lose faith.

A 400-pound bear was killed at Juniper Station, N. B., by one of the sportsmen there this last week, while trout fishing held good on the streams.

The trout weigh up to four pounds, according to Gordon Tweedie, guide.

Salmon on the Tobique river, N. B., are running larger and seem to have more fight this year.

It took a two-hour battle to land a silver-side there on a Jock Scott fly, one angler reports. He ran out 200 yards of line on the salmon's first run.

A number of Atlantic salmon and sea bass have been taken in the fishing nets of Gloucester seamen during the last two weeks.

For 30 years C. J. Sawyer of Hudson has been fishing at Rangeley Lakes, Me.

This week his granddaughter, who visited the lakes with him and caught her first salmon, took a specimen that weighed a half-pound more than the largest salmon Sawyer ever caught in his 30 years of fishing.

On a four-ounce Thomas rod, she hooked an eight and one-half pounder, bringing him to gaff.

John D. Jr. Gives Art Museum Site

New York, June 18 (US)—On the site of the home of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., a $1,000,000 building will be erected for the Museum of Modern Art, it was announced today by A. Conger Goodyear, its president.

The property, located in mid-Manhattan, was presented to the museum by Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller. It is valued at $1,000,000.

here comes the "Sanitary Squad"

CLOROX-CLEAN means GREATER HOME HYGIENE
CLOROX

IN lightening housework and helping make homes hygienically clean. Clorox performs the service of an energetic "sanitary squad." In every home there are "danger zones" that should be regularly cleansed with an efficient disinfectant . . . Clorox. For Clorox cleanliness is the type of cleanliness that health authorities recommend.

Germ-laden white cottons and linens spread infection. Clorox in the regular laundering process makes them snowy-white, sanitary. Clorox also deodorizes, disinfects and removes numerous stubborn stains—even scorch, mildew—from white and color-fast cottons and linens.

Clorox in your regular cleansing deodorizes, disinfects and removes numerous stains from refrigerators, dishes, dish cloths, drainboards, sinks, wash basins, sickroom utensils, bathtubs, toilet bowls, tile, enamel, linoleum, garbage cans.

Follow directions on the Clorox label as a guide to easier and safer housekeeping in laundry, kitchen and bathroom. It also lists many important personal uses. Clorox is always uniform in quality . . . concentrated for economy. There is only one Clorox . . . order by name.

When it's CLOROX-CLEAN . . . it's DISINFECTED

5000 to March at Funeral

Nine-Hour Tribute Paid to Connery

St. Mary's Church Services Are Set For 11 A. M.

Congressman "Bill" Connery's body was in the privacy of his own home today after more than 40,000 persons from every walk of life had paid him reverent tribute as the body lay in state for nine hours in the Lynn State Armory.

So great was the crowd that filed past the labor champion's flower-decked bier, and extended for blocks outside the armory that it was almost midnight before the doors could be closed and the Congressman's casket transferred to a quiet haven with his family.

Meanwhile, finishing touches were being put on plans for the funeral tomorrow, at which notables of the state and nation will pay homage to the man who endeared himself to thousands for his unceasing fight in behalf of the working man.

In the history of Lynn there is no parallel to the heartfelt sentiment evidenced by the throngs which viewed Connery's body throughout yesterday afternoon and night.

150 VEHICLES FOR CORTEGE

From the moment the armory doors opened at 2 o'clock to the moment they closed at 11 p. m. a slowly-moving, solemn line moved steadily past the flag-draped, soldier-guarded casket.

Tomorrow's funeral procession will undoubtedly be the largest in Lynn's history. Five thousand uniformed men will march behind the caisson bearing Connery's body and there will be more than 150 vehicles in the cortege. It is expected 75,000 persons will witness the procession on the streets.

The funeral mass will be celebrated in St. Mary's Church, Lynn, by the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Joseph F. McGlinchey, its pastor, and the burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

James Roosevelt, son of the President, and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will head the national dignitaries and Governor Hurley will lead the state officials.

It is expected large delegations of Senators and Congressmen of national repute will attend the ceremony. All leaves of Lynn police have been cancelled to take care of the huge crowds.

According to present plans, the funeral cortege will move down Bellevue road to North Franklin street and will be joined by the military units at Hospital square. It will proceed down Franklin street to Baker street, turning into Chase street, along Hanover between the two commons, to South Common street to City Hall square.

NAME PALL BEARERS

The procession will re-form at City Hall square after the mass and pass along Franklin street, Boston street, Broadway and Lynnfield street to St. Mary's Cemetery, where the military burial, as well as the Roman Catholic committal service, will take place.

Honorary pall-bearers have been chosen as follows:

Lieutenant-General Edward L. Logan, former commander of the 26th division; Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly; former Governor James M. Curley; Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield; Postmaster Peter F. Tague; Publisher Frederick W. Enright; John J. Leary, formerly of the U. S. Department of Labor; William O'Keefe, former commissioner of education.

John F. Sullivan of Lynn; Postmaster Thomas A. Wilkinson; Postmaster Charles A. Cronin of Lawrence; Postmaster Felix Pasqualino of Wakefield; Postmaster John McDonald of Andover; Postmaster Timothy Fitzgerald of Salem and Postmaster Leo Sullivan of Peabody.

Judge Henry F. Duggan of Peabody; Judge John V. Phelan of Lynn; Judge Philip A. Kiely of Lynn; Charles F. Cotter of Lynn; Attorney Timothy A. Curtin of the department of justice; William Scanlan, Lynn labor leader; former Mayor Harland A. McPhetres of Lynn; Hugh H. Hickey of the Veterans' Bureau.

Former Congressman Michael F. Phelan of Lynn; Fred Cummings, vice-president of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company; Charles F. O'Connor, Charles H. Hastings, Lynn publisher; Alexander Rogers, Lawrence publisher; Mess Sergeant Thomas Dooley of Boston; Dr. Oscar O. Hills of Springfield; and Michael J. Flynn of the American Federation of Labor.

Cousins of Salon To Be Ushers Tomorrow

Ushers for the funeral services will all be first cousins of the congressman's. They are William F. Jennings, chief usher; Dr. Lawrence P. McGovern, Lawrence Moran, Joseph Moran, Philip Moran, Joseph Haven, Stephen M. Walsh, Stephen Jennings, Frederick Walsh and Albert Jennings.

Lieutenant-Colonel William E. Hennnessy of the Massachusetts National Guard, Connery's first cousin and an overseas "buddy," will be chief marshal of the military units, with Captain John L. Pickett of the National Guard as chief of staff.

Organizations taking part in the procession will be the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, Jewish War Veterans, British-Canadian Veterans, United Spanish War Veterans, Boston YD Club, the YD Veterans' Association, and the Lynn YD Club.

YD COMRADES

Congressman Connery's body will be borne on a motorized caisson draped with flags in front of the procession.

Evidence of the love accorded the Lynn statesman was amplified yesterday by the legion of friends who mourned him in the armory.

Thousands waited in orderly lines, tears streaming down many faces, to pass by the bier banked by ferns and flowers and illumined by dimmed lights.

3500 AN HOUR

First person to kneel beside the bier was Miss Margaret O'Brien, 22, of Lynn, assistant secretary in Connery's Washington office and an assistant secretary of the House committee on labor.

Then at the rate of 3500 an hour, people from all stations in life filed through the armory in a never-ending line. Though the closing time had been set for 9 o'clock the doors were kept open until 11 to accommodate the crowds.

Name Legion Post After Connery

Colby Building Fund $1,555,000

Waterville, Me., June 18 (AP)—Receipt of funds and pledges amounting to $1,555,000 for the construction of five buildings on Colby College's new Mayflower Hill campus was announced today by President Franklin W. Johnson in his annual report to the board of trustees.

Dr. Johnson said $391,000 had been spent preparing the new campus site. He said he expected $300,000 for construction of a sixth building, the Roberts Memorial Union, would be on hand July 1.

'IRON LUNG' YOUTH SEASICK

San Francisco, June 18 (US)—To the hardships and discouragement of 14 months of life in an "iron lung" was added today the discomfort of seasickness for Frederick B. Snite, Jr., of Chicago.

With the same fortitude that has characterized his ordeal, Snite passed the day aboard the Dollar liner President Coolidge, according to radio messages, still uncomplaining.

It was the day after his twenty-eighth birthday, a day before his perilous adventure of transfer from the ship to a private railroad car at pier 44 here.

While Snite was combating the illness engendered by rough seas, preparations were being completed for the delicate task of removing him from the ship tomorrow.

Although the President Coolidge will dock early in the monring, Snite will be left in his Drinker respirator aboard the vessel until late in the afternoon, then will be moved to the special car by a specially trained crew of stevedores, gowned and masked like surgeons.

The car will be shunted onto a main track, routed over the Dumbarton bridge and attached to the Overland Limited for the balance of the journey from China to Chicago.

50 Child Actors Greet Newcomer

Hollywood, June 18 (US)—Tommy Kelly was introduced to the film colony's younger set today.

Victim of Truck Seriously Hurt

Struck by a truck as he crossed Haymarket square early today, Dominic Paola, 30, of Unity street, North End, was in a critical condition at Haymarket Relief Station.

Moslem Rioting in India

Amritsar, India, June 18 (AP)—British troops were called out today to control rioting between Moslems and Sikhs in this North India industrial city. One Moslem was killed and 48 Moslems and two Sikhs were wounded.

URGE TEACHER GRADS ENTER OTHER FIELDS

Salem, June 18—Picturing the next decade as one in which women will achieve new importance in industry, P. A. O'Connell, member of the state advisory board of education, addressed the 141 graduates of Salem Teachers' College today.

O'Connell urged the young women of the class to seek employment in other fields of activity, if the teaching profession proves overcrowded for the moment.

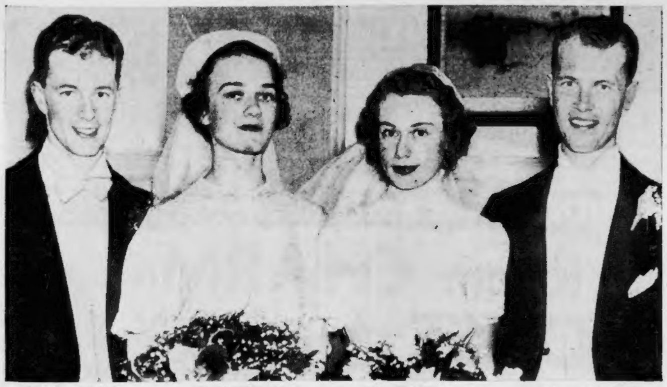
"Fifty per cent of the professional positions in Massachusetts are held by women today," he said.

"Fifty-seven per cent of clerical occupations are filled by women. In trade, retail and wholesale, 20 per cent of employes are women. In manufacturing and mechanical industries, 25 per cent are women, and in transportation and communication, women account for 10 per cent.

"It was during the World War that the value of women in business first became widely appreciated. Since then almost every field of occupation has been opened to well-trained young women, graduated from our colleges."

Dr. J. Asbury Pitman, retiring as president of Teachers' College after 37 years service, presided at the exercises.

BROTHER, SISTER IN DOUBLE WEDDING



FRANCIS CHASE MRS. FRANCIS CHASE MRS. HENRY RUSSELL HENRY RUSSELL

A brother and a sister were married in a double wedding at the Congregational Church, West Newton. Francis Chase took as his wife, Barbara Caton, while Ruth Chase became the bride of Henry Russell. The Chase brother and sister are children of Mr. and Mrs. William Chase of West Newton. The Catons are also of West Newton, while young Russell hails from Assuit, Egypt, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Russell are missionaries. A reception was held at the Brae Burn Country Club.

FINDS 'TYPICAL KANSAN' JUST HARVARD LAD

Wichita, Kas., June 18 (AP)—A Harvard graduate driving a truck in a Kansas wheat field was quite a shock to Mrs. Harry Woodring.

With her husband, the secretary of war, Mrs. Woodring has been touring Kansas, his home state. When they stopped to inspect a farm, a young man approached and asked:

"Did you just arrive from Washington?"

"Yes we did," said the secretary, "but this isn't new to me. It's only new to Mrs. Woodring. Where are you from?"

"I was just graduated from Harvard," the young man replied. "My home is in Fresno, Cal."

"Imagine," Mrs. Woodring laughed afterward, "about the first man I see in a wheat field is not a typical Kansas farmer at all. My home was only a few miles from Cambridge."

Sir James Barrie Better

London, June 18 (AP)—Sir James M. Barrie's condition was slightly improved from his attack of bronchial pneumonia today.

Twin Honeymoon After Twins Wed

Ruth Emerson Chase and her twin brother, Francis Clark Chase, of West Newton, were on a double Bermuda honeymoon today after their double wedding ceremony at the Second Church in West Newton.

Miss Chase became the bride of Henry Griffen Russell of Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Russell of Assuit, Egypt. Her brother was wed to Barbara Standish Caton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Overholt Caton of West Newton.

The new Mrs. Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Chase, and the former Miss Caton were given in marriage by their fathers. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Boynton Merrill, D. D., of West Newton.

A reception was held at the Braeburn Country Club immediately after the rites by parents of both the brides.

FLOYD STIMSON (above), between puffs of his Camel, describes a typical parachute jump. "It doesn't make much difference," he says, "whether the pilot tries any fancy dips to help me out. I like it better when he lets me get out my own way. I ease out of the cockpit, holding onto the edge as I stand on the wing hooking one foot behind a strut wire. Then I crouch down and dive over, headfirst. Now what I watch out for is getting cracked by the tail of the plane. You don't want to foul your parachute. I crouch down so if the tail should hit me, it would only strike my foot. I usually make 2 or 3 turns. (In the next picture Floyd has completed a turn and straightened up.) When I'm facing the sky, I pull the rip cord. It's a sweet feeling when she blooms open. It's like having a seat in the clouds—with the earth rushing up at you." Floyd's work is no job for a nervous man. His cigarette is Camel—has been for 10 years. He says: "They don't frazzle my nerves."

MAN OVERBOARD

FLOYD STIMSON—OFFICIAL PARACHUTE TESTER—BAILS OUT FOR THE 1060th TIME!

Dangerous work—yes—but Floyd Stimson has the healthy nerves that the job requires!

HE'S stepped out into empty air well over 1000 times—yet landed right side up every time. "My order is Camels," Floyd says. "They're so mild I can smoke all I want to, knowing that Camels never frazzle my nerves. It seems as though there's no bottom in sight when I bail out—and my stomach knows it, too," Floyd Stimson continues (right), commenting on how much he enjoys Camels at mealtime. "However, a Camel helps me ease off. Camels set me right!"

MENTAL WORK, too, can be tense. Witness Miss Ruth Bruder—who spends hours in trying research work. What does she do when tired? "I light up a Camel," says Miss Bruder. "At times like that a Camel gives me a 'lift.'"

LEARNED TO SWIM in a jungle river. Leonard Spence, 5 times U. S. breast-stroke champion, smokes steadily. "What cigarette?" he says. "You've guessed it, Camels. After a hard swim, I turn to Camels and get a 'lift' in energy."

FENCING BOUTS are won mainly on quick response. In the words of Joanna deTuscan, U. S. Women's Foils Champion: "Being alert counts in fencing. My No. 1 reason for preferring Camels is they never jangle my nerves."

"I'M ALWAYS working against deadlines," says Foreign Service Editor, J. C. Oestreicher. "My digestion does its job under pressure. But I smoke Camels at mealtime and light into my food with relish. Camels set me right."

Trisect the semi-circle, using a compass, measuring from the point where the perpendicular intersects the sides of the angle, and the radius of the perpendicular as the length. That gives you a bona fide trisected angle, sans Q. E. D. The only trouble with it is, says Morris Earle, Harvard junior, you can't prove it. But you can't disprove it, either. He has 'em there.

ALUMNI GATHERS FOR BROWN EVENTS

Providence, June 18—Class day exercises today opened the 169th annual commencement of Brown University, which is bringing to College Hill many of the most prominent members of the alumni.

Scheduled to act as chief marshal in the graduation procession Monday, which marks the highlight of the four-day celebration, is John D. Rockefeller, Jr., of the class of '97.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes of the United States Supreme Court will deliver the graduation oration, which will be followed by the conferring of degrees.

Festivities were opened in "Ivy Day" exercises during which Henry Merritt Wriston, new president of the university, and prominent undergraduates spoke. An orchestral concert and "Under The Elms" exercises were held in mid-afternoon followed by the senior tea.

Promenade and class night dances on the middle campus wound up with the midnight senior procession.

Tomorrow's program will consist principally of alumni registration and meetings. Baccalaureate exercises will be Sunday at three P. M. in the First Baptist Meeting House.

Ghost Book. A Collection of Astonishing Real-Life Stories of Spooks, Dreams, Premonitions and Eerie Happenings. A Double Page Illustrated Feature in The American Weekly, the Magazine Distributed with the June 20 Boston Sunday Advertiser.

HARVARD OPENS 4TH CENTURY ON SUNDAY

Harvard's first commencement week of its fourth century will open Sunday, as the 800 members of the class of 1937 attend baccalaureate services.

President James Bryant Conant addressing the first graduating class to pass through the university during his administration, will deliver the inspirational speech at 4 p. m. at Memorial Chapel in the Yard.

At the same time, baccalaureate services will be held at Boston's two prominent girls' school, Wellesley and Radcliffe.

NOTED SPEAKERS

Wellesley seniors will attend services at 11 a. m. Sunday at Memorial Chapel, with Dr. Henry T Sloane as baccalaureate speaker while the Radcliffe class of 1937 will hear the Rev. Dana McLean Greeley, pastor of the Arlington Street Church, at 5 p. m. Sunday at the First Congregational Church of Cambridge.

Beneath the shady elms of Harvard's historic Yard, the seniors will assemble at 3 30 p. m. Sunday in front of Holworthy Hall.

Led by their class marshalls, Neil G. Melone, Minneapolis, Minn.; John B. Bowditch, Concord, and Charles W Kessler, Salem, the graduates will march around the quadrangle, passing in front of the statue of John Harvard.

The Rev. Charles E. Park, pastor of the First Church of Boston and a member of the Harvard Board of Preachers, will conduct the solemn rites of the baccalaureate service.

CONANT'S RECEPTION

Friends and relatives of the seniors are expected to fill to capacity the ivory-and-scarlet memorial chapel.

A reception at the home of President Conant on Quincy street will follow the service.

Commencement week activities will continue through Thursday, when the graduating exercises will start with the senior asembly at 9 a. m.

The senior spread and dance will be held Monday evening in the courtyard of Lowell House.

Tuesday will be devoted to alumni activities, with the myriad gay activities of Class Day on Wednesday.

Wellesley will conclude its baccalaureate Sunday with the President's reception from 4 to 6 p. m., and vespers at Memorial Chapel at 8 p. m.

Peter B. Kyne Sued For $50,184 Taxes

San Francisco, June 18 (US)—Peter B. Kyne, whose prolific pen has earned him a fortune, was asked to share it more fully with the federal government in a tax lien filed here by John V. Lewis, U. S. collector of internal revenue.

The suit claims both Kyne and his wife, Helene, owe the government $50,184.26 on their incomes since 1922.

LOWELL SENIOR MOST POPULAR AT WHEATON

Norton, June 18—Jane Gage of Lowell was today elected the most popular senior of the graduating class at Wheaton College during the Class Day program.

Other Massachusetts girls named in the balloting at a dinner held at Manomet, Cape Cod, were: Gertrude Arey, Brockton, studious; Janet MacKay, Athol, humorous; Ruth Fenwick, Chelsea, quiet; Alice Cutter, Arlington, loveliest hair; Barbara McEvoy, South Barre, prettiest mouth; Mildred Rodgers, Norwood, best disposition; Katharine Gammons, Weston, best athlete; Helen Fisher, Lowell, dancer; Mary Hill, West Newton, actress.

Presentation of the Clara M. Pike Memorial will feature tomorrow's Commencement program on the Norton campus. The memorial is a bird sanctuary given by the class of '01 in honor of Miss Clara M. Pike, former instructor at Wheaton.

Ralph Adams Cram, architect, will speak at the presentation, as will Mrs. Albert S. Brown of Boston, Miss Mary Lothrop of South Acton, and Mrs. Edgar Warren of Hampton, N. H.

President J. Edgar Park will address the alumnae at their annual banquet tomorrow evening. The senior dance will follow.

Class day and commencement week officials are Charlotte Sanders, Concord, N. H., speaker; Janet Hoffman, West Hartford Ct., historian; Jean Guttery, West Hartford, and Dorothy Mountain, Schenectady, class will; Barbara Hoyt, Newburyport, class prophecy.

The sports program will start tomorrow morning with hoop rolling at 9 30, and will be followed by a senior-father baseball game.

MOTHERS ARE RESPONSIBLE

The family looks to you to aid your doctor in keeping them well. You can help prevent much illness and poor health by guarding them from common constipation.

Most constipation comes from faulty diet — meals low in "bulk." This condition can be corrected so easily and pleasantly.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides the safe way to prevent constipation by putting "bulk" back in the diet. Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft mass which gently sponges out the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron. It is so much better for your family than constant dosing with artificial pills and drugs.

Two tablespoonfuls daily as a cereal with milk or cream, or in recipes, are enough for the average person. Three times daily in severe cases.

Chapter 37

He had no answer for that.

But after she knew, after there was no more need for pretense, he stopped getting up the mornings when she did.

He no longer met her at the station with the car.

She'd walk the long [illegible] blocks alone, come into an empty apartment that smelled of stale cigarette smoke and burnt bacon grease, walk into a bedroom with an unmade bed.

It saved the problem of [illegible] she had bought [illegible] He [illegible] came home for dinner.

[illegible]

The [illegible] she had [illegible] speak [illegible] when he was away.

[illegible]

The [illegible] fed he ate she paid for the cigarettes he smoked.

It was her money that met the payments on the car. Her money that paid for oil and gas on the car that he drove heaven knew where day and night.

The telephone, silent when they first moved in, rang regularly now. Curt masculine voices. "Ed in?" Careful feminine voices. "Mr. Wilson there? Oh! No, thank you, I'll call again."

Where was it all going? What had happened to them? W[illegible]d they ever find themselves again?

Every Sunday they went to the Wilsons for dinner. Mask-like, their faces smiled, their voices chattered false.

Not that there was ever much to talk about for Marie to talk about.

Just ferryboat gossip with Pop and listening to his opinions about senators and graft and the tariff and taxes and the dole, and saying "Yes" and "No" at the right moment while Mrs. Wilson spoke in a low voice out in the kitchen to Edward.

"Ada says . . . not that I am one to think . . . Bea sent $20 . . . if you could let me have . . ."

Maybe the elder Wilsons enjoyed it, but both Edward and Marie were tired from the effort when it was over.

She knew that Edward wanted to give up the apartment and go back to his mother's. She had heard enough of the low-voiced kitchen conferences, for that.

"It would be cheaper," he said once. "And it will help the folks."

All the pent-up resentment of weeks swelled within her. She choked back the first angry retort, but she let herself say, "You got me there once—I'm not going back. If they're hard up they can rent the rooms. I'm sorry for Pop, but if your mother is so extravagant that she—"

The door shut.

Edward had walked out.

Marie's dark curls were as glossy and carefully arranged as ever, her magnolia-like skin as lovely, her pretty mouth as carefully rouged.

But the pictures didn't turn out so well any more. There was something lacking — something gone.

"You ought to take a decent vacation," Walt said.

He had been South for several months, and he was shocked to see her so changed.

"I'm all right, really. I feel fine."

"You'd better take care of yourself. Julie will be shocked when she comes, and she told me she was coming soon."

Marie looked worried. "Yes—she meant to come a long while ago, she wrote, but Charlie sprained his ankle and couldn't drive. You really don't think she'll fuss about me, Walt? Do I look bad?"

IN RENO

"You look hollow-eyed, and you know you'll have to give up modeling for Hertz unless you put on a little weight. He's rather disgusted about it."

She laughed. "Poor Hertz. He takes things so hard. But perhaps I do, too. I don't sleep. I might take a vacation when mother comes—but not now. I wouldn't like it now—really. I'm happier working."

He watched her shrewdly. "What's the matter, Marie Therese? Things not going so well?"

"Oh—everything's all right."

"Sometimes things do go wrong."

"Oh, yes—I suppose so. But I'm all right."

"Things aren't all right with me."

"Why, Walt! What do you mean?"

"Flo's in Reno now. Getting a divorce. But I suppose you guessed it—everyone did, but me."

"Walt! I can't believe it!"

"It's true."

"But why? After all the years—"

"I've been away too much. She got tired of it."

"But you were always away! Only she used to go, too!"

He smiled. "Yes, she was a good sport, Flo was. Lived in a trunk. Brought up two kids in trunks. But it can't go on forever. The kids have to go to school, they have to have their friends. And the more money you make the harder it gets—I don't know why—but it does . . . however, there's no point in my going on telling my troubles."

She reached over and took his hands in hers. "I'm sorry, Walt."

He smiled wryly. "The time to be sorry is past. It's all over. I thought you ought to know, that's all."

* * *

Edward was taking a nap when she got home. He woke, yawned and grinned lazily. "I'd have met you, had I known what train you'd be on."

She laid her hat on a chair, held her hands for a moment against her throbbing temples. "It doesn't matter."

He yawned again. "Want to eat?"

"I suppose so. I was going to have a salad. I thought you'd be at your mother's, or out somewhere with Helene."

"Well, if you'd rather—"

"Don't be absurd. Of course, I'm glad to have you home. It's just so unusual I wasn't prepared for it, that's all."

He was getting into his coat. "Where'd you like to go?"

"I don't care. Anywhere that you like. I'm not hungry."

"Oh, come off the spiritual plane. If you're sore about something, say so. I hate this high-and-mighty moping. If you're carrying on now, because I took two bucks out of your purse, I'm sorry. I apologize, and I'll pay it back Monday. I'll have a few dollars then."

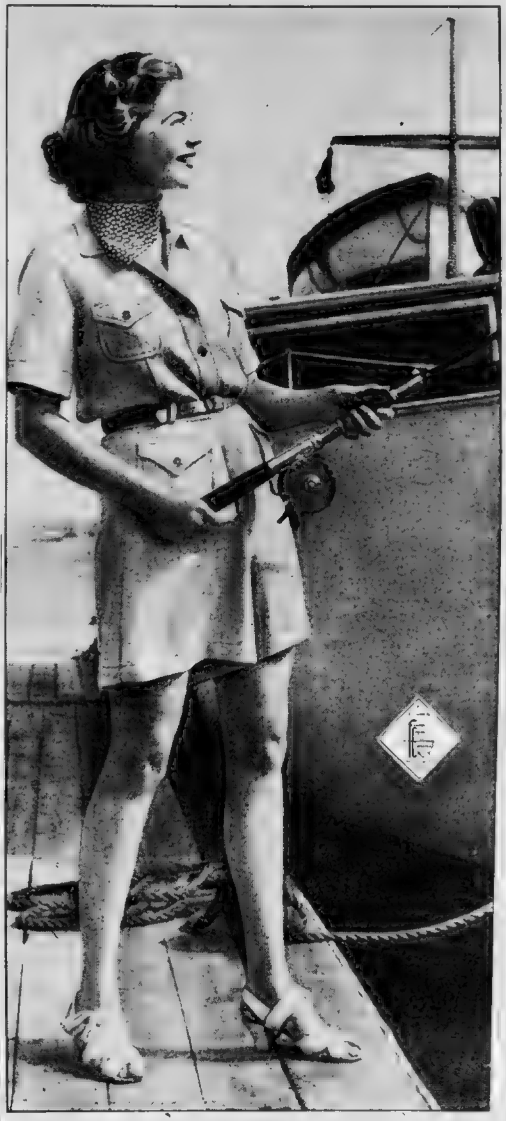
Neat and Slim



SHIRTS, shorts and slacks that are neat and slim as a fishing rod . . . tailored like a Hollywood star's sack suits . . . and managing at the same time to be slickly feminine . . . that's the nomination for high style lounging to do a noble boat or a country patio proud. A set of these important, interchangeable three (of which you see the shirt and shorts above) snared the interest and favor of the Fashion Congress.

The sturdy little pigskin belt which girds the shorts is also used for the slacks, whose front-pleats are oh-so-casual. Pockets are patch, and the brown and white dotted scarf is the only color—besides your own glorious tan, the sparkle of eyes and shine of teeth—to highlight the chic of the neutral sand tone of the Sea Island crash that's the chosen fabric. You've never worn anything cooler or lighter, we'll wager. And all sorts of rough laundering tactics leave the splendid lines and tailoring intact.

Miss Marjorie Weld models this set—which has the marvelous property of so many fashions discovered by the Fashion Congress, a lot of style for a lot less money than you'd expect. For shopping information, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, Liberty 4000, week-days until five, or write her at the Boston Evening American.

Married Comrades

CHAPTER 332

THERE was that in Katherine's voice as she muttered that she must give me a message before I left for home that told me how important she considered the communication she wished to make to me.

It was several minutes before we had any opportunity for a chat by ourselves.

"Did Dicky happen to mention that he brought up a letter for me?" she asked.

"Yes," I answered as directly as she had put her question. "He said he hoped that it carried no bad news."

Her sudden laughter held a sarcastic note.

I did not answer her, for she had neither put a question nor asked my opinion; I knew her well enough to be sure that presently she would tell me more of the problem that the letter evidently had brought her.

"I suppose you have guessed that it is from Hal," she said.

"Who else?" I countered. "I have seen the same reaction before when you have received letters from Hal. Where is he now? Still abroad?"

"No, this letter is from San Francisco, where he has just landed from China. He came home that way."

"But he is on his way east?"

"Oh! yes. He writes that he has some necessary business to attend to in San Francisco, the disposition of some property—you know Hal has a good deal more money than is good for anybody—and then he is coming to New York. And then—"

"Then he is coming to the farmhouse to see you," I said.

"Yes he is," she said. "He repeats what he has written in every letter lately, that he will brook no more indecision, that I have had years to make up my mind, that the situation as—as—regards—Jack—must be getting more intolerable all the time—that he is simply supposing for he can't really know anything about it, and he finishes by saying that he is determined to see me. And you must tell him from me that I can never see him, never!"

"You are using the wrong word," I said quietly. "You mean that you do not dare to see him."

SLIMMING PROGRAM VARIES WITH AGE

By IDA JEAN KAIN

SLIMMING can be a beauty regime that leaves you looking seven years younger—provided you act your age while reducing. To be a successful slimmer, at your various ages, you need:

From thirty to forty: Rigorous diet and vigorous exercise to ward off the middle-age spread.

From fifty on: Massage and stretching.

In other words hang on to your youth with exercise—and don't overeat at any age.

Career girls need exercise. The hipline can spread an inch and a half in just one year, but dieting is not the cure for a sedentary job. Your best bet is to make a hobby of outdoor recreation.

Second best is to keep good looking at a minimum [illegible] daily dozen. At three worn [illegible] As to diet, watch the carbohydrates and eat carrots instead of candy.

Every modern girl may [illegible] have been born in the [illegible] beauty class, but [illegible] usually grins at Mother [illegible] and goes her one [illegible].

[illegible] there are no real [illegible] women these days, [illegible] slovenly or [illegible].

[illegible] permanent wave has [illegible] the stringy hair of a [illegible] ago into an attractive [illegible] frame for any type of [illegible].

[illegible] complexions are to be [illegible] taking thought and a [illegible] necessarily makeup, but [illegible] and cream skin that [illegible] careful tending.

[illegible] DUMB DORAS

[illegible] any woman who can [illegible] be a dumb Dora. [illegible] learn how to write a letter if she will only take [illegible].

[illegible] all means she will not [illegible] that most potent of love [illegible] cooking. Please don't [illegible] I'm advising you to hang [illegible] cookstove as women did [illegible] grandmother's day. I'm [illegible].

[illegible] every woman can learn [illegible] make good coffee, tea, co[illegible] biscuits, an omelet, a salad, even a pie such as [illegible] made.

[illegible] attractive appearance, a certain amount of liveliness, and a [illegible] hand in turning out a few [illegible] dishes are far more potent philters than you're able to [illegible] from any soothsayer, no matter what you may pay for them. My advice to all women is THINK TWICE BEFORE YOU CONSULT FORTUNE TELLERS AND PALMISTS. SPEND MONEY ON YOURSELF.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

[illegible] have known a certain girl [illegible] a long time. I danced with [illegible] at a party one night, and [illegible] both enjoyed ourselves immensely. I like her and I think [illegible] likes me.

While we were dancing, she [illegible] me to her house some [illegible].

But I am in doubt as to whether I should go, as she is going [illegible] with a friend of mine, the man [illegible] brought her to the dancing party.

I would like to go to see her, [illegible] it has been three weeks since [illegible] party, and it may be too [illegible].

[illegible] I should call her [illegible] and [illegible] her, [illegible] M. R.

[illegible] men had your fine-spun [illegible] of the obligations of friendship, the world would stop for [illegible] mating.

[illegible] means call, but I would [illegible] you call up for a date. [illegible] the girl is not engaged to [illegible] friend, that doesn't require [illegible] is off" policy.

Keep Teeth White

POSED BY MARGARET LINDSAY

Bicarbonate of Soda In New Toothpaste

By ARLINE GOULD

HAVE you ever stopped to consider how really devastating a lovely smile and flashing white teeth can be?

That they continue to ensnare mankind, is a well established fact. And all the artificial roses you put in your cheeks—or eyelashes on your own sparse winkers—can't hold a candle by contrast to their charm.

This may account for the fact that we get more or less excited over any kind of a tooth paste designed to make the matter of mouth hygiene a more pleasant thing.

Dentifrices that accomplish the impossible have yet to be found. We know that tooth decay will occur in some instances regardless of the choicest bit of coddling that can be endowed on them.

But a tooth paste or powder that gives a sweet fresh feeling to the mouth while at the same time keeping teeth as pearly and sparkling as a hound's tooth ... ah! that is something, is it not?

We all know how good bicarbonate of soda and salt is for the teeth. Well, we've had a very fine salt tooth paste given us recently, and now along comes one with bicarbonate of soda (as the chief ingredient) to make things eevn better.

This particular affair is little known, because it is very, very new and besides is manufactured only under the supervision of a very noted dentist. It seems hardly necessary for us to say that the formula is his exclusively and is quite a remarkable thing all around.

For instance, it is extraordinarily soluble in water. This means, of course, that there are no minute particles ever left on your teeth with which to irritate tender gums.

It makes your teeth infinitely white and clean, too, but the fresh, cool taste it leaves in your mouth is really what has endeared it to us. It is exclusive with one down-town apothecary and isn't at all expensive, either.

To learn the name of this special formula dentifrice that comes in paste form, call Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, week days until 5, or write to her at the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fashion Flashes

In a recent showing ric-rac is used generously in a frock for "beach-combing." The tight peasant bodice and frivolous puff sleeves create a playful mood, which is accentuated by several yards of chintz in the swirling skirt. While patently for the beach, it appeared also on the streets, in the gardens and at informal teas.

• • •

Blue denim is another material which is in revolt. It leaves the work-a-day world to take a leading place in sports clothes. A rugged little number is fashioned as a two-piece dress. The skirt is slim and pert and straight. The coat is short and saucy and tailored. Seaming with white or red thread gives it that dash which is so necessary this season.

Betty Alden on 'Beacon Hill'

Mary Elizabeth Stanwood Bride Of Horace Guy Crockett, Jr.

By BETTY ALDEN

THE BICYCLES and horses and buggies in Bermuda . . . and the languorous, unhurried mode of living which makes one feel as if history had been turned back several generations from our swift-moving times . . . are evidently the greatest attractions of that southern island . . . and not the much touted weather . . .

MARY ELIZABETH STANWOOD

When it is winter time here it is easy to understand why honeymooners choose a semi-tropic climate for their vacations . . . but at this season of the year when our own climate offers everything anyone could ask in both warmth and variety, it can only be the picturesque novelty and slow mode of living which attracts so many young couples . . .

A number of this week-end's newlywed couples are sailing for a Bermuda honeymoon . . . among them Mary Elizabeth Stanwood and Horace Guy Crockett, Jr., who are reciting their marriage vows this afternoon in St. Andrews Church in Wellesley . . . "M. E." as the bride is intimately known, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Stanwood of Wellesley, who are giving a wedding reception at the Wellesley Country Club following the ceremony . . .

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Guy Crockett of Glen Ridge, N. J. . . .

"M. E." has chosen a bridal costume of white satin with a high neck and standup collar, with an heirloom lace veil of rose point and a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley, to set off her dark curly hair and bright, radiant eyes . . .

Her maid of honor, Miss Janet Knight of Wellesley Hills, is wearing an individual gown of white net over a white slip trimmed at the hem and neckline with bands of salmon pink . . . Her hat is a turban model of white trimmed with salmon and she is carrying African daisies of the same shade combined with white babies breath . . .

Four bridesmaids are marching in the bridal procession . . . all gowned in similar frocks of apple green net with white turbans trimmed with green, and bouquets of maiden hair fern with babies breath . . . They are the Misses Mary Merrill of Hartford, Ct., Hannah Cheney of South Manchester, Ct., Catherine Dent of Chicago, fiancee of the bride's brother, Christopher Stanwood; and Mrs. Donald Stewart of New York . . .

For her going away costume, Mary Elizabeth has selected a grey suit with a cerise hat and accessories . . . Mrs. Stanwood will receive in a gown of navy blue lace and marquisette and the bridegroom's mother has chosen a gown of powder blue chiffon . . . George Johnston of Scarsdale, N. Y., is serving as best man . . .

The bride is a graduate of Beaver Country Day and Sarah Lawrence College and Mr. Crockett graduated from Princeton in 1933 and is receiving his degree from Harvard Law School this month. After their Bermuda honeymoon the bridal couple will be at home at 1 Primus avenue, Boston, after July 20 . . .

Who's Who Along the South Shore

THE SOUTH SHORE does not boast of a handy little booklet such as the North Shore Who's Who, which will be off the presses around the first of July . . . but many social families prefer the sand dunes, less rugged shoreline and the decidedly warmer temperature of the water on Cape Cod and in order to ferret them out we have to do a little who's whoing of our own . . . A bit of delving into real estate matters disclosed the news that Mrs. Bayard Thayer's house at Yarmouth is occupied for the season by Mr. and Mrs. John Simpkins . . . while Mr. Simpkin's brother-in-law and sister, the Walter Tafts and their sons, are also ensconced at Yarmouth for the summer . . .

Mrs. Crocker Champie of Brookline has forgone the formal social life at North Haven, Maine, where she has frequently visited her mother, Mrs. Norman Harrower of Fitchburg, for a less formal existence amid the soft sea breezes on Martha's Vineyard . . . Her little daughter is with her and among their summer neighbors are the W. Prescott Fays, who moved down after the wedding of Mrs. Fay's niece, the former Jane Gilbert Smith, to David Rush . . . Jane's parents, Dr. and Mrs. George Gilbert Smith also postponed moving to their summer home at Ipswich until after bidding the bridal couple bon voyage on their honeymoon trip . . .

Ellanor Petri and Jane Halladay, two of the new season's debs, are getting an early start in tackling the responsibilities and duties incumbent upon every deb who takes her first season out seriously . . . despite popular notions, the deb's life is not all parties and frills . . . witness the number of girls who are spending a whole month this summer doing volunteer work at Children's Island Sanitarium off Marblehead, where hundreds of little children are given a healthful summer vacation . . . Jane Halladay is going to be at Children's Island for July . . . and Ellanor's time will be very much occupied as a councillor at Camp Alford, near Camden, Maine . . .

SAILIN' Time Here Again— She's Happy

THE WAY VIRGINIA ANDERSON grabs the two hand ropes and swings out of her dory onto the Eastern Yacht Club's landing float in Marblehead harbor, looks a bit risky to a landlubber, but it's all in the day's fun to North Shore sailorettes who have spent every summer in and out of yachts. Miss Anderson is the daughter of Henry Anderson of Boston and Marblehead.

BRIDAL

Marion Cassidy Plans Ceremony Saturday

One of the season's loveliest brides will be Marion Virginia Cassidy, who has chosen Saturday as the day for her wedding to Bernard Swift McNamara. The ceremony, which takes place at 10 o'clock in St. Thomas Aquinas Church in Jamaica Plain, will be followed by a reception and breakfast in the Sheraton Room of the Copley Plaza.

Kay Donovan of Dorchester, a classmate of Marion's at Roxbury Notre Dame, will be maid of honor. A quartet of attractive girls will serve as bridesmaids, Claire O'Brien of Dorchester, Kathleen Field of South Boston, Anne O'Reilly Carven of Belmont, all classmates of the future Mrs. McNamara at Emmanuel College, and Frances Ellis.

William McNamara will act as his brother's best man. Ushers will be Edward Gallagher, Gerry Moore, Harry Rackett, Joseph O'Reilly, Joseph Carven and Fred Moore.

The popular bride-elect has been feted at a series of parties. Kay Field was hostess at a house party at Wessagusett. Claire O'Brien entertained at luncheon at the Copley-Plaza and the class of 1935 at Emmanuel honored Marion at tea at the Hotel Statler.

Two of her classmates, who have recently joined the ranks of young matrons, gave parties in her honor. Mrs. Douglas Wheeler, the former Shirley Fay, entertained at her Waban home and Mrs. Joseph Carven, who before her wedding was Anne O'Reilly, gave a buffet supper at her home in Belmont.

Debs Join Sailing Fans At Eastern Yacht Club

Yesterday turned out to be a perfect day for the sailors at the Eastern Yacht Club at Marblehead. A brisk breeze provided plenty of excitement and speed.

Nancy Leiter, the Charles Francis Adams, Morgan Harris and a number of other well known sailors and sailorettes engaged in races around the outside course to practice for more serious competition later in the season.

A large group of debs sailed together with Anne Motley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Motley. Members of this crew included Olivia Ames and Deborah Sprague.

Mr. and Mrs. B Devereux Barker had a party on board their yacht. The guests included their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Barker, Jr., the latter in a lavender tweed coat and a bandana tied gypsy style over her head and under her chin, and Miss Betty Foster in a bright canary yellow tweed coat with a navy dress and hat.

Laud New Davies Film

Star at Best in "Ever Since Eve"

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Hollywood, June 18— Ever Since Eve," Marion Davies' latest Cosmopolitan Warner Brothers comedy drama, proved last night beyond the shadow of a doubt it is definitely a real audience picture.

Previewed at Warner Brothers Hollywood Theater before an audience which included critical newspaper folk, it brought such spontaneous reaction of applause and genuine laughter that those who saw it promptly put it down as a sure-fire hit. At times the laughter drowned out the clever dialogue.

Marion Davies who has achieved many successes as one of the screen's foremost actresses does her best work in a long time. She offers a performance that again puts her in the front row of screen comediennes.

PLAYS DUAL ROLE

Marion plays a dual role—that of a bespectacled, drab secretary who dons this disguise to keep amorous employers from making love to her.

But thank goodness we also see her in smart clothes as her own beautiful self. It is in the hideous disguise that she seeks employment and eventually finds it in a playboy author.

The character of play-boy author is perfect for Robert Montgomery—he better than any actor I know gives the proper finesse and interest to these bon vivant characterizations. His lightness, his gayety and his hatred of work provide Bob with one of his best vehicles.

I really didn't mean to write a bona fide review until the picture opened officially in our local theater. But I am so delighted with the picture and so certain of its success I just found my typewriter going ahead.

OTHERS TO CHEER

You will not only love Marion and Bob, but you will also cheer Patsy Kelly. What a trouper that gal is—bless her Irish heart! She had the preview audience with her every speck of the day.

Allen Jenkins as the plumber-suitor of Patsy, is another who won applause and roars of laughter.

Come to think of it, this is really a cast of comedy actors. Louise Fazenda, who wears mannish clothes and goes under the pseudonym of "mister," and Frank McHugh (who writes camp fire girl stuff under the nom de plume of "Mabel de Crave") vice versa, are two other expert farciers who add much to the comedy value of this picture.

We must not forget to compliment Director Lloyd Bacon, who has given us such splendid entertainment.

You will like Marcia Ralston, too, who is a combination of Joan Crawford and Merle Oberon. She is one of the most attractive heavies I have seen in many a day, and a perfect foil for Marion's blonde beauty.

CLOTHES BIG HIT

And here is just a postscript:

Marion's clothes, designed by Orry Kelly, are so smart some of those who saw them at the preview, decided they were worth copying.

When you can get a blase Hollywood preview audience to vote favorably for any picture—you know you have a real hit.

Honeymoon Palace For Gene Raymonds

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Los Angeles, June 18—Here's a surprise for you. Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond are honeymooning in their own home in Bel Air, and if you'll pardon me I'll go romantic for the moment and tell you all about it.

Looks very much to me as if the same thing's happening to Miriam Hopkins that happened to Claudette Colbert. She will be a comedienne whether she likes it or not, and all because comedy seems to be the thing these days.

RKO, which has Miriam under contract for two pictures, has bought "Love on Parole" for her, a comedy of a judge's daughter to whom a big town playboy is paroled. This is scheduled for late fall with Edward Kaufman producing. So she will probably do "The Duchess of Broadway" for Sam Goldwyn before the RKO "Opera."

Seems like turn about must be fair play, since the New York Theater Guild is raiding Hollywood for talent after we have stolen so much talent from them. First, Sylvia Sidney was signed for the Ben Hecht play, "To Quito and Back," which opens September 6, and now comes word that Elizabeth Young Mankiewicz will do the Sidney Howard play. It's interesting to remember that Sylvia was once a Theater Guild scholar, before they dismissed her for staying out after 10 o'clock with a boy friend.

BOSTON after DARK

FOR the sequel to this, one and all must wait till the honeymoon is over . . . Then one official in a city far from Boston is in for a nice whaling from a fellow official—the one who went on the bridal, in a very angry mood indeed . . . It must be a distorted mind a lad wears to pull a trick like that which stewed out of the first official's hat . . . We'll call him Official A—which perhaps is flattery . . . We'll call the bridegrom Official B, which is where a bridegroom winds up eventually anyway—in 2nd place, behind the little woman . . . Well, Official B had been going with a girl for some time, but switched to a new one . . . A few days ago they walked to the altar and had it done . . . But there were a nervous few hours—and why?

GEORGE HOLLAND

Because Official A, whose smile to your face is sweetness and light, had been going around town, saying: "Isn't it too bad about Official B? I hope it [illegible] but I hear he's being served with breach of promise papers as soon as the wedding's over today." . . . Practically NOBODY rushed to the church to see the fun that got to the bridegroom's ears just before the starting whistle blew for the ceremony—as if a guy isn't jittery enough already when they wheel him into the arena to meet the Vision . . . At the reception, he was looking for Official A, cooler heads restraining him . . . But when he departed with his bride the steam was still curling out of his collar and he said he'd take it up as unfinished business when he returned . . . The worst of it is that the first girl has no intention of suing . . . She's too smart . . .

A Horse on Them:

They were a pretty grieved lot of bookies around and about yesterday, particularly in Lowell . . . The horse owner lives up there and he told some of his close pals that his nags, Little Dinah, in the 1st Wed, and Beveau, in the second, were just about on edge and he wouldn't be surprised if they both bounced in No. 1, thus also making a nice daily double.

Now of course news like that doesn't spread, so before the Lowell bookies knew it they were up to here in plays on Little Dinah and Beveau—singles, parlays and daily doubles . . . Both came in, Dinah paying $13.20 and Beveau $12.60, with the pair making a $66.80 daily double . . . On the morning line figures they should have paid much more, but the bookies are jittery enough as it is . . . Many of them had to dig up fresh currency and start all over . . .

Once Over Lightly:

Without rancor . . .

Is one of the leading lads in a South Shore town on the hot seat after thinking he'd safely ducked criminal proceedings on embezzlement charges? . . . And is Asst. U. S. Atty. John A. Daffy Marxes Loose Again

Their Antics Rock Loew Houses

By PEGGY DOYLE

Those priceless loons—the dizzy, daffy Marxes are at it again in their latest laugh-riot, "A Day at the Races," which is currently converting the Loew's State and Orpheum theaters into houses of uproar.

The more serious side of life is featured in the companion picture "Racketeers in Exile," in which George Bancroft is cast as a reformed underworld overlord. Evelyn Venable is a small-town church organist who is responsible for his regeneration and Wynne Gibson is the hard-boiled moll who loses him to her.

The only difference in the Marx brothers, who despite what you learned in psychology persist in retaining their animal spirits 100 per cent, is that Harpo's far-flung fright-wig is considerably tamed (the only tame thing about the tireless threesome). It is not only tamed in this, their latest film opus, but it is curled to such a nicety that it might well be the despair of the indefatigable Mrs. Temple who has such a way with little Missy Shirley Temple's curls.

Otherwise, the mercurial Marxes are madder and goofier than ever with horse-doctor Groucho masquerading as the eminent Dr Hugo Z. Hackenbush, who early in the picture takes the plot into his own hands by becoming the director of the Standish Sanitarium.

Maureen O'Sullivan has inherited the sanitarium from her father, but she seems on the way to losing it with Banker Douglas Dumbrille holding the mortgage and demanding the money within a month. The two-timing manager of the sanitarium, Leonard Ceeley, is aiding Dumbrille in his foreclosure plan.

Dr Hackenbush's arrival, brought about by the recommendation of the institution's richest patient, Margaret Dumont, interferes with the banker's tricky plan.

All the other doctors distrust the new medic with the fuller-brush mustache. Nevertheless, he goes through with his examination of the wealthy woman patient with the same delicate touch that he'd down draft horses in the throes of heaves. He even uses the same lethal doses giving Margaret Dumont a pill to swallow that is the size of a hen's egg. He is uncertain only when he takes her pulse. Then, looking confusedly at his watch, he avers the patient must be dead or his watch has stopped.

Only Joe Cook could properly report to you the lunatical labyrinthian intricacies of the plot of this or any other Marx picture.

Without even attempting to cover our own ineptitude, we merely point out to you that for the foregoing scene and countless others, including the scene at the race-track in which Chico sells Groucho a tip on a horse and then an armload of books with which to decipher the tip and the one where Harpo and Chico, posing as paper-hangers, determine to save Groucho from the designing Esther Muir by actually pasting her to the wall.

That bewitching colleen, Maureen O'Sullivan, who looks every bit as desirable all dressed up in the last syllable in Hollywood fashions as she did in the fig-leaves of her Tarzan days, is paired with the good-looking tenor, Allan Jones, to provide the picture's romantic moments.

They are as beguiling as Leonard Ceeley and Douglas Dumbrille are regusting. Miss Muir, Sig Rumann as the legitimate foreign medical expert, and Robert Middlemass, as the sheriff, are excellent.

But it is the berserk brothers with them.

Marx, as always, who are entirely to blame for the aching sides you'll tote out into Washington street after a two-hour interlude

MUST BE NEAR MEAL TIME

HARPO GROUCHO CHICO

Harpo and Chico appear to be ganging Brother Groucho Marx up in fine style in this scene from "A Day at the Races," current screen menu at Loew's State and Orpheum. Maybe, it is lunch time and Harpo and Chico just haven't time to go out to luncheon.

'Mountain Music' Hillbilly at Its Best

The big surprise of the hillbilly romance, "Mountain Music," now showing at the Met, is that Hollywood's human klaxon, Martha Raye, goes ladylike in gingham and oversized baby-bonnets, rarely raising her voice above a softly pitched soprano or indulging in any Joe E. Brown facial capers. You'll hardly recognize the girl, honest.

Her heart interest in the picture is her customary screen sidekick, "Bazooka Bob" Burns from the Ozarks. Burns is right at home in this story of feudin', shotgun weddings, houn' dawgs and corn-pone and pot likker for the Arkansas country it typifies is his native heath.

Bob plays a mountain youth with a trick memory. He loses it if he's hit on the head and snaps back to normalcy only when liberally splashed with water. When Martha first meets him he's just been hit on the conk for running out on a marriage with Terry Walker because it's his brother, John Howard, the hillbilly pretty loves.

When he catches up with Martha, in her unaccustomed dimities and wide-eyed smiles, he is driving an expensive car, has lots of cash and a driver's license issued to Hamilton Lovelace. He thinks he is Lovelace, and in that character he and Martha fall in love.

From scratch, it's an off-again-on-again romance for Martha, with Bob getting soaked with a pail of water, recovering his memory and detesting the sight of the Raye.

There is plenty of lively mountain music, comedy and gags. However, if you like your Martha Raye, rough, tough and loud enough to be heard over Washington street-Tremont street traffic this inconsequential farce may leave you vaguely disappointed. P. D.

Joe Holmes Return

Ann Corio Stars At Howard

Top attraction at the Old Howard's midnight show tonight will be, of course, Ann Corio, burlesque's most famous beauty.

She heads an all-star cast in "Bare Facts," the current burlesque revue which offers plenty of comedy, dancing and singing.

'Slave Ship' Thrills At Memorial

By HARRIS MORGAN

Dark, dank drama as it exists on the Warner Baxter skippered Albatross in "Slave Ship" is contrasted with the delights and vicissitudes of a casparm quetoast husband married to a managing martinet in "Meet the Missus" on the Keith Memorial two-feature bill this week.

In "Slave Ship" Director Tay Garnett has re-created a shameful historical episode, the slave-running era of the early 19th century, when ships were manned by unscrupulous "blackbirders" recruited from the thugs who infested the seaports.

During this period, the richest cargoes were made up of slaves from Africa, stored in [illegible] fashion with the legs of one overlapping the head of another [illegible] the ship's murky hold.

Skipper Baxter was doing a thriving business in blackbird [illegible] with Wallace Beery ably assisting him as his villainous first mate. But a casual meeting with a lovely lady, Elizabeth Allan, changed all that. He married her, brought her on the Albatross, determined to go to Jamaica and deal only in legitimate products.

But the double-crossing of the bullying Beery and the ship's mutinous crew circumvent him. They take charge of the ship and put out to Africa, where they load up the ship with a list cargo of slaves. On the return voyage Baxter, by superhuman courage, succeeds in wresting command of the ship from turncoat Beery and the crew. With only his wife and young Mickey Rooney, pint-size cabin boy, with plenty of moxie, Baxter turns the ship's course to St. Helena and court martial.

CABINET FLEES BILBAO ON EVE OF FALL

Hendaye, France–Spanish Border, June 18 (AP)—Two divisions of Basque defenders fell back to their rear guard positions west of Bilbao today to keep open the road for retreat to Santander as the government fled the northern capital.

Insurgents declared they had complete control of the eastern reaches of the Nervion river, Bilbao's outlet to the Bay of Biscay, and were launching the long-awaited movement to drive the Basques from the western bank and enclose the city.

GOVERNMENT MOVES

The official Basque delegation at Bayonne, France, announced the government of the semi-autonomous territory had left its besieged capital for another point in Basque territory.

The location of the new capital was kept secret for military reasons but one report said the government had taken up its seat at the little village of Trucio, about 20 miles west of Bilbao on a secondary road to Santander.

INSURGENTS SLOWED UP

While Basque shock troops slowed up the enemy advance to protect the retreat of their main body and the withdrawal of artillery batteries and stores of ammunition, the third and fourth Basque divisions reached the rear guard positions and occupied them.

The shelling of the city from the insurgent gun emplacements on the eastern outskirts continued throughout the night.

Tarragona, Spain, June 18 (AP)—Three insurgent airplanes bombed this Mediterranean city last night killing one person and wounding more than 30.

Irish Volunteers Quit Spain in Rags

Lisbon, Portugal, June 18 (AP)—After fighting six months for the Spanish insurgents, 633 Irish volunteers embarked today for their homeland.

Their clothes were tattered and many were almost barefoot, in worn-out shoes. Some wore Moorish fezzes, some had the caps of Carlist requetes, a monarchist faction of Franco's armies.

Passengers Flee Fire in 'L' Car

Fifteen amazed passengers and motorman just as amazed scrambled from a North Station-bound Elevated trolley car at Dover and Washington streets today, after excited pedestrians shouted that the car was afire.

When Motorman J. J. Grady of Upton street, South End, had first released his passengers and then himself alighted—sure enough, flames were licking up the side of the trolley, coming from underneath.

A fire alarm was sounded and firemen speedily extinguished the blaze, caused by short circuit which started insulation burning. Traffic was [illegible] in Washington and Dover streets until the disabled car was hauled away.

The damage to insulation and paint was approximately $100.

Police in Extra Highway Patrol

Because of an increase in the number of accidents on the southwest cutoff and the airline route on Route 20, state police today maintained a 24-hour vigil of the highway.

Frequency of auto collisions during the past two weeks brought [illegible] exceeding the speed of [illegible] miles per hour on the open highway [illegible] 13 accidents during the past [illegible] weeks.

Novins Appointed Receiver for Firm

Attorney Louis A. Novins of Lawrence avenue, Roxbury, close friend of Attorney General Paul A. Dever, was today appointed receiver for the Gloucester [illegible] Insurance Company of Gloucester by Judge Edward P. Pierce of Supreme Court.

The company, which has not been doing business since 1931, was [illegible] by Insurance Commissioner Francis J. [illegible]

N. J. Heart Balm Law Is Upheld

New Brunswick, N. J., June 18 (AP)—Constitutionality of New Jersey's statute [illegible] heart balm suits was upheld [illegible] first [illegible] Judge John C. Barbour.

The jurist ruled that Mrs. Helene Bunten of Metuchen could not sue her husband's parents for $25,000 damages on the charge they alienated the affections of her husband Henry and caused him to desert her.

Fall From Window Injures Child, 2

Wife Swears Out Warrant for Dr. Tierney

Mrs. Tierney, who eloped to [illegible] with the doctor in January, 1934, after they had met the previous summer aboard the Europe-bound liner Britannic, was accompanied to the warrant session by her counsel, Saul L. Kaplan, and by Special Officer Augustus J. Fay of Back Bay station.

Last March 2, according to papers on file at Suffolk probate court, the [illegible] brought a divorce suit against Mrs. Tierney, charging cruel and abusive treatment.

Mrs. Tierney is the former Miss Mary Ellen Schleehauf, daughter of John E. Schleehauf, prominent Cincinnati real estate dealer. She is a graduate of Wilmington College and was a teacher at Glendale, O.

The doctor, now on the staffs of several hospitals, is the son of Mrs. G. N. Warren of Brookline. He was graduated from Tufts Medical College in 1927. In 1931 he was appointed a medical inspector in the city health department by the then Mayor Curley.

TOKYO VETOES BIG GUN LIMIT

Tokyo, June 18 (AP)—Foreign Minister Koki Hirota formally informed United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew today that Japan was unable to change her decision against limiting the size of naval guns to 14 inches.

The foreign minister spoke with the approval of Emperor Hirohito. His statement was in reply to a proposal by President Roosevelt.

BRIDGEWATER AWARDS GIVEN

Bridgewater, June 18—Down the [illegible] where Horace Mann [illegible] the graduating class of Bridgewater State Teachers College marched [illegible] to receive diplomas from the school founded [illegible] by the famous Massachusetts educator.

Following traditional ceremonies [illegible] received their awards from President Zenos E. Scott, whose resignation is effective at the end of this academic year.

Pointing to the free school as America's most precious possession of democracy, Alexander Brin, member of the state advisory board of education, told the graduates:

"Horace Mann's work entitled him to a place with the greatest Americans. He believed in Democracy with sufficient faith to introduce it into schools and colleges."

Hit-Run Victim Critically Hurt

Believed by police to be the victim of a hit and run driver, Gerard Smith, 48, of H street, South Boston, was in a critical condition at City Hospital today.

His face cut in four places, Smith was discovered by police of the Warren avenue station lying on Tremont street near Worcester square.

He muttered incoherently about having been struck by an automobile and police immediately began a check of local garages in an effort to locate a bloodstained car.

Found to be suffering from a broken nose, a fractured skull, internal injuries and numerous cuts and bruises of the face and body, Smith's name is on the danger list.

Given 2 Months For Rifling Pants

When Walter Shiwik entered his Lynn apartment last night and saw another man holding a pair of his trousers, he scored a quick knockout and called police.

Charles Samarco, 30, victim of the one punch, pleaded guilty today to entering in the night time and larceny of $1.50. Judge Ralph W. Reeve sentenced him to two months in the House of Correction.

S[illegible] will mark the one hundredth anniversary of the accession of Victoria to the [illegible] of England.

ROBERT E. ROGERS

Next Monday an American theatrical producer will celebrate it in London, presenting the first performance of "Victoria Regina" by Lawrence Housman, which Helen Hayes has been presenting with sensational [illegible] the past [illegible] in New York [illegible] we in Boston [illegible] here in the fall. Helen Hayes will not be seen in London.

The Queen will be played by a British actress, Pamela Stanley, and by permission of the Lord Chamberlain [illegible] a play about royalty, [illegible] may in this case [illegible] hundred years. So the [illegible] most famous of all [illegible] scenes, early dawn in Kensington Palace, June 20, 1837, when Lord Conynham and the Archbishop of Canterbury informed a frightened young girl of eighteen that by the death of her uncle, William IV, she was now Queen of England.

Dignity of Girl Impressed From First

"At half-past eleven she went down downstairs into the red salon to hold her first council. The great assembly of lords and notables, bishops, generals and ministers of state saw the doors thrown open and a very short, very slim girl in deep plain mourning come into the room alone and move forward to her seat with extraordinary dignity and grace; they saw a countenance, not beautiful, but prepossessing—fair hair, blue prominent eyes, a small curved nose, an open mouth revealing the upper teeth, a tiny chin, a clear complexion, and, over all, the strangely mingled signs of innocence, of gravity, of youth, and of composure; they heard a high unwavering voice reading aloud with perfect clarity; and then, the ceremony over, they saw the small figure rise and, with the same consummate grace, the same amazing dignity, pass out from among them, as she had come in, alone."

But Victoria had a more human side, just as our David had, even as King, and presumably even the stuttering George VI. Mr. Strachey quotes from Mr. Creevey, the diarist of the epoch. He called her "little Vic."

"A more homely little being you never beheld, when she is at her ease, and she is evidently dying to be always more so. She laughs in real earnest, opening her mouth as wide as it can go, showing not very pretty gums. She eats as heartily as she laughs, I think I may say she gobbles . . . She blushes and laughs every instant in so natural a way as to disarm anybody."

Old Regime Ended For Victorian Era

The importance of that accession on June 20, 1837, was that it ended the old Hanoverian regime from George I to IV, and the old sea King, William IV. It created overnight the Victorian age, with all that that implies of decency and seriousness and uplift. The old Corinthian days of three bottle men, drunkenness, prize fighting, mistresses and the Pavilion at Brighton were over.

"The nasty old men, debauched and selfish, pig-headed and ridiculous, with their perpetual burden of debts, confusions and disreputabilities—they had vanished like the snows of winter, and here at last, crowned and radiant, was the spring."

She reigned over 60 years, and when she died a great majority of her subjects had never known any other sovereign.

Between the almost legendary girl who married her cousin Albert and the equally legendary old lady with her ruched cap and her Indian servants and her Bath chair, there existed to all practical purposes most of a century. We call it the Victorian age, and nearly everything that lingers from that age constitutes the bulwark of our modern times. In the midst of chaos and anarchy and strife, we look back to the great names, whose work she probably never understood but which gave an abiding splendor and luster to her long epoch, and wonder whether they are still being bred—and if not, why not.

ANN MARSTERS In Hollywood • A NEW SERIES

Sophie, 50, Happy in Movies

Sonia Kalish, slavey in her Poppa's restaurant, ran away to New York and found fortune under a new name — Sophie Tucker. She tells all about it in this installment of Ann Marsters new Hollywood series. Now Sophie "in the money," proposes to have a film career and she convinces Miss Marsters that she surely will succeed. This series of pen portraits of Hollywood greats by Boston's Girl reporter will be found daily in the Boston Evening American and the Sunday Advertiser.

Hollywood, Cal.

Sophie Tucker's life is the story of a woman who is where she is because she had the courage and the determination to fight for what she wanted.

She has achieved every possible success as an entertainer—with the exception of the movies. And now, at 50, she is entering upon a brand new career. She is going to be a movie star—just as sure as her name is Sophie Tucker. You will see her, soon, in "Broadway Melody of 1937" with Robert Taylor and Eleanor Powell.

Sophie is such a lovable, courageous, remarkable woman. Her heart is so large that it overflows with tenderness for a world of people less fortunate than herself. Her energy is so great that nothing is too much for her to attempt, or achieve.

SOPHIE TUCKER ANN MARSTERS

Sophie Tucker, M-G-M star, now 50 years of age, on the lawn of her Beverly Hills home, tells Ann Marsters, Boston girl reporter, of her early struggles. Sophie, born Sonia Kalish, daughter of a Boston restaurant owner, is carving out a new career in the films. Once known as a "Red Hot Mamma," Miss Tucker has foresworn her old-time jazz singing for more serious efforts and you will soon see her in "Broadway Melody of 1937" with Robert Taylor and Eleanor Powell.

Boston Child

Sophie grew all the way up to seven years old, at 22 Salem street, Boston. She doesn't remember where she was born. It was somewhere—somewhere in Russia, while her mother was on the way to catch the boat which would bring them to America and Boston. So it was Boston that registered the birth of this daughter, born of humble peasants.

Today, in Hollywood, Sophie Tucker lives in a pleasant, comfortable home and receives her callers in her study.

When I talked with her she sat behind a big mahogany desk at which she works during most of her spare time—taking care of letters and telephone calls.

She looked splendid, pink and plump and young and happy.

And she loves to reminisce. It gives her a deep satisfaction to remember what she has overcome—for there were years of drudgery for Sophie and her family, until she was able to shower all those close to her with comfort and luxury.

Was a Slavey

"Twenty-two Salem street," she said, "was where Poppa set up his little restaurant. It is the place I remember best out of my childhood, because it is where I was a little slavey. I was Sonia Kalish, a Russian Jewess, who emigrated to the United States—and became a kitchen drudge.

"Oh, but I didn't mind," she exclaimed, with good humor lighting up her face. "I could sing—I could always sing, even though it was more shouting than melody."

In the seven years that Sophie lived in Boston she went three months to the Parmenter street school.

But Sophie's Poppa got squeezed out of his little Boston cafe by false promises from two strange, big-talking men. He thought he was trading his restaurant for one in New York, but it didn't work out that way.

The Kalish family, which consisted of Momma and Poppa, little Moses, Anna and Sonia, found themselves in Hartford, Ct., where Poppa started another restaurant on Front street.

Weds Truck Driver

Here Sophie worked over stacks of dishes and pots and pans—and still she could find time to sing for the customers.

"As I grew older," said Sophie, "I began to realize the dreadful kind of life we were leading. I watched my mother bending over a hot stove, day after day, and I saw the weariness and the droop in her shoulders.

"I made up my mind that I would get out of that place someday—somehow."

One day Willie Howard, the vaudeville star, dropped into the restaurant, and Sophie waited on him, and sang for him.

She Runs Away

"I must remember to remind him of that time when I waited on him in my father's restaurant. (It will be at least the hundredth time that I've mentioned it to him—and he will tell me, for the same number of times, how awful he thought my voice was.)"

But shortly after that incident, Sophie ran away to New York to seek her fortune. She was 18, and a widow, with a baby to support. For Sophie had married Louis Tuck, who drove a truck in Hartford. He died a few months after her son, Bert, was born.

"I had to do something," she said. "I couldn't just stay in Hartford in that cafe for the rest of my life; I couldn't go on watching my mother's shoulders grow more stooped under the burden of her work."

So Sophie went to New York and got a job, as Sophie Tucker, singing in a honky-tonk cafe.

"I had no looks and no training," she said, "but I had eyes. I could observe what other people had that made them successes—and I decided that I could deliver twice as much."

On that very first job, Sophie Tucker clicked. She put everything she had into her songs, and the patrons went wild over her. Very soon she was averaging about $200 a week.

And what did that mean to Sophie? It meant that she could take Momma out of the kitchen, that Poppa could lead an easier life, that her brother and sister could have the things they needed.

Money has always meant approximately that, to Sophie Tucker. Her family has come first—and at the present time, she has no less than 13 mouths to feed, 13 people to clothe, to shower gifts upon.

"How I love to do it," she said. "I'm a happy person because I have been able to make other people happy.

"You see, God gave me something unusual, and it is my job to help people. If I didn't, I wouldn't deserve success—and it wouldn't bring me any happiness."

When Sophie once got "in the money" she stayed in it, and the takings grew larger and larger, year by year.

She used to do black-faced specialty numbers that became famous all over the country. She discarded her black makeup, eventually, and, in 1911, she introduced the song which is still associated with her name. It was, "Some of These Days." Later, in 1934, she sang that song at the request of Queen Mary in the Palladium Theater, London.

When Edward was Prince of Wales, he never let an opportunity pass to request Sophie to sing "Ukelele Lady."

It was at the Palace theater in New York that she first sang the song, "Red Hot Mama." And even though the day of such Mamas has passed, that slogan still clings to Sophie Tucker.

Sophie has had a wonderful life—and she expects it to be even more wonderful in the future.

Movies Call Her

"Anybody can be successful," she said, putting all her exuberance into the words, "if they're willing to fight for success. It's determination that wins out, in the end, and if you've got the vitality to go with it, you can't help but reach your goal.

"Vitality is one of the greatest requisites of success. I have it, and I have determination.

"Right now, I'm determined to succeed in the movies. I will never rest until I do."

When Sophie makes up her mind to do a thing, there's no stopping her. Surely she can plow down any obstacles by the sheer force of her determination and her personality.

She is on the threshhold of a new career—and the possibilities, for Sophie Tucker, are limitless.

$5 FOR YOUR LETTER ON JEAN HARLOW FILM

WHAT do you think of the extraordinary plan to release Jean Harlow's picture, "Saratoga," on which she was working until a few days before her death?

M-G-M officials are considering leaving intact all the scenes which Jean made; having the remaining scenes completed by another actress.

To bridge the gap between the living and the dead, Lionel Barrymore would announce on the screen that because of the passing of Jean Harlow, another actress had finished the picture.

Write your opinion of such a plan to Ann Marsters, Boston American.

Five dollars will be paid for each letter, on this subject, published in the Green Spotlight section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser next Sunday. Letters must not exceed 200 words.

Brainstorm Seen As Jilt Cause

Teresa "Terry" Shrum, of Durham street, Back Bay, who was virtually "left at the altar" Tuesday, today expressed the belief her husband-to-be, Robert H. Newell, 20, of Jackson, Miss., suffered a momentary "brainstorm" and shipped away on a freighter.

Her mother declared she would ask Terry to write to Newell's mother and explain the situation to her.

"I loved Bob almost as much as I do my own son," Terry's mother said. "I could not find it in my heart to bear him the slightest grudge. There must be a reason for what he has done to my daughter. She gave up her job and she does not feel she can face another employer at present."

Tech Pranksters Rouse Girls' Ire

Two 17-year-old Cambridge girls sought recourse to the law today, claiming they had been victimized by student pranksters at M. I. T.

Mary Hannon of Columbia street and Gladys Weymouth of Norfolk street told aPtrolman John Prior that students in the Wolcott dormitory of Technology threw paper bags of water on them, soaking their dresses, as thep were walking down Ames street last night.

Charge Veterans' Vouchers Burned

Lowell, June 18—Political circles here were excited today by the charge of City Solicitor William J. White, Jr., that vouchers in the department of soldiers' benefits and state aid had been burned under the City Hall boiler.

The charge came at the opening hearing before the city council on ouster proceeding brought by Mayor Dewey G. Archambault against William C. Gary, superintendent of the department.

Work Stays 3 Deaths

Raleigh, N. C., June 18 (AP)—Three men under sentence to die were today reprieved for 30 days because death's row at state's prison is being renovated.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By

Ann Marsters

It turned out to be a MOST eventful evening for young Mr. Benny Meroff, when he opened with his famous band, the new Nautical Plaza at Revere Beach last Wednesday night.

ANN MARSTERS

In the first place, a representative of a Mr. Martin from Washington (who is an important person even if I can't remember his first name) stepped up to Benny and presented a paper with a dotted line on it.

And Benny signed to appear at the World's Fair in 1939!

On top of that, a talent scout from one of Hollywood's major studios, invited him to appear with his band in a picture called "Crazy College," which will start production in the fall.

So Benny Meroff is pretty happy about everything. And he is very certain that this "jibe" music which he has introduced is THE music of today—and tomorrow. Jibe, you know, is a combination of jam and swing with a lot of violins thrown in to surprise you.

Ray Bolger Sticks To Old Hub Friends

Bob Ott is the man who gave Ray Bolger his first chance in vaudeville by signing him up with the Ott troupe.

Mrs. Ott writes: "Ray never comes to Boston that he doesn't remember his old friends, and I can truthfully say he has always remained the same lovable boy that he was when he joined our little company."

Gloria Swanson has changed her personality. That exotic star of silent days will return to the screen in the leading role of "The Second Mrs. Draper"—and she will be a tailored, sophisticated version of her former self.

Gloria No Longer A Mysterious Siren

Now she is sleek, where she used to be decorative, and forthright where she once seemed mysterious.

And now she doesn't try to be even the least bit mysterious about her three children, Gloria, 16; Joseph, 14; and Michele, 5.

Gloria is the daughter of her second husband, Herbert Somborn. (Her first husband was Wallace Beery.) Michele is the daughter of her fourth husband, Michael Farmer. (Her third husband was the Marquis de la Falaise.) Young Joseph was adopted, so was given the name of Swanson.

Leslie Howard, too, has at last come to the conclusion that he was terrible in his production of Hamlet.

Now he does a very funny burlesque of his own portrayal of that role.

AUSTEN LAKE

AUSTEN LAKE

GRAND BEACH, MICH., JUNE 18—The world's head fisticuffer, Ch. James J. Braddock, spent Thursday's rainy afternoon boxing four rounds of cordial restraint in preparation for his million-dollar business fight with Joe Louis next Tuesday.

A steady downpour pelted on the roof of the carnival tent where the training ring was pitched, and the overhead canvas bulged with pools of water.

A rather unstylish looking tourist-crowd crushed around the platform and added exhalations of stale breath to the humid air, already redolent with the sickish stench of rubbing oils.

Along the press rows trousers clung moistly to the knees and adhered to the varnished benches. And though Braddock's ring action was scarcely more vigorous than that of any pretty lady at a golf club dance, his shoulders glistened with globules of sweat which trickled down his spine in little rivulets and made dark splotches on his purple tights.

Clearly the champion was not straining his energies. And, except for his muscular bulk, rugged good looks and biscuit brown body, he might have been another non-illustrious, gymnasium fighter doing his A, B, C's as outlined in fistiana's little text books on training.

There were no adipose bulges above the elastic tops of his trunks. He looked lean. His skin was smooth and tight, and his arm and shoulder muscles did not jerk with middle-age slack when he tossed his punches.

AT THE PEAK, SAYS GOULD

STILL HE DID NOT LOOK IMPRESSIVE, though I hasten to say that neither did I think Max Schmeling impressive while biffing the empty air at Naponoch last June during the doleful days before he sledged Joe Louis down with repetitious right-hand busts to the jaw bone.

The champion's business manager, Mr. Joe Gould, had made an explanatory talk to the journalists just before the afternoon's merriment, in which, while standing on a beer case, he said he wished to warn the experts that they would not see any genuine samples of the champion's art, because the champion had achieved that plateau of physical perfection whence there were no higher levels.

And so he said the press should not be deceived if the champion indulged merely in some air-pawings and perfunctory shovings to keep him in his perfect pink of fitness.

BRADDOCK'S PLEATED NOSE

THE FIRST ROUND of the afternoon was with an ex-college boy named Max Roesch from Southern Methodist, who kept stretching his neck away from Braddock's languid punches, though the champion did flick him a solid sock that raised a welt along the lad's nose.

They were using the big, 15-ounce pudding-bag gloves, and sometimes the college boy would reach out and give Jimmy a quick push to the nose which folded that organ in little pleats and caused Jimmy to smooth it out with the thumb of his mitten.

Braddock's nose from past poundings, is something of a collapsible universal joint, with a limber swivel that is very handy in taking a punch.

I [illegible] the college boy [illegible] the champion as [illegible] around though [illegible] did five cents [illegible]

The stanza with a pale-skinned youth named Henry Cooper was one in which both fighters nuzzled each other with the padded headguards and made mutual motions at heart, liver and kidneys, until suddenly Braddock stepped back and whistled a crooked left which missed Henry's padded ear and caused him to glare reproachfully as though deceived by a pal.

The crowd said "O-O," but then the crowd was always saying "O-O," though they were largely anticipatory "O-O's" rather than conclusive ones on the evidence offered.

Then a flea-popping fighter of the jack-in-the-box school named Charley Massera dabbed, ducked and dodged until the crowd closed its lids to save wear and tear on the eyeballs.

And after that a round with the human St. Bernard of prize ring Jack McCarthy of Boston, who operates by sheer bone power and serves as a combination made companion, court comic and chopping block to the champion.

That round was full of monotonous virtue, as befits one confidant to another confidant and roommate.

FIGHTS WITHOUT HEADGUARD

AT THIS POINT Braddock did a careless thing. He stepped over to a corner of the ring, stripped off his headguard and was taking long, cooling sucks from a water bottle marked with his distinctive tape. An angular heavyweight named Bill Irby, with straw-colored locks peeping through the gaps in his helmet, ducked through the ropes, expecting to be fought with.

Nobody else wished to fight him, so Braddock wheeled around, minus his headgear, and obligingly cocked his gloves at combat angles. They sparred around innocently for a while, and then Irby heaved a roundhouse punch which bounced off Braddock's right brow.

The blow was the hardest of the afternoon, and though it didn't break the champion's skin, it left a reddish scuff, a slight swelling, and just missed opening an embarrassing wound which would have damaged Jimmy's chances next Tuesday night.

Braddock thought for a moment that he was cut and rubbed the back of his glove against the injured spot, giving it a quick look for traces of blood. Then he resumed boxing with the cool, fatalistic calm which marks his every move.

He didn't fly into a tantrum and batter Irby around, or blister him with imprecations, as Sharky had done last year when a Negro sparmate hit him a lick and opened a slit above his left eye.

Jimmy just finished the round quietly and then climbed into his blue satin kimono with the white letters on the back and ran through the rain to his rubbing room.

CONSIDERING THAT THERE is already $600,000 in the advance sale kitty and the gate should pass the million mark, it was a foolish risk for Braddock to take. And when he heard about it, Joe Gould swallowed four inches of his cigar and stood speechless until a journalist extracted the lighted nubbin from his mouth.

"G-G-G-Goodness," was all he could say, that being the extent of Joe's profanity.

CHISOX Always Easy PREY

CRONINS TAKE ALL 4 GAMES

By JOE CASHMAN

Our Red Sox are the talk of the town today.

The talk is not very loud as yet and may all end quickly. At the same time, it may develop into a pennant-claiming roar ere [illegible] game series with Cleveland's classy but inconsistent Indians starting this afternoon and ending in a Sunday doubleheader.

In taking four games in a row [illegible] rejuvenated Croninmen didn't stop at living up to the claim of being the strongest team ever to occupy the Yawkey Yard. They went right on to look like a club that might never be stopped.

They received complete games from four pitchers, every one of whom was invincible in every pinch. They never once failed to produce a hit or run-rescuing fly or grounder when they needed it badly.

They popped up with seemingly impossible plays when the enemy threatened to take command. And, for a welcome change, they got a fair share of the breaks, without which no club can be a consistent winner.

HERE'S THE RUB

In short, they shaped up just as unbeatable as they proved to be, much to the chagrin of the Pale Hose, who had won 12 out of 14 games before coming here.

But there remains the question whether our heroes' amazing showing was due mainly to added class and new spirit resulting from the recent acquisition of 'Buck' Newsom and Ben Chapman and the return to action of Roger Cramer or to the fact that the Chisox were furnishing the opposition.

For, you see, it's a Red Sox custom of many years' standing to enjoy extraordinary success against the Windy City entry.

Just the opposite has been true, however, of the Boston-Cleveland rivalry. The Indians have long had the Indian sign on the Fenway flock.

For example, the Forest City outfit beat our lads 13 times in 22 starts last year and so far this season has chalked up five wins in seven efforts.

So the engagement starting this ladies' p. m. figures to furnish the real low down on the Sox current spurt.

If the Croninmen can take three out of four, their rejuvenation will be marked down as the Real McCoy and they'll deserve to be conceded a fighting chance.

OUTFIELD GREAT

O[illegible] Chicago series is that the Sox have [illegible] to the point where they're [illegible] as factors in the pennant [illegible] and will further prove it during the Cleveland engagement to the extent of passing the fourth place invaders, now a game away.

The weaknesses that handicapped the club early in the season all appear to have been eliminated.

A minor league outfield at the start has become about the best in the league with Cramer back sparkling in center, Chapman scintillating in right and Mills looking better all the time in left.

An erstwhile tottering pitching staff has ceased to be a worry with Newsom added to it, Wilson and Walberg hurling the best ball of their Boston careers, Grove showing he's [illegible] far from the end of the trail and Ostermueller finally giving promise of being a real asset.

Yes, it seems a real ball club has finally blossomed forth up on the Jersey street orchard.

Or, at least, a club that's a pleasure to watch, as the 17,000 who saw the Bunker Hill Day thrilling twin-bill will willingly testify.

Horse 'Sponging' at Agawam Probed

Springfield, June 18 (AP)—District Attorney Thomas F. Moriarty announced today that following a conference with Attorney General Paul E. Dever, he has opened an investigation into charges that horses in races at Agawam race track have been "fixed."

He said he and assistant Attorney General John S. Derham will interview the management of the track late today on charges that sponges had been placed in nostrils of Goldspray and Maddest on June 7.

Bobby Pacho Wins Over Baby Saban

New York, June 18 (US)—Bobby Pacho, rugged Los Angeles welterweight, rounded out a worthy decision over "Baby" Salvy Saban of New York in the eight-round main event before 11,000 in Madison Square Garden.

At Harvard Stadium this afternoon Harvard's Win Pettingell and Yale's Gene Bliss and Thomas Luesen will pole vault for a place on the combined H-Y track team which will meet Oxford and Cambridge here on July [illegible].

Torbert McDonald of Harvard, who spent the spring playing football, will make the team if he defeats John Garaway in a furlong sprint.

Lynn English, Watertown Place Two On 'All' Team

The Boston Evening American steps forth today and presents its official 1937 All-Scholastic baseball team.

With the exception of George Sexton, pitching sensation of Watertown high who stood out far above other schoolboy hurlers, the writer found it difficult to fill in the other positions.

Lynn English, winner of the Eastern state title and Watertown both placed two players. George Sexton has been named as captain and rightly so. George has been the only player who has stood out among all the others throughout the season. He has hung up an [illegible] record during his three years of toiling for Watertown.

During that time he won 15 games and lost only one. That one came in the Eastern Massachusetts play-offs last week. In that tournament he struck out 24 in the 17 innings he performed. It brought his strike out record this year to 156 in 95 1-3 innings.

PITCHES TOMORROW

Sharing the pitching honors is Ray Bessom of Lynn English. This was Ray's first year in high school ball. He practically won the Essex County league title single handed. Out of the 8 league games, he won [illegible] of them. And he won two games in the tournament. Coach Tom Whelan is counting on him to win the state title tomorrow afternoon [illegible] at Turners Falls.

Not far behind are Charlie Landers of Dedham another strike-out pitcher and holder of a no-hit game; Lou Clay of Latin, who possesses one of the best drops seen in the city schools; Frank McHugh, sophomore teammate of Sexton, Leo Gray of Chelsea and Henry Carty of Roslindale.

All the other positions took a little more time to figure. Lefteris Lavrakas, Watertown's catcher and leading batter and the other half of the Sexton battery, was given the nod over Frank Dever, the Cathedral high midget.

Lavrakas was selected because of his heavy hitting and wonderful arm. But Dever gave him a battle right along. Dever was largely responsible for digging his team out of the cellar in the Catholic loop this year. He also was the leading base thief, stealing home 10 times.

FRANK McQUAID

First base was a wild scramble as were the other infield berths. On account of his hitting and heads up ball, Ed Waithus of Cambridge Latin had the edge on Leo Eastham of Lowell. Roy Williams of Boston English and Keady of Roslindale.

Second base was the hardest problem to fill out. But after scrambling through the records, we went to Boston Latin and picked up Larry Clement. Larry is only a small [illegible] and was a [illegible] in his freshman year. In every game except the last one against English, he got at least one hit. Fenton, Lawrence; Warren Regan, Somerville, and Jack Carney, Brighton, were not far behind.

Win Oliverio of Arlington and Ralph Surette of Norwood staged a merry battle for the shortstop berth. But Win's hitting, especially in one of the games in which he got five for five, including a homer and triple, seemed to give him the edge.

At third, we introduce Frank McQuaid from Coach "Doc" Fleming's Commerce brigade. Frank hasn't been heard of much but enjoyed a great season. He led his team in batting with .460 and collected five home runs.

Oscar Khederian of Watertown and Maurice Carroll of Medford also played god ball.

Johnny Cooper, the versatile athlete of Skip Sherlock's Hyde Park forces, was selected as utility infielder. Although he played most of the year at third base, John can play any position in the infield. He led the Boston schools in homers with nine.

TIGERS WANT HEGAN

Jim Hegan, Lynn English "Red" Southwick, Medford, and diminutive Bill Daly of Roslindale were the leading gardeners. Each one of them are real ball hawks that have covered a lot of ground in the outfield during the past season. Each has a beautiful arm and is the leading slicker of his team.

Hegan only 16 and 6 feet, one inch, leads the trio with .466. Daly follows with .436 and Southwick with .380. In the first two games of the year, Daly collected 10 hits in his first 11 times at bat.

Only two days ago, Hegan received a wire from Max Bishop, scout for the Detroit Tigers, asking him to tryout with the club. But Jim is going to wait until he has completed his high schol career before he considers any big league offers. He still has a year to go.

Al Baniewicz of Rindge Tech also rates with the above trio. Last year, Al was selected, but this year his hitting has fallen off a bit. He is chosen as utility outfielder, however.

No one has been overlooked. Every player, big or small who took part in a sufficient number of games, has been given a square deal.

Gardner to Race At Newmarket

Newmarket, N. H., June 18. Bob Gardner of Cohasset returns to the auto racing scene at the new speedway here Sunday afternoon after racing at Keene and Readville.

Gardner, who has been a consistent winner on tracks of New Hampshire, will be given a real test when he stacks up against Bob King of Waltham, ex-New England champion, in the 15-mile grind.

The Truth, Al?

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 18. Al Ulbrickson, coach of the Washington Huskies, will stage a time trial on the Hudson this evening to decide whether he will use his varsity or junior varsity in the intercollegiate regatta here next Tuesday.

U. S. HORSE UNPLACED IN ASCOT GOLD CUP

Ascot, Eng., June 18 (U.S.)—Lady Zia Wernher's horse, Precipitation, scored a smashing victory in the traditional Ascot Gold Cup over eleven others of the turf's best routers, including last year's winner of the classic.

Precipitation crossed the wire two lengths ahead of Sir Abe Bailey's Cecil, which in turn was four lengths in front of Lord Stanley's Quashed, [illegible] which captured the Gold Cup in 1936.

Before a leg injury had forced the withdrawal of Woodward's Omaha Monday, American hopes rested mainly on America's 1935 three-year-old champion. Omaha lost to Quashed by the narrowest of margins in a stirring finish in the Gold Cup last year.

This was the 130th running over the grueling two and a half mile [illegible] of the feature of the four-day Ascot meeting, which is the [illegible] and [illegible] fashionable [illegible] world.

[illegible] King and Queen attended [illegible] the third consecutive day and were warmly received by [illegible] as they entered [illegible] box. The occasion was [illegible] by the presence [illegible]

Boxing Results

North Adams—Jerry Mahoney, Holyoke, defeated Charlie Gordon, Boston, eight rounds.

Bees Open Series With Cardinals

St. Louis, Mo., June 18—Held back twice in Chicago by rain, [illegible] Gabler, newest Bee acquisition, gets his chance to start [illegible] this afternoon when he takes the mound against Lefty Bob Weiland in the first game of the series between the Bees and Cardinals.

[illegible] Johnson, former Red Sox and Yankee, will start in left field for the Bostonians in place of Wally Berger, who was just traded to the Giants.

Grant Withdraws From Queen's Play

London, June 18 (US)—Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, member of America's Davis Cup squad, has [illegible] from singles and doubles play in the Queen's [illegible] tennis championship [illegible] in his [illegible]

[illegible] match with Fumiteru Nakano, Japanese Davis Cup player, at the end of their second set. Later he withdrew from the men's doubles.

BUDGE WINS AGAIN

Defeats Jap Star in 2 Sets

London, June 18 (AP)—Red-haired Don Budge, America's top-ranking tennis star, swept into the final round of the Queen's Club tournament today with an easy 6-2, 6-0 victory over Fumiteru Nakano, Japanese Davis Cup player.

Budge loafed most of the way. He never had to use his biggest guns against the Japanese who played in disappointing fashion after the good show he had put up with Bitsy Bryan Grant yesterday.

Budge's deep drives off either hand had Nakano netting or outing weakly. Nakano had earned his place in the semi-finals when Grant was forced to quit after two sets of their match in the quarter-finals yesterday because of a [illegible] and a severe cold.

[illegible] the scores were, 6-1 [illegible]

Kay Stammers, British ace, and Jadwiga Jedrzejowska of Poland will meet in the women's finals.

WILSON STILL KING OF HANDICAPPERS

HAS 46 WINNERS IN 22 DAYS OF RACING AT SUFFOLK DOWNS

King Wilson!

America's leading handicapper, Dave Wilson of the Boston Evening American, champion of the New England turf meeting the past four years, continues to set the pace to another title at Suffolk Downs.

Winners make a champion, and Dave Wilson is holding the lead for the Suffolk meeting going into the home stretch. No matter how you figure it—it's Dave Wilson on top in the stretch by three lengths. He has picked 46 winners for 22 days of the 24-day meet.

DAVE WILSON

After setting the pace in the opening meeting of the season at Narragansett Park this year, Wilson, despite the fact that form horses were running very indifferently, punched out the most winners thus far in the Suffolk meeting which finishes tomorrow.

There are some who figure handicap points in contests something like this: If you have a winner and he runs second you don't get a point, but if your second horse is beaten by some horse which you handicapped to run completely out of the money, you do get points because that second choice actually ran second, although beaten by a horse you believed couldn't run within 20 lengths of him.

However, that's not how champion handicappers are ACTUALLY determined. It's winners that count, with the handicapper and the fans, and once more Dave Wlson's thousands of followers will be pleased to learn that he is on his way to undisputed claim to the New England handicap championship, after easily winning the first meeting at Narragansett Park and setting the pace at the present time at Suffolk Downs by a margin of five winners.

FOR WINNERS! IT'S KING DAVE WILSON! HIS SELECTIONS, HANDICAPS AND COMMENTS APPEAR DAILY IN THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN AND BOSTON SUNDAY ADVERTISER.

MASKED Knight Good JUMPER

Mrs. Ethel V Mars owner of the Milky Way stable, apparently bought well when she paid $132,600 for 16 yearlings at the Saratoga sales last year. Not all have made their debuts but those that have raced, showed enough to indicate that the Chicago sportswoman probably won't lose anything on her investment

Until C. Note put in his appearance at Washington Park yesterday, Sky Larking and Tiger were considered the best sent out by Trainer Bob McGarvey. But C. Note, a son of Royal Minstrel which cost $14,300, ran like a real champion. The two costliest of the 16 have not raced They are Warbridge, a son of Man O War and Fa real, an offspring of Sir Gallahead III, which sold for $18,000 each.

C. V. Whitney's Piccolo finally can point to a victory in his 1937 record The four-year-old son of Whichone, which had wound up either second or third in four of his 10 previous starts, came through with a nose triumph in the $5000 Bunker Hill Handicap at Suffolk Downs to pay $11.20.

Masked Knight, eight-year-old son of Pompey, owned by Pete Bostwick, is proving an even more consistent winner over the jumps than when he raced on the flat with his owner in the saddle much of the time. He [illegible] up his third victory in five 1937 starts yesterday in accounting for the steeplechase at Aqueduct which [illegible] at the long odds of 8 to 1

With a division of Mrs Payne Whitney's Greentree Stable slated to race at the approaching Rockingham Park meeting, Hirsch Jacobs will soon leave New York to [illegible] his employer's horses at the New Hampshire course. [illegible] will remain at Aqueduct to saddle the stable's horses.

Mrs. Payne Whitney's three-year-old Forty Winks which went [illegible] was shelved after a [illegible] his juvenile campaign as a juvenile, [illegible] is being brought back to condition by Trainer [illegible]. Although he has not [illegible] asked for speed the [illegible] of Twink has been breezing [illegible]. The colt started only four times last year, winning twice, including the Saratoga Special and finishing second and third in his other efforts to earn $8400

CALLAHAN Bids for K. O. TUESDAY

Knowing that a defeat will [illegible] him definitely on the side [illegible], Andy Callahan from Lawrence [illegible] for a knockout [illegible] when he [illegible] off with Nat Bor of Fall River in the main 10-round bout of Eddie Mack's first outdoor boxing show at National League Park next Tuesday night.

Callahan has several very [illegible] reasons for needing a [illegible] the fact that if he loses he [illegible] practically through and that [illegible] a bout with Barney Ross [illegible] as a possibility for the welter [illegible] that is growing [illegible] day by day.

Mack reports that Ross' pilots, Sam Pian and Art Winch, [illegible] talked to him twice over the long distance phone and are seriously considering the Boston offer [illegible] the welter champ who wants [illegible] and more action after a long [illegible] off.

Callahan says he'll knock Bor out within five rounds. He points to his southpaw style as one of the things very much in his favor [illegible] the fight. But Bor has fought [illegible] southpaws and beaten 11 of them. He lost in another because of a freak [illegible] accident in which [illegible] broke his collar-bone.

A round by round description of the Braddock-Louis fight the same night in Chicago will be a feature of next Tuesday night's fistic festival at the Bee Hive.

O'Mahony Shows Best Form

Alex MacLean, matchmaker for the Crosscup-Pishon American Legion Post, yesterday closed two special bouts for the elaborate wrestling show at Fenway Park on Tuesday night, June 29, which will be headlined by a championship battle between Steve (Crusher) Casey, title claimant, and Ed Don George, former titleholder. Either bout would serve as a standout main event for any other show.

In one of the special bouts Danno O'Mahony, former world's heavyweight champion, will take on rugged and clever Rube Wright, 2[illegible]-pound Texan, and in the other George (Dazzler) Clark, pugnacious and flashy Scotchman will collide with Billy Bartush, rugged and powerful Chicagoan.

O'Mahony [illegible] in nearly [illegible] matches [illegible] Clark [illegible] Johnson. He won all his other matches. However, Danno will have to be at his best against Wright, who has been a consistent winner in New England in recent months. Although Danno won his last match with Robert, he [illegible] a [illegible] over the French-Canadian youth, gained here last season. Then he wrestled Robert a draw here. And [illegible] also holds a victory over Clark gained in their last meeting.

Clark takes a tough [illegible] Bartush [illegible]. He came to America last October, he has engaged in more than [illegible] contests. He lost two heartbreakers to Casey, that one to Danno and one to George at the last Garden show. He has won all his other matches and he was unbeaten in Europe. Without a doubt the Scotchman is one of the most scientific and speediest matmen Boston fans have seen in action. He outwrestled Casey in their first meeting and fans were unanimous in declaring Referee Ted Tonneman deprived him of victory. Casey had all the better of their second [illegible] strength.

Springfield Sets Sweepstakes' Dates

West Springfield, June 18—[illegible] of the [illegible] hounds of the sport will [illegible] their speed and [illegible] the series of [illegible] annual running of the sportsman's sweepstakes to be [illegible] here the night of July [illegible].

The event [illegible] last year proved the biggest [illegible] of the Massachusetts racing season, and this year's renewal is expected to prove the major event of the year.

The 32 nominations were announced today by Manager John E. Brooks of the Crescent Kennel Club along with the dates for the elimination events that will decide the entries for the sweepstakes classic.

Twelve [illegible] are [illegible] the [illegible] nominations. Nominating and entrance fees in addition to the regular purse money for the race and the money added by the Kennel Club is expected to bring the total amount of the purse above the $2000 that went to the winner of last year's race, won by Bad Vida owned by P. C. Alderson.

The [illegible] among the stars [illegible] Miami Moon from the [illegible] Kennels which tied the track record for the futurity course recently, Miss Upside Adore Star which also boasts a record tying performance. Companion Careat winner of this year's inaugural, and On the Way victor in last year's Crescent Kennel Club Derby.

Six elimination events are listed, the first four dogs to finish in each of the first four to meet in the semifinal events which will determine the field for the sweepstakes classic.

First elimination, Monday June 21

Second elimination, Tuesday, June 22

Third elimination, Wednesday June 23.

Fourth elimination, Thursday, June 24.

First semifinal, Friday, June 25.

Second semifinal, Saturday, June 26.

Sportsman's sweepstakes, Thursday, July 1.

TRAINER Banks All on PUNCH

JOE STILL HAS KAYO STING

By MURRAY GOODMAN

Kenosha, Wis., June 18 (US)—Joe Louis demonstrated that some of those reports on his lack of condition and spirit were not entirely true.

[illegible] Tuesday [illegible] challenge James J. Braddock [illegible] heavyweight [illegible] Louis [illegible] ed up a little.

The Detroit negro worked two rounds each with three sparring partners and impressed visiting newspapermen so much that the majority picked him outright to beat Braddock for the title.

Champion Braddock has been working far better than Louis but Louis showed again that he could hit. And the experts who have been wrong before were willing to [illegible] the whatever remained of their reputations that Louis would relieve Braddock of his royal mantle.

BEST WORKOUT YET

This was Louis' best workout in the month that he has been training for the Braddock battle at Comiskey Park.

He opened with George Williams, [illegible] heavyweight [illegible] from Chicago and proceeded to sharpen his left against Williams' nose, forcing a stream of blood from that [illegible] target.

Williams was on the verge of a knockout when time was called at the end of the second round.

TAUGHT TO LEAD

[illegible]

It was revealed that the possible cause for Louis' lack of animation in previous training workouts could be charged up to Jack Blackburn's efforts in teaching Louis to lead.

Louis has never been a counter puncher, but Blackburn is striving to make Louis the aggressor in the Braddock bout.

The cagey Blackburn, like others out here, believes that whoever lands the first hard punch will win the fight.

"Take it easy, Jim," advises Umpire-in-Chief George Moriarty, while First-sacker Zeke Bonura listens in. But Dykes was too hot to cool off so he was sentenced to an early shower.

"Too bad, Jim," sarcastically chirp "Doc" Cramer and "Bing" Miller of the Red Sox as their old Philadelphia mate starts down the steps toward the locker room still mumbling about McGowan's eyesight and the Red Sox feat of taking four straight from his White Sox.

INDIANS Poorest on ROAD

GREAT HOME TEAM

Put them in their own ballyard, and they look like money in the bank. Send them on the road and they flounder around like a [illegible] freshly caught fish.

For [illegible] the American League [illegible] after year the experts have rated them a top pennant contender. Yet that habit of leaving their winning ways in Cleveland has kept them out of the pennant chase each time. Last year it even cost them a first division berth.

10 ROAD DEFEATS

From what's been going on so far this season, it appears they haven't changed a bit. Only last week they concluded a fairly successful home stand [illegible] times against eight defeats. [illegible] time during the [illegible] they were as high as [illegible] place.

Unfortunately, however, the schedule forced them to [illegible] and take to the road again. And unfortunately, their first stop in the East was at Yankee Stadium. They landed in New York Tuesday and since then dropped three straight to the Yankees, losing a daffy 9-7 affair yesterday when the Yankee home-hitters [illegible] from behind with a [illegible] in the seventh.

Those three defeats [illegible] giving them a total [illegible] wins against [illegible] this year, have made their hold on fourth place a shaky one [illegible]. And they're in [illegible] now that Tom Yawkey's [illegible] Red Sox are getting hot.

Yankees Clean Up Cleveland Series

New York, June 18 (US)—A five-run [illegible] the seventh inning enabled the New York Yankees to sweep a three-game series with the Cleveland Indians, 9 to 7.

The win increased the league lead of the Yankees to [illegible] a half games over [illegible].

The explosion in the seventh was [illegible] off by a [illegible] by Frank Crosetti and ended with a single by Jake Powell with the bases full for two runs. [illegible] and George Selkirk [illegible] for the circuit, Selkirk's being his [illegible] of the year.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

A Nationwide Organization Devoted To American Youth in Aviation

By L. F. ROSS
Boston Wing Commander

The Salem Air Station of the U. S. Coast Guard and the Inter-City Air Lines will be represented among the planes which will circle Franklin Field on Monday, June 28, dip their wings and roar a salute to Junior Birdmen during the annual outdoor New England championship model plane tournament, it is announced.

[illegible] informed wing headquarters that a [illegible] from the Salem Air Station will fly over the scene [illegible] the day [illegible] permit.

S[illegible] will speak to [illegible] the public address system at the field.

"Bob" Love, head of Inter-City Air Lines, declared he was glad to co-operate in the plan to honor the Junior Birdmen and, with other operators, will [illegible] as many of his planes as possible [illegible] that day.

Several Hopedale Birdmen will be among contestants. Under sponsorship of the Walter H. Tillotson Post, American Legion, a contest will be held there tomorrow and winners will be brought to Boston on June 28 by Winthrop A. Reed, associate wing director of the Junior Birdmen, and R. E. Hayward. Both will serve as contest officials here.

The Hopedale contest will consist of three events, gliders, stick models and R. O. G. cabin models to the same specifications required for the wing tournament. The Hopedale contest committee includes Frank Batz, William [illegible], Samuel L. Webster and Ernest [illegible].

A Lawrence [illegible] free transportation to the Boston tournament by winning a [illegible]. That contest will be held on Sunday, June 27, under auspices of the Lawrence Model Airplane Club squadron of the Junior Birdmen. Oscar Meteyer, associate wing director, Willis G. Symonds, boys work director, Y. M. C. A., Herbert K. Weiss and others will have charge of the competition.

Another official at the meet will be John G. Han[illegible] of Fall River. He, too, is bringing several Junior Birdmen contestants from that city to compete for the championship.

Miss Esther E. Larsen, teacher of John Winthrop school and sponsor of the Flying Hawks [illegible] will be present with 21 members of that unit, three of whom are girls. Roy Ore, the commander, is expected to make a strong bid for one of the chief prizes.

Waltham Junior Birdmen will be represented by an undetermined number of contestants who are expected to arrive in busses arranged by Howard Cheney, director of junior activities in the public [illegible] there. Waleigh Brown and [illegible] Quincy model plane builders [illegible] will be among the [illegible].

Other inspectors will be Gera[illegible] Everett, William F. New[illegible] Cambridge, and [illegible] Hopedale.

With more than 150 model builders already registered, four states will be represented at the meet. They are Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Radioland Reflections

By N. F. T.

VERILY, a cast has been huddled for the "Hollywood Hotel" air attraction (WEEI) at 9 o'clock tonight.

Gilbert Roland, Helen Mack, Gail Patrick and Lew Ayres will do a "nuke" version of "The Last Train From Madrid," as adapted from the forthcoming film bearing the same label.

Presentation of these personalities by Louella Parsons, noted screen scribe for the Boston Evening American and other Hearst papers, brings forth a story of the current Spanish squabble, first of film efforts to fashion romantic drama around the revolution now raging in that country of blood puddles. Critics who have seen the picture preview [illegible] something that can hardly fail to click.

NEEDLES FOR N. F. T.

A nicely penned letter [illegible] well worded longhand—reaches the desk from Chicago, sent by Wendell Hall ("Red Headed Music Maker").

One of the "Radioland Reflections" written on this trusty but rusty typewriter some two weeks ago told of "Goldy and Dusty" being the first team to hold forth on the air in radioland back when Dad sat up late to hear what he could hear when the old cats-whisker crystal sets needed earphones.

It is the contention of Wendell Hall [illegible] that his was the first sponsored air assignment. He forwards a folder to bear him out and he's quite right.

The [illegible] merely said "Goldy and Dusty" served as the first "team" supported by sponsorship. Wendell is a wonder indeed, a grand guy and certainly a gifted artist of great versatility, but he's not actually a "team" despite his numerous network voice characterizations.

He's a team at home, however, because well remembered is the occasion of his taking unto himself a bride for the broadcasting of the first wedding ceremony to be wafted by radio.

Wendell is still going strong and a mainstay of the present coast-to-coast half hour setting with Milton Berle heard every Sunday evening (WEEI) between 10 and 10:30 p. m.

One of the striking friendships developed in network circles recently is that of W. C. Fields for Edgar (Charlie McCarthy) Bergen, regardless of the "redwood nose" razzing which "Charlie" visited upon Fields.

It seems that Fields has always admired the ventriloquistic art of Bergen and the latter in turn regarded Fields as his favorite stage and screen comedian.

Tom Hussey, the Yankee Network staff announcer so well liked by loudspeaker patrons all over New England, is back at his post (WNAC and WAAB) after a three-day honeymoon sojourn at Marblehead.

BUNKER HILL BEAT

Another bouquet belongs to John (Bud) Reilly, the program planner and general doings director at WMEX hereabouts.

Commendation is in order following the masterful manner of "picking up" the patriotic proceedings and parade while Bunker Hill Day was being celebrated in Charlestown yesterday.

He did a decidedly dandy job of it from start to finish.

Governor Earle of Pennsylvania (second state), and Mayor Wilson of Philadelphia (third city) extended eloquent greetings to these parts by means of a splendidly timed transfer of network controls. Our own Commonwealth head man and City Hall administrator were not on hand for what Philly had a right to fully expect as a measure of executive acknowledgment.

They even rang the good old Liberty bell down in the city of brotherly love, which is a rare civic gesture.

Countless local listeners must surely be wondering today if Quaker Town will overlook our seeming provincial complacency about such things.

As stated, the WMEX arrangements were showmanly and made [illegible] the traditional spirit of the [illegible] to take hold of it by the wa[illegible].

It is understood that Jack Pearl, or the "Baron Munchausen," so long a rather courageous self casting fellow concerning his melodramatic air roles, plans to play the part of "Prince Charming" for his "Cinderella" impression (WBZ) this evening from 10 to 10:30 p. m.

STIRRING STORY

Hearing the history of how the Marx Brothers have come along [illegible] as brought from boyhood by a self-sacrificing mother and related by Alexander Woollcott on the air waves (WEEI) last night is to admire the Marx men all the more.

A pity indeed as Woollcott stated that Mrs. Marx could not have lived to see "A Day at the Races" and realize the strides her lads have made since she trained and managed them as "The Nightingales" and couldn't clear expenses. She passed on nine years ago when her sons were working out "Animal Crackers" for the films.

MR. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

CHARLES F. ADAMS tells me he is of the opinion that Wally Berger was no longer one of the top outfielders of the National League when sold to the Giants by the Bees.

Mr. Boston

"Berger's arm has been giving him trouble all season," said Adams. "This naturally took away from his value to our club. Baseball has speeded up to a point where an outfielder must be able to throw out players at the plate if a team is to keep up in the pennant race.

"I believe Frank Gabler will prove a successful pitcher for the Bees. He is still young, and his baseball future should be very much in front of him.

"Bob Quinn and Bill McKechnie are seeking new talent. Bob made a wonderful deal when he secured Lou Fette for $20,000 and two players. I am rooting for Bob Quinn to land a couple of more players of the Fette standard."

I understand that the $35,000 the Bees got along with Gabler in the Berger deal will be used to purchase new players. It is likely they will be minor league stars rather than players who are now in the major leagues.

"I think Roy Johnson will play good ball for the Bees," went on Adams. "Johnson is a capable outfielder, and an exceptionally good hitter. I confess I was surprised when the Bees were able to get Johnson on waivers for $7500. Roy is worth lots more money than that."

RACING MEETING SUCCESS

ADAMS SAYS the Suffolk Downs race meeting which closes tomorrow has proved successful.

"We have had excellent racing," said Adams, "while both attendance figures and mutuel handle have run ahead of a year ago. I believe the summer meeting, which will feature the Massachusetts Handicap on August 7, will be even more successful.

"The public now accepts the pictures of the Futurity Foto Finish camera without any protest. It has been proved repeatedly during the Suffolk Downs meeting that the inside horse gets an equal break with the outside horse in these pictures.

"It is necessary for every race track to have the best possible camera to take pictures of finishes. The public is definitely picture minded, and you must be able to satisfy it on this point."

ROBERT GIVEN TOP RATING

YVON ROBERT is still giving top ranking in my list of heavyweight wrestlers. I have seen numerous recent rankings of the wrestlers but I believe the young Frenchman from Montreal is entitled to first position.

I place Ed Don George second, Dan O'Mahony, third, Steve Casey fourth, George Clark fifth, Everett Marshall sixth, Jim Londos seventh, Henri DeGlane eighth, Tor Johnson ninth, and Dean Detton tenth.

Robert is back training in Montreal and is likely to participate in some of the major outdoor matches this summer.

Paul Bowser has made a move in the right direction in signing Ed Don George to battle Steve Casey in a finish bout at a Crosscup-Pishon Post show at Fenway Park on June 29. This match will do much to clear up the muddle in the heavyweight division. It will eliminate either George or Casey, and will pave the way for a tussle between the victor and either Dan O'Mahony or Yvon Robert.

George has shown amazing wrestling form since he returned to this country following his world's tour. He won over K. O. Koverly and Dazzler Clark in impressive style. Ed believes he will regain his world title before the end of the summer mat season.

Casey is a powerful, raw-boned fellow. He has tremendous power. Steve has won more than 300 matches during his wrestling career. He has yet to meet with defeat, and does not believe that George will be able to conquer him.

George has selected a training camp in Marshfield. He will be located at the Webster House, while Casey will do his training at the Relay House in Nahant.

RANDOM SHOTS AT TARGET

JIM MUNROE considers Rough Time the fastest horse in the world at half a mile . . . Jim is busy getting his handicaps ready for the opening of the Rockingham Park meeting . . . Lou Smith has been at the Salem, N. H., racing strip and says everything is in readiness for New Hampshire's 1937 thoroughbred season . . . Rockingham Park is operated at a cost of $14,000 a day against $26,000 a day for Narragansett Park and $25,000 a day for Suffolk Downs. If Rockingham can handle $300,000 a day, Lou Smith and his associates will be happy.

It has been necessary to deny hundreds of horsemen stables at Rockingham . . . With so many horsemen seeking stables Munroe has been able to select the better horses for his race meeting.

RUNS TAUNTON 6TH RACE

By MATTHEW KEANEY

BEST BET—TANTA, SIXTH

Taunton, June 18—Tanta appears the logical choice in tonight's sixth at Taunton and is the safest wagering hazard on the card.

Dutch Hollen figures well in the featured ninth race. Another Chord will make most of the running here though Golly Man and Gleeful cannot be too lightly regarded.

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY
LADY ANNETTE, BOY BRIGHT, MAIN ISSUE

P P	Dog Owner	Wt	P Odds
7	Lady Annette, O. Wohlauf	49	5-2
4	Boy Bright, Glenwood Ken	61	[illegible]
2	Main Issue, W. Prevatt	65	5-1
8	You Missed It, G. Rogers	56½	6-1
3	Sonova Horsham, P. Burnett	54	4-1
6	Gang Lord, Narragansett	68	6-1
8	Stub Maurine, F. Spencer	60	10-1
1	Cadet Blue, H. Bryant	66	10-1

SECOND RACE—5-16 MILE
PRAIRIE MOON, ROSANNA, GRACIE ALLEN

3	Prairie Moon, O. Beckner	51	7-2
6	Rosanna, F. Paterino	48	7-2
1	Gracie Allen, P. Conway	[illegible]	3-1
[illegible]	Kate Careless [illegible]	70	8-1
3	South Comet, O. Dahlberg	69	8-1
8	Roe Breeze, O. Beckner	60½	10-1
2	Lively Mistress, K. Stephenson	47	10-1

PRAIRIE MOON'S [illegible] and it would seem its chances were best tonight. ROSANNA is strictly the one to beat with GRACIE ALLEN ever dangerous and [illegible] chance.

THIRD RACE—[illegible] MILE
BLUE GALE, BLACK STONEY POINT, TRAGEDY

8	Blue Gale, O. Beckner	63½	3-1
1	Black Stoney Point, C. Looney	61	4-1
2	Tragedy, H. Spencer	49½	4-1
4	Top Hill, Cedar Point Ken.	54	6-1
6	Pin Ball, J. Fortier	65	6-1
1	Red Coupon, J. Prevatt	68	8-1
7	Crafty Chief, W. Bryant	58	10-1
5	Cordon Rouge, C. Shivels	48	10-1

In its last two, BLUE GALE encountered trouble. With any degree of racing luck it ought to score. Throw out BLACK STONEY POINT'S last. Off its schoolings TRAGEDY is taken for the rest of the purse.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY
WISE DREAM, FOG, WOODBURY

1	Wise Dream, C. Burnett	47½	3-1
4	Fog, J. Highhouse	57	3-1
8	Woodbury, G. Rogers	63	4-1
6	Bright Banquet, T. Baird	59	7-1
3	Burrywood, F. Palermo	59	8-1
2	Cardova, M. Dubiel	51	8-1
3	Texas Jiggs, O. Beckner	61½	10-1
2	Tony Lad, H. Bagwell	57	12-1

FIFTH RACE—5-16 MILE
INEZ, ELK PARK, RITE ROYAL

8	Inez, P. Boone	56	5-2
5	Elk Park, J. Williams	64	4-1
2	Rite Royal, W. Prevatt	71	4-1
7	Black Gander, S. Breeze Ken	54	6-1
2	Prolonge, M. Dubiel	60	8-1
4	Fell's Miss, E. Rhine	55½	8-1
1	Singing Breeze, F. Palermo	65	10-1
8	Daffy Roll, F. Stutz	62	12-1

INEZ was a handy winner in its last and should repeat. ELK PARK, which likes to run on the rail, should be close while RITE ROYAL, recently moved up, has a claim on the balance.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY
TANTA, NIGHT CALL, SMASHING PORTHOS

5	Tanta, I. Butterworth	60	2-1
4	Night Call, W. Bryant	62	4-1
8	Smashing Porthos, Stephenson	62	5-1
3	Side Wheeler, C. Shivels	61	5-1
1	Patrol Escort, M. T. Dubiel	66	6-1
2	Lesterlite, J. Boone	58	8-1
5	Pepper Roll, Glenwood Ken	61	8-1
8	Royal Earl, F. Falk	67½	10-1

SEVENTH RACE—5-16 MILE
CAMERON COUNTESS, TEO TONE, SHY MAJOR

8	Cameron Countess, H. Bryant	51	3-1
6	Teo Tone, P. Boone	64	4-1
8	Shy Major, J. Williams	70	4-1
5	Major Jamestown, O. Wohlauf	69	6-1
4	Marshall's Gift, L. Kirkpat'k	73	6-1
7	Alma Darling, N'gansett Ken	55	8-1
1	Mystic Shrine, H. Bagwell	64	10-1
2	Little C., J. Boone	47	10-1

CAMERON COUNTESS' record gives her a slight edge over the field but not so great as to make her a certainty. [illegible] TEO TONE which was [illegible] SHY MAJOR has [illegible]

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY

8	My Cherry, Glenwood Ken	54	8-1
1	My Bugger, Standard Ken	65	10-1
7	Carl Ed, F. Athanasau	64	10-1

DUTCH HOLLEN, after several failures, seems the right spot here and is given the nod. The win he must [illegible] ANOTHER CHORD, which has been racing well. GOLLY MAN is a serious threat off his last race.

TENTH RACE—FUTURITY
STORMY BREEZE, BLUE CYCLONE, YOUNG PORTHOS

VARSITY Crew Faces TEST

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 18 (INS)—A. Ulbrickson, Washington's coach, will send his two boats down the river in a race this evening which may put the junior varsity in the big race here Tuesday.

The varsity crew, last year's Olympic champions, have been coming along slowly since their arrival. In West Coast trials they were consistently beaten by the jayvees.

At other crew quarters, however, little credence was given the rumor the jayvees would start in the Poughkeepsie regatta. It was generally conceded Ulbrickson was merely talking to whip up the varsity spirits.

Betting has put Washington down as the 2 to 1 favorite, with California and Navy priced at [illegible] to 1 and Syracuse at 12 to 1. No price was given on Wisconsin, Cornell and Columbia.

POTATO OMELET

1 cup mashed potatoes
¼ tsp. pepper
3 tbsps. cream or milk
1 tsp. salt
3 eggs

Separate the whites and yolks of the eggs. Add the yolks to the potatoes and beat until there are no lumps. Season to taste with onion juice and chopped parsley. Beat the whites until stiff. Fold into potato mixture. Place in well oiled frying pan and bake in oven [illegible] degrees F. until golden brown. [illegible] on hot platter. Serve at once. Serves four.

LAUDS W. R. HEARST AT LINCOLN SHRINE

New Salem, Ill., June 18—"May this memorial ever remind the people of our state and nation of the wondrous heritage that has come to us because of Abraham Lincoln."

With these words Gov. Henry Horner climaxed his dedicatory address at the opening of three new restored log cabins on the ground hallowed by the "rail-splitter" and his neighbors a century ago.

Following a tender tribute to the Rutledges, Gulihurs and Trents whose cabins took their place with thirteen others of their neighbors previously restored, the Governor commended to the peoples of the world a new communion with the Lincoln ideals that were fashioned at New Salem's Knoll.

"Too much credit," he said, "could not be paid the living descendants of the Lincoln neighbors at New Salem, to the Petersburg folks, the Old Salem Lincoln League and to William Randolph Hearst for their part in initiating the movement that culminated in the dedication.

"He, too, felt the tender, historic sentiment of this locality. While still here Mr. Hearst purchased sixty acres of this new Salem land, conveyed it to the Chautauqua Association. This was the first definite step toward preserving for the public this sanctified area."

He expressed his regret that Mr. Hearst could not be here to join in the memorable celebration and to understand our gratitude."

Mr. Hearst sent the following telegram to Gov. Horner:

"Highly appreciate your kind message and am much honored by your personal invitation. I regret extremely that I have been unable to be present at the dedication of the restored Rutledge Tavern at New Salem Park. My reverence for Lincoln and for everything associated with his life and his inspiring Americanism is deep and sincere. My disappointment, therefore, at not being able to attend this memorable occasion is very great."

G. M. President Gives Forbes Cheery Facts

Will Make Up Lost Output; Union Heads Play Fair; Cars to Cost More

By B. C. Forbes

B. C. Forbes

General Motors estimates that by August it will have more than made up for the 133,000 production of cars lost during the six weeks' strike.

Up to the end of May output of 1937 models totaled 824,000 against 879,000 for the corresponding period a year ago, a decrease of 55,000 units.

June, July and August output, it is estimated, will reach 592,000. This would give a total for the 12 months of 1,416,000, against 1,369,000 for the 12 months up to August of last year, or an estimated gain of 47,000 units.

The financial world has been figuring that G. M. couldn't possibly recover the ground lost by labor troubles.

"Are automobile prices going to be raised?" I asked.

"Prices have to go up," President Knudsen replied emphatically.

"How soon?"

He went on:

"In our corporation wage rates have advanced an average of 17 cents an hour since last November. Then, the steel we buy has gone up $8 to $10 a ton. Everybody will see, therefore, that it is unavoidable that prices of cars will have to be raised."

When I broached the subject of labor, President Knudsen observed:

"It's terribly sad, what's been happening."

He went on to explain that of G. M.'s 240,000 employes, an average of 3000 to 5000, since the CIO agreement, have been forced into idleness daily.

"When 5000 wage earners are forced to cease work, it means that something like 25,000 individuals—representing wives and families—are directly affected. And every person in the community is hurt."

"So, your agreement with the CIO Union isn't working out satisfactorily?" I queried.

"I wouldn't go so far as to say that. I believe that the head officers of the automobile union are trying to live up to their agreements. But the rank and file have been kicking over the traces. The growth was so terrifically fast that the union heads didn't have time to effect proper organization all down the line.

"But I don't despair about the longer outlook. At present we have the hives and there's no use scratching. I'm confident that common sense will again come to the top and that we will be okay again."

President Knudsen is seriously concerned, however, over possibilities that costs of producing automobiles may be forced out of balance with the general wage level, the general income and the general price level throughout the country.

"If motor wages are forced out of line they will come home to roost; the workers themselves will be hurt. We have been able to accomplish a lot in increasing the efficiency of our production machines and the like. But there is a limit to that.

"When automobile prices go up, it takes more bushels of wheat, more tons of coal, more cattle or pigs to buy a motor car."

As our talk ended, "Big Bill" Knudsen's characteristic smile returned. "Our job is to try to keep running, to try to keep people at work, to try to do our best to make and sell as many cars as we can. That's just what we're doing."

Massachusetts Car Registrations Dip

There was a sharp decline in automobile registration in Massachusetts during May. A total of 73,422 passenger and commercial cars were registered, compared with 81,074 a year ago. Trailer registrations were slightly lower at 1457, against 1491 in 1936. Total fees received declined to $531,008, from $551,840 last year.

For the first six months of the state' fiscal year, to May 31, total passenger and commercial car registrations ran well ahead of 1936, amounting to 884,779, against 822,888. Trailer registrations for the period were 7655, against 5426 in 1936. Fees received during the six months aggregated $4,858,501, compared with $4,644,246 last year.

TELL STORY OF RECOVERY

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

New York, June 18—To answer the current question of how much has the recovery been retarded, this department has compiled some figures covering stock, bond and commodity prices, industrial production and such other business barometers as freight carloadings, electric power and steel.

To reverse the accepted procedure of putting the best foot forward the statistics on the securities markets and commodities are presented first. They follow:

SECURITIES

Industrial stocks	194.40	165.86	—28.54
Utility stocks	37.54	26.06	—11.48

Steel output	92.3%	76.6%	— 15.7%

aFigures cover week with Memorial Day holiday.

Keeping in mind this is getting around to the season of the year when there is normally a reaction in trade, and also that spring 16 out of 17 times sees a house cleaning in the market, it will be noted from the above figures that the main reaction has been in stocks and commodities.

Trade, with the exception of steel, is holding up fairly well. And the decline in steel operations is due almost entirely to strikes rather than any falling off in demand.

Part of the decline in stocks and commodities has been due to a correction of overspeculation, most of which was abroad. Then, the farm commodities have sold off additionally on prospects of larger crops. This kind of selling is not bearish, for farmers in the aggregate get more for a larger crop than for a smaller one, regardless of the market price. Then, larger crops means more business for railroads. And that is bullish.

In addition to the overspeculation the stock market has been upset about the spreading strikes. The fear is that the labor troubles will put a real crimp in the business recovery this Fall, unless a workable and definite solution is found in the next month.

So to sum up, the halt in the recovery has been so far largely in the speculative markets and its spread to general business seems to depend on what course the labor troubles take.

Haney Gives His Impressions of Steel Situation

By LEWIS HANEY
(Professor of Economics, New York University)

New York, June 18—Naturally there is now a widespread and intense interest in the steel industry. It is the present center of the Committee for Industrial Organization drive to gain control of labor and to participate in the management of the nation's chief industries. Moreover, the steel stocks are leaders on the security markets and many people are affected as investors.

The first impression I get is that without aid from the administration the strike would be as good as lost.

The second one is that, while such aid has been given thus far, there is a possibility that violence on the part of the strikers may make it politically inexpedient for the administration to go ahead along the lines it has followed. Federal intervention may be forced at any moment.

Thus it seems improbable that the strikers will gain anything more than a compromise. And the action taken to start sympathetic strikes in allied industries may serve as the last straw in the political resistance to passing laws that will make the leaders of organized labor more responsible to society for their acts.

It is the fear of this last development that is most effective in holding those leaders somewhere within sight of the bounds of law and order.

An outstanding fact is this: There have been no apparent gains in the effectiveness of the steel strike since the first shutdowns were forced. Rather the contrary.

The cold figures show that in the Pittsburgh district, excepting Johnstown, production remains unchanged at 93 per cent. In the Chicago area the ingot output at 64 per cent actually gained one point last week.

And one reason for this condition is seen in the fact that there has been very little diversion of orders for steel from the "struck" plants to others. Such shifting as has occurred has been mostly in cases in which the original order had been split between two or more companies. Evidently steel consumers are not under great pressure for material.

As to the strike at certain coal mines, it is reported that the steel companies have several weeks' supply of fuel in stock.

Now, how about the condition of general industry?

I would say that, aside from labor troubles, the two main drawbacks are the backwardness of building, and the lull in railway equipment buying.

Building, as a capital goods industry, is held down by monetary uncertainty as well as by high costs, including inflated wages. The demand for fabricated structural steel, plates, and shapes has declined. Even government work has been held up—whether with intent to influence the strike or not, I do not know.

Railway buying has turned quiet, and no new program for additional equipment is in sight. But in this case, it is not unlikely that large crops this fall, especially if accompanied by more active business, will soon bring in new buying.

Current reports from steel producing centers are on the whole rather encouraging. "New business" appears to have picked up last week. It is particularly notable that demand for manufacturers' wire, bolts, nuts, and rivets, and oil country pipe has shown improvement.

There is sustained activity in the automobile, refrigerator, stove, tractor and farm implement industries at a high level. This means active specification on orders for sheets, strip, bars, etc. Even at Chicago, it seems that foundries and farm equipment manufacturers are operating at unchanged high rates.

I note, too, that while deliveries have become easier in some cases this is not general. Consumers in most cases still have to wait several weeks.

On top of this condition, the stocks of some jobbers who get supplies from the struck plants are being depleted.

In conclusion, I quote a passage from Iron Age's Philadelphia report, which sums up well: "There are still enough orders on books to keep local mills busy at current rates over the next month, and enough additional business is trickling in to guarantee comparatively satisfactory operations throughout the summer."

CURRENT BRITISH TRADE PROBLEM

In the early 1930's the various sections of the British Empire concluded the Ottawa agreements, which have the objective of building up empire trade. The Ottawa pact has not worked out to the satisfaction of the empire.

One of the prime considerations of the London talks among the empire premiers are the current negotiations for a reciprocal British-Empire tariff agreement. Such a treaty involves certain concessions to the United States which, under present conditions, might violate the Ottawa Agreements among the advertising principles of the British empire.

The chart shows the trend of empire business since Ottawa. In 1931 only 29 per cent of total imports into Great Britain originated within the Empire. By 1936 this had grown to 39 per cent. In other words, last year Great Britain bought nearly 4-10 of all of its imports from the other members of the British Empire.

What were these other parts of the Empire doing in the way of buying British goods? In 1931, 44 per cent of all British exports went to the Empire. In 1936, 49 per cent of its exports went to these customers.

The chart based on percentages, but it should be remembered that Great Britain imports a great deal more merchandise both in value and in quantity, than it exports. British imports last year totaled 849,000,000 pounds sterling, its exports totaled 440,00,000 pounds sterling.

Weekly Business Review Reveals Sharp Declines

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, June 18 (INS)—Weekly business review:

PRODUCTION: New labor disputes precipitated a sharp decline in many lines of industrial output.

A Commerce Department survey noted a material reduction in automobile assemblies as a result of labor disorders. Steel output receded again after last week's slight advance.

Labor unrest, coupled with seasonal slackening, caused industrial operations so far this month to dip well under normal levels.

The commerce survey also found several unfavorable factors in latest construction statistics. Residential building contracts awarded in May were considerably lower than in April. While residential construction in April was 60 per cent better than in the same month a year ago, the figures for May show only a 20 per cent increase over May, 1936.

PRICES: Wholesale commodity prices continued their decline, bringing many quotations down to levels of a year ago. The most important recession occurred in farm product prices which fell to the lowest point of the year. Cotton quotations also registered a substantial drop.

NEW BORROWING

GOVERNMENT FINANCE: New borrowing and a $500,000,000 payment to Treasury trust funds pushed the Federal public debt past the $36,000,000,000 mark, the highest point in history. Earlier this week, President Roosevelt promised the debt would begin to taper down as a result of continued economies in government expenditures.

June 15 income taxes, on the basis of preliminary reports, are 69 per cent greater than last year. Virtually all other revenues, except Social Security taxes, are running ahead of estimates.

RETAIL CREDIT: With instalment buying again approaching the pre-depression volume, government economists sounded a gentle warning that business might again experience the misfortune of 1929.

More than 50 per cent of the nation's retail stores are now extending credit and 32 per cent of their gross sales are on the instalment plan. In addition, retailers have removed many restrictions on credit buying.

A Commerce Department report observed that new developments in instalment selling may be responsible for future heavy losses.

RETAIL OUTPUT UP

Warmer Weather Is Factor

New York, June 18 (AP)—Most divisions of trade succeeded in surmounting increasing handicaps to progress this week, Dun & Bradstreet said today in their weekly review of business.

"Accumulated summer requirements, spurred by warmer weather, imparted a faster momentum to retail trade," the agency said. "The broader flow of reorders to wholesalers for seasonal goods revealed the cautious policy merchants have followed in building inventories. An extension of the strike map resulted in temporary unsettlement of production schedules, but industries outside the affected zones maintained previous operating rates."

The agency estimated retail output for the country as a whole from 3 to 6 per cent above the preceding week and 12 to 20 per cent better than a year ago. Individual gains in major areas were: New England, 10 to 16 per cent; East, 16 to 22, Midwest, 10 to 20; Northwest, 15 to 21; South, 18 to 25; Southwest, 12 to 22, and Pacific coast, 10 to 18.

On the retail front the Review said interest spread to nearly all departments with summer needs outranking other purchases. Special "Father's Day" promotions made a substantial contribution to the output and June weddings provided some firms with the largest volume of business in years.

Requirements through July and August were covered more generously in wholesale markets, the agency said, adding that rising farm income and increased wage scales were important factors in inducink retailers to cover ahead.

Foreign Exchange Mart Little Changed

New York, June 18 (INS)—Foreign currencies were little changed today. Favorable and unfavorable reports from Paris—of stabilization of the franc with the help of the U. S. and Great Britain and of the curbing of Premier Blum's powers to defend French credit—had little effect.

The French franc dipped only ¼ point to 4.45¼ cents, while the belga rose ½ to 16.88½; the Swiss franc held unchanged at 22.92 and the guilder rose ⅛ to 54.99½. The British pound eased 1-16 cent to $4.93 13-16.

Gold in London was unchanged at 140 shillings 6-½ pence, the U. S. equivalent rose 1 cent to $34.70 and the Bank of France rate was unchanged at 25,023 francs per kilo.

SMALL Banks Weak LINK

20TH CENTURY FUND'S SURVEY

New York, June 18 (AP)—A warning that small banks are weak links in America's business banking structure was included today in the report of the 20th Century Fund's study of big business. More than half of all national banking institutions which have less than $500,000 in loans and investments have "inadequate profits," a report on the two-year study asserted.

The minimum level of "adequacy" was set at 6 per cent return on the bank stockholder's investment, the assumption being that any lower percentage is "probably not sufficient to enable a bank to pay dividends and set aside adequate reserves."

Institutions operating on between $250,000 and $500,000 in loans and investments failed to produce a 6 per cent return in 53 per cent of the cases. In the $150,000 to $250,000 class, 62 per cent fell below the minimum standard. The very smallest banks, those with less than $150,000, made the worst showing, with 74 per cent reporting less than 6 per cent profit.

Banks above the $500,000 line grew increasingly prosperous with size.

Forty-five per cent of those with loans and investments of between $500,000 and $750,000 were still failing to make the required 6 per cent. But the proportion of "inadequate" banks dropped to 20 per cent in the very biggest institutions—these with $50,000,000 or more loans and investments.

Numerically, the $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 banks made the "safest" showing, with 797 of 1330 institutions in the "adequate" category.

The weakest situation, in point of numbers of banks, existed in the $250,000 to $500,000 division, the biggest group in the study. Of its 1619 banks, 853, or 53 per cent were below the specified minimum.

"A better way to show the poor record of the smaller institutions," the report said, "is to point out that while in the smallest class 35 per cent of the banks made no profits," the larger banks had increasingly fewer deficits as the size of the institutions grew.

In the $150,000 to $500,000 groups, the banks with deficits made up 22 per cent of the total; in the $500,000 to $1,000,000 class, 14 per cent; in the $1,000,000 to $5,000,000 class, 10 per cent; and in the $5,000,000 and over class, 6 per cent.

When the report examined the country geographically, it was found that small banks prosper best in the northeastern states and make their worst showing in the West.

After reporting deficits ranging from 4.3 per cent to 10.1 per cent in 1932, 1933 and 1934, they earned net profits of 2.3 per cent in 1935 and 7.6 per cent in 1936.

Air Lines Traffic Better in May

May was the best month since last October for United Air Lines. Last month United flew a total of 9,186,206 revenue passenger miles, compared with 5,844,177 in April and 10,405,836 in May, 1936. Revenue passengers carried last month totaled 17,819 compared with 12,161 in April, a gain of 47 per cent.

The sharper gain in revenue passenger miles than in passengers resulted from the increased coast-to-coast traffic following the installation of the larger DC3s, according to B. B. Cragg, sales manager.

Pa. R. R. Tries Out New Box Car

Philadelphia, June 18 (AP)—The Pennsylvania railroad placed in experimental service a new steel box car 13½ per cent lighter than previous models.

The railroad announced yesterday that the car was of standard size, and the weight reduction was made through changes in design and construction. The new cars would reduce the weight of a 100-car train 335 tons.

New Peak for Federal Debt

The federal public debt soared to $36,633,097,802 on June 15, highest in history, Treasury statistics reveal. On the same date a year ago the debt was $34,331,355,867.

Issuance of $800,000,000 in new securities this month, coupled with a $500,000,000 payment to the government social security fund, brought the debt figure to its all-time peak.

Taxes for Fugitive Francs

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

It must be apparent even to casual readers of financial news that the United States is a tax conscious nation. Congress is seeking ways and means of closing so-called loopholes in the federal income tax law and the treasury is expected to ask for legislation imposing a heavy tax on foreign funds in this country. The latter in an attempt to help France round up wayward francs.

It is getting to be something of a bromide when every problem is solved by the same method. Just think of a new tax and presto you have the answer. That standard prescription has already been supplied to the farm problem, to those corporations that saved a share of their earnings for a rainy day and now it is expected to aid French Premier Blum in his efforts to keep the wealth of French nationals at home. Perhaps it will work but if conditions in France are not to the liking of conservative francs the tax will have to be mighty close to confiscation to start gold flowing across the water. It will simply be a case of the lesser of two evils. And another thing what about London? It has been a heaven or refuge, if you like, for harassed francs before. As a "hot money" cure the tax will be fine for the United States but M. Blum will hardly be helped by francs going from New York to London.

Construction activity so far in June is not coming up to expectations. If the pace is not accelerated in the latter half of the month the poorest showing made so far this year will result. The trend was first perceived in March when the rate of gain dropped sharply. And should it continue July will not show any gain at all according to current indications. Many reasons are put forward for the unimpressive constuction figures and it is a question of looking them over and taking your choice. Personally we scatter the blame among the three most often heard. Advancing costs are responsible in part, shaken public confidence because of labor unrest is also a factor while the decline in security values must be considered as a restrictive influence.

Although builders and equipment manufacturers are generally said to feel that the year as a whole will result in a good gain being shown over 1936, a cautioning note can be discerned. Their optimism is not shared by many other observers and followers of the markets and business must watch carefully in order to make sure that the situation does not deteriorate enough to throw the cheerful trade expectations of a few months ago out of line.

* * *

When professional stock market letter writers literally throw up their hands in disgust, as some did this week, the average trader and investor need make no apologies for their confusion. It has been one of the more difficult markets to fathom simply because people with money were honestly alarmed by the labor news. But with the initial steps to right the situation having been taken it does seem that from here on the news should be favorable. In any event it is hard to see how it can get worse without arbitration efforts completely breaking down. And with the Department of Labor's prestige involved we do not think that will happen.

Insofar as new buying suggestions are concerned we will wait until the market itself has started to make a reliable looking base regardless of labor developments. Stocks now held need not be disturbed unless recent action in individual instances has been unsatisfactory. Previous advices made here are still adhered to.

Notebook: R. Hoe's unfilled orders are said to be at a peak level for the year . . . Somewhere above $7,000,000 . . . It is expected the company will show around $3.80 a share on the "A" stock for the full year . . . It is expected that Consolidated Copper will shortly begin to deliver 6000 tons of ore daily to Kennecott instead of 3000 tons . . . Assuming operating costs to be about 7½ cents per pound such a production figure should result in earnings at the annual rate of between $1.25 and $1.50 per share . . . That is before depletion and on 14 cent copper.

UTILITY Shares JUMP

STOCKS TURN FIRM

New York, June 18—A sudden buying splurge in the long-neglected utility section firmed the stock market today, after losses running to well over a point had been sustained.

The upswing in utilities found little in the news to account for the sudden buoyancy. Electric Power & Light, and Standard Gas common each gained a point, while the latter's 4 per cent preferred jumped 2. Consolidated Edison, American Power & Light, North American and American Water Works gained close to a point.

Standard Oil of California spurted about a point. Texas Corp., Standard of N. J. and Consolidated Oil also were actively higher.

In motors, Chrysler came within a point of last night's finish, after having been down 3 points at one time. General Motors registered a modest gain.

Bonds were quiet and mixed, including Government issues. Grains were under moderate pressure. Cotton also eased.

CURRENT ITEMS

Trading forces, in addition to studying the steel strike mediation move, scanned business surveys for trend clues.

The week-end review of Dun & Bradstreet sounded a rather cheerful not. Despite labor handicaps, it found retail activities throughout the country pushing ahead briskly. Accumulated summer requirements, spurred by warmer weather, it was said, imparted faster momentum to public spending.

For the country as a whole retail gains over the previous week were placed at 3 to 6 per cent and 12 to 20 per cent above the same period last year. Livelier wholesale distribution was also seen.

Sterling and the French franc were a shade lower at the beginning of foreign exchange transactions, the former at $4.98 13-16 and the latter at 4.45¼ cents.

Comments of Brokers

I consider federal intervention a constructive development but its actual importance from a market standpoint cannot be definitely weighed until the new board's recommendations are known. J. S. Wilson, Josephthal & Co.

We would not overlook the constructive implications inherent in the fact that the market today successfully negotiated a test of its underlying structure at a critical point. J. E. Molloy, Hornblower & Weeks.

The French situation is not considered at present to carry enough market dynamite to even partially offset the bullish implications that would be contained in the announcement of a settlement of the labor troubles. F. H. Richardson, Southgate & Co.

Believe the stock market may do better now, and would hold individual issues picked up on yesterday's sharp declines. Should labor leaders now order men back to work pending the new board's hearings and investigation, that would prove very helpful to market sentiment. H. D. Comer, Paine, Webber & Co.

From the trading standpoint, the market is now at one of those buying spots encountered only occasionally, where there is a critical technical level very close under current prices. A low was recorded several days back and thoroughly tested Thursday. Traders can use those lows as danger points and play for a rally which might be minor in character but which could turn out to be much more extensive.—G. M., P. Murphy & Co.

The appointment of a mediation board was interpreted as recognition on the part of the Administration that an emergency existed and it appears to be a good step forward toward the solution of labor troubles which have recently been the principal unsettling factor.—E. A. Pierce & Co.

Unless there is an unexpected and drastic turn for the worse in news, it is our view that a recovery movement somewhat similar to those of the recent past lies ahead for the near future. Near term trading policies may, we believe, be guided accordingly.—J. S. Bache & Co.

No important change in the character of the market appears in prospect so that a trading policy remains warranted.—J. P. Maher, Shields & Co.

Balanced Internal Economy

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service

New York, June 18—President Roosevelt's major contribution to recovery in the United States sprang from his concept of a balanced internal economy as expressed in the 1932 campaign. As a practical matter, he especially stressed the need of lifting farm prices and income in order to bring them up to a parity with industry.

Drouths, weather conditions and public policy have raised farm prices and income relatively, and the approach toward parity not only benefited farmers, but also the other groups who deal with them.

Prior to the improvement in relationships among the groups, business, limping along, was like an eight cylinder car, with two out of commission. It meant not only that two were impaired, but that the whole engine was rendered less efficient.

If John L. Lewis and his CIO are to be held within bounds, it will probably be up to Secretary Wallace and the farm groups for which he is spokesman to do the job.

For it is the farmers and other buyers of the products made by organized labor who must pay in increased prices of goods for arbitrary pay increases unrelated to gains in industrial efficiency. Unless through acts of providence or through new types of farm legislation, farm incomes are correspondingly stepped up, they will become seriously disturbed. Mr. Wallace has agreed, it is reported, to defer new farm legislative action until the next session of Congress.

Within the administration family, Secretary Wallace will have some strong allies in presenting the farmers' case.

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the governing board of the Federal Reserve System and a principal financial advisor to the President, sees the connection. In his March 15th statement, Mr. Eccles clearly stated:

The country needs the full and coordinated utilization of the three essential factors of man power, natural resources and capital until we have attained a maximum production and distribution of real wealth in the form of housing, clothing and other goods necessary to maintain and improve the standard of living of all of our people. It is not sound public policy and it is not in the ultimate interest of either capital, labor, or agriculture for any one of the three groups, broadly speaking, to try to gain an advantage at the expense of the others, which only makes for instability of the national economy and hence is bound to be temporary."

The obective of a balanced economy may logically bring Mr. Wallace into conflict with Secretary Hull as well as with Mr. Lewis. Total agricultural exports of the United States since the beginning of 1934 have been vastly less than American purchases of foreign gold, and total exports of principal farm products have been insufficient in amount to pay for principal agricultural imports.

Meantime, despite the subsidy of gold and silver purchases, total exports have fallen below imports, and there is increasing evidence that an indiscriminate foreign trade hurts rather than helps the internal economy.

The agricultural department's theory of a domestic price for agricultural products above the world price inevitably leads to a policy of economic nationalism, rather than the internationalism which Mr. Hull preaches.

As Mr. Wallace once said, America must choose.

Though total American exports fared less favorably than total imports since the Hull pacts were adopted, agricultural exports, which were to be the special beneficiaries of the new policy, failed to do nearly as well as non-agricultural exports. In 1935, while non-agricultural exports increased $128,000,000, agricultural exports rose only by $14,000,000; and in 1936, when non-agricultural exports climbed $212,000,000, agricultural exports decreased by $38,000,000.

Thus, it must be apparent to Mr. Wallace that the internationalist remedy is not solving the problems of the American farmer.

"Keep Out of War Day"

ON June 15 twelve European nations, being in arrears to the United States $1,314,821,109 on a total war debt of $12,000,000,000, defaulted payment.

None of these countries is bankrupt. None of these countries gives any excuse whatsoever for debt-welching.

As a matter of fact, none of these countries cares a peanut-shell about the debt.

And, if the truth were known, none of these countries has any intention of EVER PAYING.

What they are set on doing is bluffing MORE MONEY out of us.

So it is quite proper, as the Washington Herald suggests, that we make June 15 a kind of MEMORIAL DAY to "debt default remembrance."

QUITE properly, the Herald suggests that this take the form of a national "KEEP OUT OF WAR DAY."

For just as May 30 is dedicated to the memory of those American soldiers who fell on the battlefields so "Keep Out of War Day" will keep fresh in our minds our billions of dollars that went out of our pockets into the hungry maw of war-crazed Europe—NEVER TO RETURN.

Senator Copeland in indorsing this idea has truthfully said:

"IF NOW THE DEFAULTED WAR DEBTS CAN BE SEATED INTO THE NATIONAL MIND AS A REMINDER THAT THE DEBTS OF THE LAST WAR ARE STILL UNPAID, AND THAT THE DEBTS OF FUTURE WARS ALSO NEVER CAN BE PAID, THEN THESE DEFAULTED DEBTS WILL BE WORTH MORE THAN ANY 5 CENTS OR 50 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR WHICH EUROPE WOULD OFFER."

On June 15, then, hereafter let us hold meetings, let us have radio talks and let the American newspapers remind the whole world that the mistake we once made shall not be repeated by us.

IF these twelve defaulting nations have no sense of honor, let us proclaim to the world on every June 15 that we HAVE A SENSE OF HONOR, and that that sense of honor is best served by not only KEEPING OUT OF ALL EUROPEAN WARS BUT LENDING NO MORE MONEY TO EUROPE TO FINANCE HER WARS.

A Rockport Boy Shows Us

WE cannot agree with those graybeards who condemn youth and confuse Graduation Day and Doomsday.

If the portraits they draw of the modern girl and boy are the right ones, we certainly have been staring in the wrong direction. To us, the graduates of today are a thoroughly healthy, hopeful lot.

As proof, we offer Richard Lester Hull of Rockport. Richard, though blind, completes four years at his town's high school with a record that would do credit to any boy.

In fact, his marks were so good that the Rotary Club awards him a scholarship, making it possible for him to enter Clark University in September.

What will the graybeards say about that? Did blind boys overcome their handicap in their day?

We shall save them the trouble of answering. Handicaps were handicaps when Grandpa was a boy. Blindness meant all that the word implies. And complete withdrawal from the world was the usual fate of the unfortunate victim.

Today's young person is wiser. He fights afflictions, even sightlessness. He trains his mind and sees. He knows that in the gray matter behind the eyes reposes the only real sight.

She'd Never Stand for This!

IF the folks in the next world know what is going on in this, the late Hetty Green must be in a veritable frenzy today.

The City of Boston is levying a $232,000 tax on the jewelry of her son, the late Colonel Edward H. R. Green. Assessors say the gems, now stored in a bank vault, are worth $6,000,000.

Hetty, who wore patched dresses, walked miles to save on room rent and once rode in a locomotive to avoid the expense of a railroad coach, would have plenty to say about giving up $232,000.

It's well, perhaps, that she has passed on to a happier sphere. This problem would surely stump her. For even if she sold the jewels, the tax grabber would still haunt her. He'd produce an income tax blank.

The Quincy "Dog Purge"

QUINCY plans a "dog purge" and canine lovers are disturbed. Three thousand owners failed to license their Fidos, Teddies and Laddies. So it's the execution chamber for the unfortunate animals.

Can it be that Quincy people do not appreciate these most faithful of friends? No. Certainly not. They are either just plain forgetful or unable to raise the price of a license.

We are confident City Clerk Crane won't be too severe. He'll accept installment payments from those who are hard-pressed financially. Fido's blood won't be on his hands.

Tomorrow should be License Day in Quincy. Let every dog owner see Clerk Crane. In this distressed age we need the tender love and loyal devotion of our dogs.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

New York, June 18—Thoughts while strolling: Swell autobiography title—Burton Rascoe's "Before I Forget." Al Smith made a big mistake in seeing Paris after 50. Paris should be taken on around 21, when one is desperately in love and just a little bit broke. Paree! Paree!

Bowling comes back with—no pun intended — a bang. All the alleys jammed and new ones everywhere. Ed Wynn looks fluttery and on the verge of shrieking even off stage. Marlene Dietrich as a siren is a country boy's idea of city wickedness. The Frank V. Storrs' black Rolls with the snow white doors.

Those flashy Broadway haberdashers known as Marty, Eddie or Danny. Girls who try to imitate Katharine Hepburn's flat, metallic talk. When my ship comes in, I'm going to hire a light fingered Eddy Duchin to improvise on the piano while I rock on the front porch. Never see Julia Hoyt around any more.

Rhyme: Always a quorum to cheer for Bill Corum. Still leaders in the bushy eyebrow sweepstakes: Messmore Kendall, Royal Copeland and Lee Olwell. Personal rating of song writers: No. 1, Jerome Kern; No. 2, Irving Berlin; No. 3, Vincent Youmans. Biggest let down in baseball build-ups: Bob Feller.

Wolcott Gibbs thinks Benay Venuta sounds like something to rub on a stiff neck. That forlorn picket who still patrols in front of "No. 21." The gagsters say to keep Heywood Broun away. For a night club number: Clifton Webb and Baron Wrangel in a twin brother hoofing number.

It is good news for Broadway sentimentalists that Gus Edwards has clicked with a radio program on the coast. A program stressing his school-day vaudeville theme. His "School Days" tune is a popular song classic that has endured for 30 years.

It has been well chronicled that Edwards' revues cradled many stars. Such as George Jessel, Groucho Marx, Joe Laurie, Jr., Lila Lee, Eddie Buzzell, Georgie Price and Eddie Cantor. He rode the high tide until suddenly there developed a sudden shrink from sentiment and anything that suggested crinoline and old lace. And Edwards found himself no longer in the chips at an age past 60 and growing grayer.

But, always the actor, he strutted the Rialto, smiled and spoke of vague annuities soon due. Many heard whispers and offered financial aid which he loftily spurned. So now again he has emerged into a little sunlight of success and the hoofers, song and dance men and the like "on the beach" in front of the Palace have taken new hope.

Maritime music: On a dinky Yonkers ferry as it pulls out for the Jersey side, the old accordionist valiantly plays "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." And there used to be an equally tacky sight-seeing boat that went out to the Statue of Liberty with a seedy trio playing "Over the Waves."

And chivvying up a flock of old-time laughs in contrast to the more modern guffaws, I have never forgotten the titles of some of the old Keystone Comedies. There was one about a pair of aspiring and goofy authors and the movie was the enactment of their script. When things began to buzz in the act there flashed on the screen this line: "At this point the story got beyond the authors' control."

Kismet: I met the poet John Drinkwater on his last visit here, at Fannie Hurst's. Conversation somehow swung around the gruesome subject of death, in which, as I recall, Bob Davis, Daniel Frohman and several others joined. Drinkwater said, among other things: "I think all poets should go out in their sleep." And that was how he "went out" several weeks ago.

As an ex-puddle jumper, most of the "I'll swan stuff" heard on the radio sounds as though it might be some spatted Lambs Club actors trying to play country jake. A notable exception is the drawling palaver of those Ozarkians known as Lum and Abner. All of us have heard the same intonations and pronunciations up the holler and back in the creek crotches.

I'm on the fence too about Judy, Ann and Zeke Canova being the real hill billy articles. But there has never been any doubt about the Weaver Brothers and Elvira in vaudeville. They are pure, unalloyed jaspers.

There was the morning a dispirited group sat out in front of my father's hotel with the miseries. It was right after the St. Louis cyclone and there had been a drought and crops were withered. Just then a Happy Jack swung by and chirked, "I don't know what you fellers are going to do, but I'm goin' fishin'."

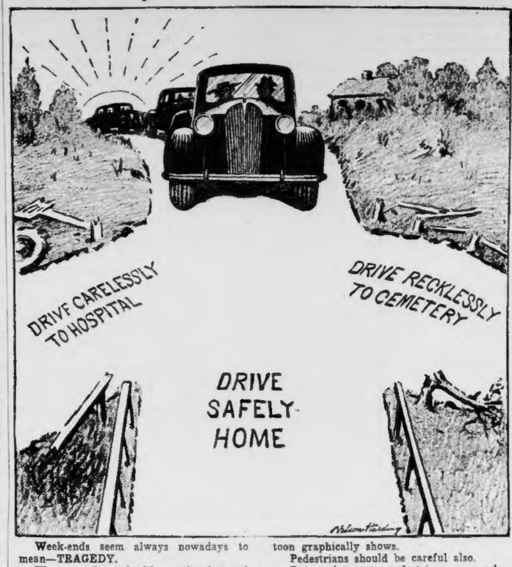
Which Way?

By Nelson Harding



Week-ends seem always nowadays to mean—TRAGEDY.

We are confronted with a national record of 50 to 100 dead and scores injured.

Which leads to the query:

"Are drivers only responsible?"

Pedestrians should be careful also.

But—sad to say—pedestrians, as a rule, are not traffic conscious.

They shuttle in and out between the "juggernauts." They ignore red lights.

Perhaps, and probably, the weekly death rate could be cut down if they also observed signals.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Elsie Robinson

"The Green Light"—great picture, wasn't it?

Few stories have hit America as hard—gone as deep. Perhaps that's because we see our own misery reflected in it . . . the struggle that had so many of us down during the depression years.

A beautiful and beloved woman dies on the operating table because a nervous surgeon blunders. The brilliant young doctor, who is assisting, is charged with the mistake, though innocent.

The older doctor, who is guilty, goes free. Embittered by the injustice, with his career seemingly at an end, the younger man goes into the wilderness to wrestle things out with fate.

Not merely the story of one man's misery, but of all men's.

Watching, you saw so plainly some similar period in your own life . . . a business gone wrong . . . the treachery of a friend . . . a loved one's death . . . a life dream raveling out. So poignantly you felt the anguish of it all again.

TO US ALL!

Your story. And then, as though he spoke to you, directly, the crippled pastor's words.

"To us all," he said, and your glance slipped in pity to his own crippled legs, "to us all there comes a time when something forces us to slow up . . . a time when the Red Light flashes, 'STOP!'"

"Then, for a while, we can only wait . . . carry on as best we may. But presently—sooner or later—the signals change!

"The Red Light shifts to Green . . . and the Green Light flashes, 'GO!'"

"A time comes when the Red Light flashes, "STOP!" Yes, he knew what it meant to wait, with the straight, fine body twisted, at one stroke, to a shuffling wreck. And you knew, too—knew so well how it felt to have the Red Light signal, "STOP!" The loneliness . . . the hurt . . . the sick despair . . . the weak hands beating on the empty air—yes, you knew!

THE HERO'S SECRET

But that wasn't all you knew. There was something else—something you never discovered unless you went through it yourself. "The signals change . . . and the Green Light flashes, 'GO!'" These words seemed such a comfort, such a glorious promise, if you didn't know.

But suppose the Green Light flashed too late? Suppose you'd "stopped" so long that you'd lost your willingness to "Go"?

Courage didn't just mean FIGHTING BAD LUCK—

It meant BEING WILLING TO GIVE BAD LUCK UP—

And to grab a fresh start when it came!

Marry —Go— Round

By Helen Rowland

Thousands of women could sue a stock-ticker, an office-desk or a golf-course for alienation of their husband's affections.

When a woman reaches the point where she can be "reasonable" about her husband's "innocent flirtations" with other women, her love has already gone to its last rest.

Many a successful business man has acquired a reputation for dependability and promptness by the sweat of his stenographer's brow.

A man's favorite method of spoiling his life seems to be to marry something beautiful-but-dumb, and then spend the rest of his days playing around with women who "understand" him.

It is nearly always the accidental meeting, or the chance acquaintance, which leads to marriage—not the planned campaign; because a girl is always so much more natural and attractive when she's not out for conquest.

No man has any trouble in understanding women, once he learns that every woman likes the same brand of "applesauce," with the flavor changed to suit the individual.

The trouble with men is not that they grow old—but that most of them never grow up.

The Rocket Experiments

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Edwin C. Hill

"As the airplane gave man freedom from the earth, the rocket offers him freedom from the air."

These are the words of a very cautious man, one not given to extravagance in speech, one who has a bent for cold science and the reticence of a scientist.

His name is Charles Lindbergh. Ten years ago he climbed into an airplane on a Long Island field at dawn on a May morning. He was an unknown from the Middle West, a boyish looking fellow who thought that an airplane could be piloted up the American coast, over Newfoundland, across the Atlantic Ocean, Ireland, England, the Channel and on to Paris, without a stop.

He believed that alone in the cockpit he could make that trip. Not one hundred among the 120,000,000 other Americans thought that he could. They hoped and prayed for his success, but as they did they shook their heads in doubt.

About 15 years before Lindbergh's flight, two other Americans from the Middle West set up a crate-like machine on the sand dunes of North Carolina, attached a motor to it and a steering wheel, and lifted it from the ground. Nobody expected that they could do it. But the Wright brothers showed the world that the flying machine was practical.

WE SCOFF NO MORE

We have seen so much in this country that we no longer are scoffers and skeptics, even when we are told by Colonel Lindbergh that a rocket enthusiast "in an unguarded moment might prophesy that we will eventually travel at speeds governed only by the acceleration which the human body can stand, and that in rocketing between America and Europe we will accelerate half-way across the ocean and de-celerate during the other half."

Our leading rocket man today is Professor Robert H. Goddard of Clark University, and this year he has proved to the satisfaction of fellow scientists his theory that a rocket may overcome the pull of the earth, and, thus breaking through, become a meteor and wander through space until the end of time.

For five years Professor Goddard has buried himself in the New Mexican desert to build rockets and experiment with them. His latest product, a torpedo-like missile some 15 feet long and weighing 80 pounds, was shot into the air at a speed of 700 miles an hour to a height of a mile and a half. The rocket which is to conquer gravitation, if and when built, will need a speed of 21,000 miles an hour to enable it to escape the pull.

Professor Goddard not only has proved that his rocket will develop tremendous speed, but he has solved also the question of control of the flight. By a gyroscopic arrangement he keeps the rocket straight, and he slows down the return to earth by a parachute which is released automatically.

FRANCE WORRIES

Furthermore, the motion pictures which he made of his test disprove the supposition that the shock of the start of a rocket would shatter anything that it might be carrying. His rocket goes up in a graceful, easy style.

Colonel Lindbergh in his writing on rockets says "that from the standpoint of war we must consider the fact that rockets may carry explosives faster than the airplane and further than the projectile."

This brings to mind the fact that the French have been concerned by reports that Germany has been experimenting with the rocket as an offensive weapon. Alarmists in Paris even dream of a chain of rocket bases which, from distant points beyond the Rhine, might rain thousands of tons of explosives upon France in the event of war.

For the practical present the main problems are carrying capacity, cost and control. What Professor Goddard seeks first is a lighter rocket, to go twice the distance of the heavier one with which he has had success.

Six years ago an Italian at Milan travelled in a rocket for 34 seconds and lived to tell the tale.

Who will say that 60 years from now a rocket won't make the 238,857-mile trip to the moon, carrying some sort of flares by which watchers on the earth may note its arrival there?

On the Nail

By Benjamin DeCasseres

The country is prepared to listen to one of the most momentous debates in the FREE SENATE of the United States that the country has ever listened to.

It will be on the question of the Administration bill—to enlarge the Supreme Court.

The power of Congress and the President to enlarge the Supreme Court cannot be questioned. What will come under fire will be the purpose and effect of the proposed increase from nine to 15 justices.

The bill has been reported out of the Judiciary Committee unfavorably, although this committee is overwhelmingly Democratic.

The historic League of Nations debate in 1919, which resulted in a defeat for the Wilsonian measure, had Senators Borah, of Idaho, and Johnson, of California, in the same position that they are today—against the President.

Other members who took part in the League of Nations debate who are members of the Senate today are Senators Ashurst, Robinson, Harrison, Pittman, Gerry, Smith, McKellar, Sheppard and King—for the League—and, besides Borah and Johnson, Senators Walsh, Caper, Hale, Norris and McNary—against the League.

It's BUMPS, not bouquets, that make character.

At least that is what President Hopkins, of Dartmouth, believes. He said in his valedictory:

"NO REAL FRIEND OF YOURS COULD WISH THAT YOU SHOULD NEVER FACE MISFORTUNE, THAT YOU SHOULD NEVER UNDERGO HARDSHIP, THAT YOU SHOULD NEVER BE BESET BY DIFFICULTIES. IT IS NOT SO THAT VIGOR OF MIND OR STRENGTH OF CHARACTER IS DEVELOPED."

Those young men who have just graduated and who figure on "gliding through" life as if it were a Strauss waltz or who are already looking for a 50-room mansion on Easy Street will get more BUMPS than medals or bouquets.

Physicians at their recent annual meeting in Atlantic City told us that the "duller you are the better off you are."

The old stock-in-trade monkey was trotted out. The monkey is happier than man because he knows less.

Continuing this same mode of reasoning, it would be better, then, to be an oyster than a man. In fact, it is better to be dead than to be alive, for the dead are "happy."

Socrates said that he would "rather be an unhappy man than a happy pig."

The grandeur of life lies not in a mythical happiness, but in EXPERIENCE, KNOWLEDGE and STRUGGLE.

The recent passing of Jean Harlow illustrates once again how profoundly we are interested in the lives of those who present to us the world of make-believe.

The deaths of Wally Reid and Rudolph Valentino, like the death of Miss Harlow, excited world-wide comment for many days. More persons were interested—almost personally, it seems—in the lives of these persons than they would be in the death of rulers of nations.

No medium that has ever been invented has allowed more human beings to escape the drudgeries of reality than the motion picture.

It is magic that the world always seeks for, and those who dramatize it for us become our heroes and heroines—and we canonize them.

Happiness never gets into the newspapers. Contentment has no Shakespeare to dramatize it. A quiet life uses no trumpet from the housetops.

So Mr. Norman Dine of New York thought it about time to let the world—which seems to be a kind of Bedlam of crime and war and marital knockouts and drag-ins—know that he and Mrs. Dine were as happy as the proverbial two bugs in a rug by inserting this notice in a New York paper:

"My wife Terese not having left my bed and board after six years I am cheerfully responsible for all debts incurred by her. Norman Dine, 235 West End avenue, New York City."

That's That

The most flagrant breakdown of the Treasury Department is in the collection of foreign debts, NOT in the collection of domestic taxes. When installments on the World War debts are due from our former allies, all the treasury collects is "regrets." True, Finland pays cash and does that promptly. But Finland pays as a matter of principle and not because of any collecting ability on the part of the Treasury.

If, when England, France and Italy came to this country during the World War to borrow billions, we had told them, "sorry, but we have no money to lend," they now would be a part of the German Empire. Without the help of American dollars and American man power, they never could have won the war. They should not be allowed to forget that.

Already it seems to have been forgotten abroad that we have made big reductions in the debts due us. Most of the original loans called for the payment of interest at 5 per cent. Congress later reduced this to 4¼ per cent. Then we entered into debt funding agreements in which interest rates were slashed to less than the United States had to pay on the billions it had borrowed to lend abroad.

Our debtors refuse to even try to pay that. Yet, in our international relations, we treat them just the same as if they were honorable nations instead of being deadbeats.

The suggestion by Congressman Dies of Texas that the Treasury quit borrowing money on tax exempt bonds to buy foreign gold and pay for such purchases by issuing gold certificates seems reasonable. He says American taxpayers now are paying about $70,000 a day interest on money borrowed to buy gold, and that gold is lying idle, doing nobody any good.

Such a policy is foolish, to say the least. And the practice of buying gold from foreign nations which claim they are too poor to pay anything on their debts to us is even worse.

What in the world is the United States coming to? To protect workmen he had hired to remodel a house in Independence, Kans., Circuit Judge Southern of Kansas City borrowed a shotgun and guarded them after supposed strike sympathizers had threatened them with violence unless they quit work.

It is the duty of government, not of individual employers, to protect men who have legitimate jobs and want to work.

But when government lays down on the job, courageous citizens are going to stand up for their own rights.

The 19-year-old murderer who laughed after a Spokane, Wash., jury had condemned him and his 21-year-old brother to death for killing a man in a bank robbery will discover that the kind of death which awaits them is no laughing matter.

He may talk now about "soaking our necks in salty brine to get ready for the rope," but as he waits, counting the days and hours and minutes and even the seconds before he goes to his doom, he will find there is nothing funny about that.

The worst punishment connected with a death sentence is the waiting. The death decreed for a murderer may be painless, but thinking about the end which is ahead of him must be enough to break down the most hardened criminal.

Over in England, there are said to be people who think the United States may be induced to become a part of the British Empire. They believe the lower class in this country are so interested in royalty and its spectacular shows that England will be sure of American support if Great Britain becomes involved in another war.

We should have learned from our experience in the World War not to let our sympathies run away with our judgment.

It is absurd to even talk of the United States ever returning to the British fold. But it would be logical for Canada to drop out of the Empire and become a part of the United States.

Tennessee has added 1,216 laws to its statute books this year. And Tennessee is only one of the 48 States in this Union. Talk about MASS production! Private industry can't begin to compare with government in that line. We have a national Congress, 48 State legislatures, and a host of municipal legislative bodies grinding out new laws all the time.

Theoretically, "ignorance of the law is no excuse," but no human being lives long enough to even READ all the laws which are supposed to be in effect in this country, much less know what all of them are.
